NEBRASKA girls and boys are just now in the theatrical limelight of New York.

Fred Ballard, otherwise John Frederick Ballard, who was the author of the Craig prize play at Harvard, "Believe Me, Xantippe," has had his new play presented at the Astor theater by Cohan & Harris. It is making a great hit there, George Cohan having given it his personal attention as producer. Ballard is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and is well known in Omaha.

Ottola NeSmith is taking a leading part in the new play called "Just Outside the Door." Miss NeSmith will be remembered as the daughter of Captain and Mrs. Otto NeSmith, formerly stationed with the signal corps at Fort Omaha.

Grace Leard, formerly of this city, who is known to the stage as Belle Storey, has just returned from the east of "Chin-Chin," produced by Charles Dillingham, with Montgomery and Stone as stars. She is one of the principals in the cast of the new Hippodrome show, being produced by Dillingham, which will have as one of its stars Nat Wills, the former vaudeville favorite. This show is of the nature of revues, like "Watch Your Step," "Dancing Around," etc. Miss Leard was the soprano in "Chin-Chin," and sang many of the leading songs, which have since become great hits. She is the daughter of a former Presbyterian minister here and has relatives in Omaha and Fremont.

FALL EXPOSITION OPENS

Annual Autumn Display of Latest Style Creations at Burgess-Nash Company is Inaugurated.

STORE IS NEWLY DECORATED

With the entire store decorated in the soft tinted foliage of autumn and the display windows newly draped and dressed for the occasion, the annual fall exposition opened at the Burgess-Nash company yesterday and will continue to hold attention the remainder of the week.

While the fall exposition is essentially an exposition of women's ready-to-wear garments, the whole store has assumed a "style show" atmosphere. At the sixteenth street entrance a Cupid fountain has been installed, which adds a garden-like appearance to the store. Fine streams of water pour forth continually and changing colored lights make an effulgent effect.

Leaves, shrubbery and foliage, all of the subdued red, orange and yellow of fall, are abundantly scattered from the top of the building to the bottom. From the ceilings, from the corners, from the uprights, from the counters, from every available place the fall foliage is hung. The big display windows are all carefully draped in the same manner. The latest creations in women's apparel, evening gowns, afternoon gowns, walking suits and millinery are exhibited in all of the windows along the sixteenth street side of the building. But the window displays are only a brief representation of the display on the second floor of the store, where the women's department is located. There countless gowns of countless designs, materials and colors are to be found. Every product of the master craftsman who decorates what lady shall wear is included in the magnificent array.

Scores of women anxious to learn what they must wear this fall flocked to the Burgess-Nash company and all pronounced the autumn exposition the best and most complete yet staged at the store.

CARNIVAL LOT IS BEING PREPARED

Carpenters Are at Work on the Arches at the Two Main Entrances.

COLONNADE SHOWS THE WAY

The enclosure of the Ak-Sar-Ben carnival grounds is being built now with considerable speed. Carpenters are at work on the two entrance arches at Fifteenth and Howard and at Sixteenth and Jones streets. While the main entrance is to be at Fifteenth and Howard streets, there is to be another entrance for the accommodation of the South Side people at Sixteenth and Jones streets.

The preliminary work of decorating is in progress along Fifteenth street, between Howard and Douglas streets, a distance of three blocks. A white colonnade is to extend on either side of the street for this distance. The columns are to support rings and clusters of white lights.

Maybe an army balloon, a dirigible, will be on exhibit at the carnival grounds. It will be of sufficient space can be found on which to anchor and exhibit this monster. This is the army balloon purchased from the United States War department at Fort Omaha by Randall Brown and Gold Dietz, members of the board of directors. Since this monster would take up considerable space on the grounds, however, it is not yet definitely decided whether it can be given room there. It would require a space eighty-five feet by forty feet.

WILL REPEAL THE NEAR SIDE STOP

City Council Tuesday Morning to Vote for Return to the Old Far Side Stop Rule.

KUGEL ONLY ONE FOR THE REAR

The near-side stop car ordinance which went into effect a month ago will be repealed by the city council Tuesday morning and the old far-side stop plan will be resumed. Although it will be fifteen days before a repealing ordinance will be in effect, it is understood that by agreement the street car company may return to the old plan within a few days.

The vote in the city council committee of the whole was six for repeal and one against, Commissioner Kugel taking his former position that the near-side stop is a reasonable and proper regulation for the congested district.

People for Far Side.

In offering a motion for the repeal of the near-side stop ordinance, Mayor Dahlman said: "I have watched the operation of this ordinance and I want to say you won't find one man in ten in favor of it. Not one man or woman in my neighborhood favors the near-side plan. It is an inconvenience to the public and offers no more protection from accidents. I would suggest that the near-side proponents put the matter up to a referendum vote if they have any doubt as to public sentiment."

C. G. Powell and J. B. George of the Omaha Automobile club spoke for the

An Overburdened Wife.

If the work that women do and the pains they suffer could be measured in figures, what a terrible array they would present! Through girlhood, widowhood and motherhood woman toils on, often suffering with backache, pains in side, headaches and nervousness which are tell-tale symptoms of organic derangements which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—made from roots and herbs—can undoubtedly correct. Women who suffer should not give up hope until they have given it a trial.—Advertisement.

Traffic Cops for Near Side. "I don't believe the street car company has given the near-side stop a fair trial," said Commissioner Butler. When it came to the vote he went with the majority for repeal.

Sergeant Sigward and Traffic Officer Chapman of the traffic squad told the commissioners that their experience has been in favor of the near-side stop.

Attorney Yates for Ed Getten and others presented a petition of 10,000 signatures asking for repeal of the ordinance. W. I. Kierstead said a special referendum election would be demanded by citizens if the council did not repeal the ordinance.

Letters and statistics were offered to show that most cities of the country have found that it reduces accidents and facilitates travel in business districts.

Former Husband of Miss Salyers is Visiting Parents

Boys and Girls in General Meeting Hear Mrs. Gamlin

The first of the boys' and girls' meetings in Omaha was held Sunday morning at the Congregational church, when 500 gathered from fourteen different churches and took part in the services for an hour before the tabernacle meeting. Miss Allos Gamlin, "Billy" Sunday auxiliary worker, spoke to the young people. She is to hold similar meetings in various parts of Omaha throughout the rest of the week.

Miss Gamlin's text was "Behold, I Have Set Before You an Open Door." "The sinner in the weakling," she said. "It takes courage to stand for Christ. Most young people do not realize this. The boy or girl who is a Christian is the one who has courage."

"I might talk about open doors into the world of business. I might talk about open doors into greater church activities. But I will talk about the open door to salvation."

She gave examples of those who have entered the open door of salvation.
