Wheat Market is Weak and Small Demand for New or Old Sends

DEMAND FOR CORN IMPROVES OMAHA, Aug. 5, 1915. OMAHA, Aug. 5, 1815.

The wheat market showed considerable weakness today and declined 7c. The receipts of this cereal were light and there did not seem to be much call for either the new or the old variety.

Corn receipts were fair and there was a pretty good demand for the yellow and mixed grades. The demand for white corn improved a little and there were a number of cars sold. The corn market sold $\frac{1}{2}$c lower to $\frac{1}{2}$c higher.

Oats remained firm with light receipts and a pretty fair demand. They were quoted ic higher.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS Festures of the Trading and Closing Prices on Board of Trade.

Prices on Board of Trade.

CHICAGO. Aug. 5.—Conditions that allowed threshing to be resumed throughout important sections, especially in Nebraska. did a good deal today to pull down the price of wheat. The market closed unsettled, kightle to 15 under inst night. Other leading staples, too, all suffered a net decine—corn kight to kightle to his costs kie to lightle and provisions 25007Mec. Better weather had taken the edge off the bullish sentiment in wheat long before trading bogan. Clearing skies over the entire belt brought a rush of selling orders to nearly every firm on 'change. Not only was there greatly improved activity reported as to threshing and shipping the winter crop, but the outlook in the spring wheat states was presented in a much more successful spirit than was the case on the previous day. At the same time, however, the uncertainty expressed as to black rust was sufficient to make traders cautious about pressing the bear side on extreme breaks.

Signs of somewhat cularged export buying brought about a raily in the wheat market after midday, but the effect failed to last.

Corn went lower with wheat. The cool

Corn went lower with wheat. The coo emperature prevailing, though, acted as ocheck on the bears.
In the oats crowd, country offerings were more plontiful. Values tended downward almost from the start.

Hig receipts of hogs sent provisions lowngrade. Many stop-lose orders were brought into play. Support from packers after caused only an incomplete raily.

than two weeks ago, and 7,000 head short of the corresponding days last year.
Old sheep were in rather limited supply, and most of them were cashed fairly early in the morning at fully steady figures, native ewes bringing as high as $6.35, with others on down to $6.00. The few fat yearlings here sold stronger, a little over a deck of good handyweights reaching $7.30, the best figure paid for some time.

little over a deck of good hands weights reaching $7.30, the best figure paid for some time.

The lamb trade was very slow in getting started again this morning. Buyers were willing to give nearly steady prices right from the outset, but as they put it, "sellers were looking for that dime they lost yesterday," and it was well along in the forenoon before the first sales were finally made at about the same prices as were paid yesterday, a small string of lambs breaking the ice by selling at $8.80.

When everything was said and done, it was, in most instances, no more than a steady market on lambs, although one four-load string that brought $8.90, looked a dime higher. These lambs were better than anything here yesterday, and the best on today's market, but packers claimed that they would under no consideration have brought over $8.50 yesterday. Bulk of lamb offerings sold at $8.90 again today, with shippers taking another two loads at $8.55, and the four loads previously mentioned reaching $8.90, the top for the day, and with the exception of one load at $8.00 Tuesday, as high as has been paid for something like three weeks. Eight care of lambs, about half of which were fat enough for killers, sold to a feeder buyer at $8.50, with 400 head out. This can hardly be classed as a feeder sale, as killer buyers bid on half of which were fat enough for killers, sold to a feeder buyer at $8.50, with 400 head out. Eccentric Artist Describes Trip to the Mexican Border

A mysterious card was received by Cadet Taylor. It is addressed to "Joe Bee, Si Putnam done with no little artistic skill and much humor. It seems to be done in the style of the Indian sign language.

& Co., Omaha, Neb." It contains a pictorial story of a trip from Auburn, Neb., to El Paso, Tex.,

For example, at the point marked "K. C." rain is pouring down.

At the point marked "Joplin, Mo.." is the picture of a baseball glove, three balls and the legend, "75 cents," this being interpreted after arduous researches by Archeologist Taylor as meaning that the glove was pawned for the sum of six bits. A chair and table such as are usually found in low drinking places are also depicted and the before-mentioned acientist asserts that this indicates what immediately followed the transaction at the house of the three balls.

At Howe, Okl., there is a picturization of a stack of buckwheat cakes, surrounded by a halo and close by a cup of steaming Rio. The mail carrier first tries The Bee as a possible addressee. Nothing doing, Unbaffled, he took it finally to Cadet Taylor, who is president of Putnam & Co., real estate. Probably the intended recipients will never receive it and the skill of the anonymous artist will be wasted on the desert air.

Deserter from Army Gives Self Up Here Claud M. Hunter walked into the army recruiting station Wednesday and re-"I am a deserter from the army and want to give myself up.'

He explained that he was stationed at El Paso with Company A, Sixth United States infantry, but he didn't like it there. While drowning his discontent in sicohol he conceived the idea of taking French leave of Uncle Sam's brave boys in blue, which he did just about a month

He drifted to Omaha and repented (without the aid or consent of "Billy" Sunday, however).

He expressed the ardent hope that he will not be sent back to El Paso. He prefers to be stationed farther from the border.

Sergeant George F. Johnson took him to Fort Leavenworth today, where he
