RURAL DELIVERY PATRONS IN PARADE AT LOUP CITY

annual picnic of rural route patrons, who came through town in parade with eightysix floats in line prepared by farmers living on the route. Besides these were many on horseback and many children on foot. These floats for the most part consisthed of decorated carriages, automobiles and wagons and very largely presented the products of the soil.

The procession formed at the farm house of Supervisor W. O. Brown on the south side of the river two miles out of town and marched through town around the square and east to Jenner's park, where they arrived on schedule time for dinner. It is estimated that there were fully 500 people in the parade and about 700 people who saw the procession.

The business houses of the town, in response to a request, closed their doors from 1 o'clock to 4 o'clock p. m. in honor of the rural free delivery picnic, and a very large crowd of people attended the ball game and other afternoon amusements. During the parade the Chenoweth Film company's representative took motion pictures of the parade, which was headed by the Loup City concert band of twenty pieces. The event closed with a public dance at the park in the evening.

JOHNSTON VICTOR OVER M'LOUGHLIN

Defeats Fellow-Townsman in Match for United States Tennis

COURT PLAY IS SENSATIONAL

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 7 .- W. M. Johnston of San Francisco won the United States singles championship here this afternoon by defeating his townsman, Maurice El McLoughlin, 1-6, 6-0. 7-5, 10-8,

The contest which developed the roost sensational court play since the famous meeting between McLoughlin and Brookes on the same strip of turf a year ago, was an exhibition of both racquet skill and court generalship. Another factor and the winning one was that of endurance and in this respect the wictor had a decided advantage over the vanquished, especially in the long drawn out fourth set, Johnston's ability to keep McLoughlin in deep or midcourt most of the time while he used his short ground strokes and back winning points in crucial times.
