Mothers Who Get Pensions Must Make Accounting

BROKEN BOW, Neb., Aug. 25.—A new ruling in the mothers' pension cases has been made by County Judge Ford that probably will find favor with other judges throughout the state. In granting a pension to the minor children of Mrs. Dorcas Leo of Arnold the court said: "I am going to make a new ruling in these pension cases. I shall require the applicants to render to me an itemized statement at the end of the six months showing how they spend this money. As I understand the law, it contemplates the use of this money for the minors and not for any other person. One reason I have arrived at this conclusion is that they are to be used for the support of the minor children. If the money has been, from all appearances, at least, putting all this pension money upon her own back, I have noticed that she is clothing herself much more expensively than she did before she received the pension and I notice that her children are not looking any better. The above, however, is not the only reason, for, after a careful study of the law, I believe it to be the duty of the court to know how this money is spent and if it is not used judiciously to discontinue the pension. Therefore, all orders from this court granting pensions will also contain an order requiring the applicant to render at the end of the six months an itemized statement showing how the pension is spent, and I believe that this will aid me materially in determining whether the applicant is entitled to a renewal or not."

Various Forms Of Headache

"It is necessary in order to treat headaches properly to understand the causes which produce the affection," says Dr. J. W. Hay of Hockton, Ala. Continuing, he says: "Physicians cannot even begin the treatment of a headache until they know what the cause is, and we must remember that headache is to be treated according to the same rule. We must not only be particular to give a remedy intended to counteract the cause which produces the headache, but we must also give a remedy to relieve the pain until the cause of the trouble has been removed. To answer this purpose Anti-kamnia Tablets will be found a most convenient and satisfactory remedy. One tablet every one to three hours gives comfort and rest in the most severe cases of headache, neuralgia and particularly the headache of women."

The Halfway Men

By James O'Hara Day

THE fields of failure are populated by the halfway men.

If every man reached the point he started for in his youth, success would be the un-failing rule.

As it is, failure is one of the commonest incidents in life. That's because there are too many halfway men.

They go a certain distance, and then, discouraged by not reaping a swift reward, they lose their grip, slip back and take the final fall.

More business undertakings have gone to ruin by the halfway route than by any other thing. The people who can stick—and stick—and stick to their jobs are the ones who land on top.

And the way to stick is to figure every day something valuable for your business.

The wealth of Morgan was not made overnight, and there was a time when John D. Rockefeller was in the clutch of poverty.

There was one thing that put them over—they were not halfway men.

One of the most usual types of halfway men is he who cuts corners and tries to accomplish a false economy in his advertising.

If the public can be interested in your goods on Monday, it can be equally interested on Tuesday.

If you get results from advertising three days a week, you can calculate, without the aid of Euclid, that you will get more results by advertising six days.

If 10,000 people know who you are because you advertise once a week, the chances are that 50,000 will know you if you advertise all the week.

The halfway advertiser is his own worst enemy. He is neither clever nor effective. He is nibbling at something whose worth has been demonstrated beyond the shadow of a doubt.

He has not enough brain to appreciate that his predecessors in commerce have written down the un-failing axiom, "It pays to advertise."

It does pay to advertise.

And, that being true, why aren't you getting all the pay possible out of it? Every time you fail to realize your expected profits on a line of goods you are disappointed.

Why, then, are you not continually disappointed when you realize that you are losing money by not utilizing properly the best agency for accumulating business?

Be wise. The halfway man is a highwayman against his own business.
