

ASKS $15,000 AS BALM FOR HEART

Miss Lucille West, Stenographer, Sues Charles W. Shaffer for Breach of Promise.

SAYS SHE LEARNED TO LOVE

Miss Lucille West, formerly a stenographer for the Lion Bonding and Surety company, has brought suit for $15,000 heart balm against Charles W. Shaffer, secretary of the company, in district court.

The suit was filed by Broms & Broms, as her attorneys. No attorneys' lien on the expected judgment has yet been filed.

Miss West sets forth the following story in the petition filed by her lawyers:

Employed as Stenographer.

Was employed September 8, 1911, as stenographer for the Lion Bonding and Surety company.

Received attentions of Mr. Shaffer and in October, 1914, she alleges, was asked by him to marry him.

Learned to love the defendant and to place much faith in him.

On January 1, 1915, she alleges, accompanied the defendant to Council Bluffs and was led into indiscretions of conduct, on which she bases her claim for $15,000 damages.

Miss West left the employ of the Lion Bonding and Surety company a week ago. She alleges that during the time she was employed there she appeared in a number of public places in the company of Mr. Shaffer.

Shaffer's Side of the Story.

Charles W. Shaffer, secretary of the Lion Bonding and Surety company, defendant in a suit for $15,000 heart balm, brought by Miss Lucille West, pretty stenographer, learned of her demand for damages at Elk Horn, whither he had gone to spend the afternoon fishing.

"I can only say that I deny the girl's charges and that her demand for money is outrageous," he declared. "There is no basis whatever for it. It is proceeding to a surprise to me. At the proper time I will be able to characterize the affair more fittingly."

Mr. Shaffer is married and has a family. His wife has frequently visited the offices of the Lion Bonding and Surety company, where Miss West was employed, according to her story. Miss West alleges that she was induced to love Mr. Shaffer by promises of marriage.

Miss West has been living at the Harby hotel for several days. Previously she was at the Sanford hotel. Recently she has also resided at 200 Cass street and at 207 North Thirtieth street.

The young woman has told friends in Omaha that she has lived in many cities in the middle western and eastern sections of the country. Her home formerly was in Memphis, Tenn. Miss West declared to acquaintances that a restless spirit had prevented her from living long in one place.

Fireworks Giving Thrills Each Night at War of Nations

"The War of the Nations," the fireworks melodrama, which is thrilling nightly at the new fair grounds, is the most spectacular carnival of fire ever produced by the Theatre-Fair company.

The engagement began last Thursday and will continue for three nights. The show will continue for three nights.

"The War of Nations," which represents the time of pyrotechnic art, is presented on an open air stage, 400 feet long. About 500 people take part in it. It pictures the siege and capture of a city in Belgium or northern France. The place is defended by forts and trenches. The long columns of the bested army rush to the attack. Huge guns flash and thunder. Machine guns sweep the hostile ranks with streams of fire and death.

Armored automobiles train their rifles upon the enemy. Bursting shells fill the air. Aeroplanes and dirigibles, manned by living operators, crowd the sky. The town is swept by flames. The golden cathedral falls. Public edifices and homes crumble down in one vast ruin. Soon the prosperous city is in ashes.

In an interlude before the battle, a dozen high-class vaudeville acts are staged. Afterwards, two tableaux are presented. One represents the "Horror of War," the other "The Blessings of Peace." The performance about with a $1,000 display of fireworks. In this dazzling exhibition liquid bombs are shown for the first time in this city and by what seems the magic of pyrotechnics, a gorgeous rainbow is hung across the heavens.

Tonight is "Peace" night, with special fireworks, including an immense American flag in fire.

Chauffeur is Badly Burned Trying to Save Autos from Fire

While trying to rescue two automobiles from a burning barn in the rear of 1210 South Eleventh street, Joe Costenno, taxi chauffeur, whose stand is at the Union station, was terribly burned about the hands and face early yesterday morning.

Frank Procopio, owner of the barn, was slightly burned about the hands. Volney Burgeon Zimmerman sent Costenno to St. Joseph's hospital. His condition is regarded as serious.

The fire was discovered by Costenno, who lives with the Procopios. He sounded the alarm and rushed outside, half clad, to rescue the machines. He succeeded in getting his own car out of the barn, but in doing so his clothing caught fire and he collapsed. The barn was entirely destroyed, as were two other autos. The cars were owned, it was said, by Joe Costa, Fifth and Chicago street, a saloonkeeper, and Peter Mascuro, Eleventh and Pacific streets.

The property was only half covered by insurance. Chief Sailer could not locate the cause of the blaze.

KRUG PARK POPULAR AS THE WEATHER WARMS UP

Krug park is attracting much attention. One of the many attractions that has gained considerably in popularity is the picnic grove covered with grass and many pretty shade trees. It offers opportunity to take an outdoor lunch and frolic under the trees without the usual discomforts attached. The riding device continues to attract large crowds, while dancing and roller skating have proven the popular entertainments of the summer.

Realistic Wreck of Two Giant Engines to Be Staged in Omaha

That two trains moving in opposite directions cannot pass each other on the same track, is to be publicly demonstrated at the auto speedway in Omaha on Labor Day, September 5.

Ever since the first railroad was built and operated in the United States this problem has arisen, and notwithstanding that numerous attempts have been made to demonstrate the feasibility of the proposition that two trains moving in opposite directions can pass on the same track, every attempt, voluntary or involuntary, has resulted in disaster. All spectacular exhibitions witnessed heretofore should pale into utter insignificance on Labor Day when the two eighty-ton locomotives, their swirling pyramids of steam shading a brilliant sun, come together in one stupendous crashing climax of hissing vapor surrounded by bursting bands of burnished steel.

This magnificent spectacle, which will be the climax to the big afternoon's program, which starts at 2 o'clock, should dwarf any other attempt at entertainment on this great labor holiday, and those who view the mighty monsters of the rail tearing toward each other like twin whirlwinds of irresistible power, will never forget that intense moment.

In the rapidly approaching spectacle this factor is eliminated; there will be no sudden shock to hurt men and women into eternity, but the realism, the express speed, the roaring steam, the fires spread under boilers that quiver with pent-up power will all be there. The thrill will be in evidence, but the element of danger will be absent.

Seldom has the pleasure seeker been permitted to view such an awful catastrophe as a head-on railroad wreck.

Colonel J. S. Connolly, an expert railway engineer and surveyor, is the originator of the head-on collision and will personally supervise the construction of the exhibition track at the speedway. The track will be constructed across the center of the paddock, directly north of the dirt track, in front of the grandstand. New eighty-pound steel rails will be laid on as fine a roadbed as it is possible to build, so that the engines, which attain a great speed, will have a smooth running, making the big bump realistic in every particular.

Never before has such a realistic exhibition been arranged in Nebraska, never before in the history of things theatrical here have two such mighty monsters been sent crashing to total destruction. The great machines will be started on the same track at a distance sufficient to permit great momentum when they crash together in front of the grandstand. Details are being formulated which will include a full afternoon's program of events and excursions on all railroads to carry the great crowds within a radius of 100 miles of Omaha, who will take advantage of this once in a lifetime opportunity of witnessing a railroad collision.

TODAY'S BEAUTY SUGGESTIONS

Face powder simply covers up an unattractive complexion and leaves no lasting benefits. Those who have tried a simple sprumax face lotion find it much better, as it removes skin discolorations, such as freckles and dirt, and makes the skin smooth, white and velvety. This lotion is made by dissolving four ounces of sprumax in one half pint hot water, then adding two teaspoonfuls glycerin. This complexion beautifier does not rub off or show like powder, and gives a more refined appearance. It removes both shininess and sallowness, rapidly giving the skin a permanent healthy, youthful appearance.

An especially fine shampoo for this weather can be had at trifling expense by dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cup of hot water. Pour slowly on scalp and massage briskly. This creates a soothing, cooling lather that dissolves excess oil and dirt. Rinsing leaves the scalp spotlessly clean, soft and pliant, while the hair takes on a glossy richness of natural color, also a fluffiness which makes it seem very much heavier than it is. After a canthrox shampoo arranging the hair is a pleasure.—Advertisement.
