By MELLIFICIA. Friday, October 1, 1915.

"WHAT'S in a name?" the bard did inquire. "Enough to completely befuddle our senses." We faintly would reply.

All this by way of explanation for the absolute blank of our mind when confronted by some of the names of colors used in the description of gowns to be worn at the Ak-Sar-Ben ball.

"Field mouse meter," I read with dismay. Field mouse! Why, I close my eyes and scream at sight of a plaid, ordinary, everyday mouse; then how can I be expected to know what color a field mouse is? I never saw one, and wouldn't know him if I did.

Here is one "claret cup" satin. Sounds interesting, to say the least. "Stenna!" Now what color do you suppose that could be? I looked it up in the dictionary and found that it was an orange-yellow to a reddish brown tint. I have one consolation. I don't believe you knew it, either; now, did you?

One of the modistes whom I consulted waxes quite poetical in her description of colors. Sunset, dusk, blossom, mist and horizon are some of the descriptive colors she gave me.

Veteran, nectar and spray, however, are among the colors I gave up in despair.

The origin of these names and their application have about as much bearing as the appellations of Pullman cars to their surroundings, which reminds me of the story of a well known young Omaha lawyer who wrote to a friend, telling him he had named his small daughter "Audrey."

"What did you think you were naming—a Pullman car?" wrote back the unfeeling young man, who was not a benedict, needless to remark.

WOODBURY NOTES

VAST GROWTH HERE

Former President of the Omaha Water Company Notes Wonderful Progress Made.

VISITS THE WATER PLANT

"Omaha has certainly made a vast improvement in the three and a half years since I was here last," said Theodore C. Woodbury of New York, former president of the Omaha Water company, who is looking in on his old associates and friends.

"I was over in Iowa on a business mission and did not want to go back without looking at Omaha. It was May, 1912, that I was here finishing up the transfer of the water works to the city, and I am struck immensely by the progress that has been made in the building of the city.

"I was out to the water plant at Florence and noted the improvements there, too. The plant is being well kept up, and many things have been accomplished that we would have done had we had the money which the city now has without limit. The fact that so many of our old men have been kept in the responsible positions is best proof that our water company was well managed, and they are doing good work for the city too.

"We are in the midst of a suffrage campaign in New Jersey, where I live, and the active speakers on both sides are the same who took part in the campaign in Nebraska, and keep reciting their Nebraska experience.

Modern Dances Are Barred in Parks by New Rules Just Out

C. S. Spooner has been appointed supervisor of dancing in the Hanscom park pavilion. The floor has been prepared and the dances will be started next week. The Recreation board announces the following set of rules for the regulation of these dances:

All reservations must be made by groups of bona fide standing in the city and are held strictly accountable for the actions of the group while on the property. Failure to conform to these rules will mean forfeiture of the use of the park property in the future and expulsion from the premises at the time of the infraction of the rules and regulations.

Only waltzes, two-steps, schottische, square dances, three-step to three-step music will be allowed. Modern dances are prohibited. No charges made for the use of the park and no group shall make a charge of admission or sell any commodity within the limits of the park. Hours shall be from 7:30 to 11 p. m. on week days, except Saturday, when 11:45 will be the closing hour. No dances permitted on Sunday.

Dodimead Gets Good Start in Suit for Alimony

Whether Mrs. Katherine Dodimead, proprietor of a rooming house, shall pay $3 a month for the support of her husband during pendency of a divorce suit, was not determined at a hearing held in Judge Sears court.

The court ordered Mrs. Dodimead to pay $10 immediately to her husband out of money in her possession, alleged to belong to them jointly and this was done. The subject of temporary alimony and other issues between the husband and wife were postponed for two weeks.

Rush for Wyoming Homesteads Over

S. E. Howard of the Burlington land department has returned from the Goshute Hole country of Wyoming, where he went to be present at the opening to homestead entry of 150,000 acres of land lying just over the Nebraska state line from Scott's Bluff county.

According to Mr. Howard, at the time he left, Thursday, about 500 persons had made selections and apparently the rush was over. In the tract there was land enough for some 250 homesteaders at 160 acres each.

Already the best of the land has been taken and the remaining tracts are only fit for grazing. The government's plan is that after October 25 all land unclaimed may be filed upon in lots of 500 acres each by men who have previously filed on 160-acre homesteads, thus giving a number of the settlers farms of 250 acres.

"Come Now and Let Us Reason Together"

No, this is not to be a sermon, but a heart-to-heart talk with you for your benefit as well as ours. A few days ago we were introduced to a lady in our store. After discussing several matters she said: "I have just made a discovery." We thought we were expected to say, "What is it?" and so we did. "You are the man who writes the ads. You write just as you talk." Blushingly we admitted the impeachment. That's just what we want to do. We want to talk to you, to reason with you, so that we may get together for our mutual good. We are going to give you, therefore, REASONS which in our judgment should draw you to the store of

CORSETS FITTED BY THOSE WHO KNOW HOW

Perhaps there is no make of Corset in the world better suited to most women than the Redfern. You wouldn't think that a corset had anything on earth to do with winning a bridge game. And yet here's what one woman said recently: "Unless I can forget my corset, and concentrate on my game I cannot win. That's why I wear a Redfern." Now, women will know just what that kind of comfort means. Something like a well fitting shoe, we suppose. A blessed unconsciousness as to whether you have feet or shoes. Miss Coleman, our head fitter, says: "We have a Redfern for practically every figure. Indeed with a Redfern we can produce that grace of form which you please unless you please unless you please—help which cannot help but appeal to those who care—and what woman doesn't care? Style after all counts for more than a pretty face and the corset is the foundation. We expect to talk corsets for a little while. This little cut is but the thin end of the wedge—More to follow. Telephone for fitting date if you desire prompt service.

Bon Bon! Comfits! Comfits! Lollipop! Fondant!

OH, FUDGE!

What we want you to know about is

COBB'S

Some day we are going to give you a list of some of the Candies he sells. A good doctor who prescribes the candy counter every Saturday, says: "Cobb is synonymous with good when connected with candy." Doctor is right. You never saw more men at a candy counter than you will find visiting Cobb. There's a reason, all right. Mr. Man when he buys candy wants the best. What is Praline? Ask Cobb.
