Dullness and Irregularity Are Striking Features of Market.

BETHLEHEM STEEL GAINS

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Duliness and tragularity were the striking features of today's stock market, which was saved from sheer stagnation by a continuation of professional manipulation in the war shares. Those I suss made up a very considerable part of the small output and in keeping with recent perform nees in this group a few new high records were scored.

in keeping with recent performances in this group a few new high records were scored.

eisthlehem Steel made a maximum gain of 16% points at 180%, or 14% over its recent best and Crucible Steel, which led the market in point of activity, rose 5 points to 180%. Crucible preferred enjoyed a simi ar distinction, rising 2 to 107%. Other stocks of this class trailed alons at gains of 1 to 2 points. The movement in war shares was the more notable because of the apathy manifested toward investment issues. These were mostly lower, when quoted at ail, but their part in the day a operations was negligible. Book Island became strong toward the close of the seasion on word from Chlcage that money to meet impending interest oblications would be provided. United States Steel, generally regarded as the balance wheel or barometer of the market, rose and fell within narrow limits, being subject to steady pressure. Total sales amounted to 16,000 shares.

Conservative Wall street devoted most of its consideration to negotialions attending the Anglo-French credit situations the Anglo-French credit situation and Washington exchange of views with Berlin. Opinions of tankers respecting the reported plan and acope of the proposed international loan are not allowed has make for some steadhness in the remittances to that center.

London and Europe as a whole were again sellers here, but in comparatively small amounts. Prices for Americans were 1 to 2 points lower. Rumors that Amsterdam was negotiating the sale of a large amount of German-owned American securities lacked confirmation in international banking circles.

The local bond market was irregular at the outset, but made improvement later. Total sales, par value, aggregated $2,655.

United States bonds were unchanged on Number of sales and leading quotations on stocks today were:

ndence of the Associated Press.) STOCKHOLM, August 16 .- The fall of Warsaw and the failure of the Russian defensive campaign to prevent the German invasion of Poland have had a much more profound effect upon Russian national feeling than is admitted in dispatches from Petrograd. The feeling which has shaken stolid and unemotional Russia from one end to the other is not one of discouragement or submission

Avalanche or Criticiam. These soldiers were determined, experienced fighters, Russia's best troops, acquitting themselves with unusual bravery in every bayonet action, but crippled and finally demoralized by insufficient ammunition and the knowledge that it was this lack of ammunition that ordered the continued retreat from one position to another. The most rigidly censored press in the world and a national and inherent inhibition of free comment of any sort has falled to check the avalanche of criticlam and the accusations which have been made against the government officlais who are held responsible. For once expression of opinion in Russia has become free and unhampered. No attempt is made to conceal this reproach against the methods of the bureaucrats who are accused of having crippled Russia's fighting strength. It is not expressed alone by men of revolutionary inclinations or opposition tendenules, nor is it uttered in husbed voices or secret places, but is loudly and clamorously current everywhere among men of all parties and classes. A prominent member of the Duma said to an administration correspondent in TWO GIRLS SAY HEATON Petrograd a few days ago:

"The Russian people are on th threshold of a great awakening. Everyone in Russia, officers, civilians and moufiks, know why Russia has been compelled to surrender a large part of its territory. They know that they have good officers and that the fighting strength and spirit of the Russian troops are as high as at the beginning of war.

the delivery of ammunition. "In my opinion in this present awakening of the army and the people to the oriminal neglect and corruption of their officials there are the germs of the most serious revolution Russia has ever known-a revolution supported by the army. This revolution will come as soon as the war is over."

A common view is that the evil is ac-counted for by the residue of German influence which still exists in the various departments of the government. Numerous meetings in Petrograd denouncing corruption of government offi-cials were broken up by the police, at which it was openly declared that cer-tain Russian officials were defeating attempts of the army to win the war and that, while they continued in power, vic-tory was impossible.

The allegation was made that the Rus-sian officials who superintended the purchase of war munitions were pri-marily interested in seizing the opportunity which the war offered them of Mrs. John C. Howard, wife of J. C. Howard of the Webster-Howard Insurance company, and her son. Burton, 3224

A short time before the fall of Warsaw it seemed that the situation had been greatly improved by the arrival of 1000,000 shells. It was not until these were taken to the actual firing line that it was discovered, according to reports, that they were a fraction of an inch too large to fit any Russian gun. By an odd coincidence, however, they were of the exact caliber to fit some of the German artillery. It also is well known that a large mount of shrapnel was offered Russia by American manufacturers six months ago, but for some reason or other was not accepted. Since that time Russia has been forced to buy the same shrapnel at almost double the first price quoted.
