

CARVER MAKES ALL KIDS GO TO SCHOOL

Only Forty-Eight Permits Have Been Issued to Allow Youngsters to Go to Work.

MANY REQUESTS ARE REFUSED

Attendance Officer Carver reports that since the opening of eighty-one public and parochial schools of Greater Omaha four weeks ago he has issued only forty-eight permits for boys and girls to go to work in contravention of the compulsory education law.

Of the forty-eight special cases referred to twelve were instances where the youngsters were 14 years of age and had reached the eighth grade. The law fixes 16 as the age limit, but exceptions are made in cases of younger ages if the pupils have reached the eighth grade.

Mr. Carver has to refuse many requests from parents to allow their children to go to work. An Italian girl claiming to be 15 years of age, and of rather stunted growth, called with her mother at the attendance officer's office yesterday. The girl begged for a permit which would exempt her from school.

Work for Mother. "See my mother here, she is old. I want to work for her," said the girl. She added that her mother needed new shoes and pointed to the old shoes as evidence of that fact. She said she could not go to school this winter because of lack of warm clothes.

"If you do not have proper clothes I will see that they are furnished you," said Mr. Carver.

He told the girl she would have to go to school or be brought before the juvenile court.

"I investigated this case the other day; was at the girl's home and spent half an hour. One of the boys of the home is working and the father is able to work, although he may not have work just now. This is a typical case where the parents believe that as soon as a girl is 15 she should be sent to work to help pay her expenses," explained the attendance officer.

Franklin's Girl Unwieldy.

Mr. Carver's report was furnished a runaway automobile, for his work. It did not take the boys long to know he had this car. During the week he was going through Hanson park when the engine of his automobile went back on him and the car came to a sudden stop. He heard the sound of boyish laughter. Investigating, he discovered two truant boys hiding under a nearby bush. He started his engine and took the boys into custody.

Mr. Carver thought it was rather singular that his machine should stop at this very spot where the young truant were covertly gloating over his plight.
