THE Omaha social world is agog today over the statement made by Mrs. C. W. Hayes at a meeting of the Woman's club yesterday, that the example for improper dancing was set at the country clubs and the Ak-Sar-Ben ball.

Miss Gladys Peters, daughter of the president of the Country club, M. C. Peters, and herself a graceful dancer, was highly indignant at Mrs. Hayes' assertion. "It is perfectly absurd. I have never seen anything reprehensible in dancing at the Country club. I don't think Mrs. Hayes has ever been to the Country club. If she would come out there she would positively not see anything of which she did not approve."

Mrs. F. W. Shotwell, an attractive matron of the Field club set, said there was no improper dancing at the Field club. "You see what you are looking for. I haven't been looking for it and I haven't seen it. Furthermore, the dance craze is on the wane at the Field club, as far as I know. Some children came home from school this summer and brought some new steps, but there was no harm in that. If we would supervise our thoughts with regard to dancing, I'm thinking there would be no need to supervise the dancing."

Miss Alice Duval, daughter of Eugene Duval, and popular in the younger set at Happy Hollow club, said:

"I have seen no objectionable dancing at Happy Hollow in any way, shape or manner. It's the way you look at it, the same as trouble. If you are hunting trouble, you find it. I wasn't looking for anything improper and I didn't find it."

"I think that older people who sit around watching the dancers find evil in something the youngsters are doing most innocently with no thought of evil themselves, just in a spirit of enjoyment."

Schantz Realizes Ambition in the Enlarged Bank

Albert L. Schantz, head of the enlarged State Bank of Omaha, has long cherished the idea of being president of just such a large state bank as the enlarged bank now is.

When he came to Omaha ten years ago, he remarked to Henry Kleeser, who was then associated with him in the Bennett store, that he had an ambition to form a gigantic state bank.

When the state banking law was changed Mr. Schantz said: "Now is my chance," and he took advantage of the state deposit guarantee law and organized the State Bank of Omaha.

Another incident of the move from the old quarters of the State bank to the new is that Mr. Schantz was one of the prime movers in the building of the City National bank building and he still holds a large block of stock in the building.

Mr. Schantz is now head of the enlarged bank of which he had so long planned and has it quartered in the magnificent building which he helped to build.

Mme. Gadsdi Wires She Does Not Need Voice Insured

More than aggressive, the young man who called on Manager Franke at the Auditorium was quite importunate. He wanted to arrange an appointment to see Mme. Gadsdi. He was sure she would want to see him. It would be to her advantage.

"How so?" Mr. Franke inquired, but the energetic young gentleman did not like to tell. For some time he hung fire and then the truth came out. He was an insurance solicitor. He wanted to insure the voice of the famous soprano, as soon as she should come to town to fill her concert engagement next Monday night at the Auditorium.

Manager Franke said there wasn't the slightest use of bothering the song celebrity—that she probably carried all the insurance she could stand.

"No, she doesn't," the young man doggedly insisted, and he brought forth a newspaper clipping to prove his point. She was quoted in an interview as saying that while great pianists could get their hands insured, and while violin virtuosos could insure their fingers, there was no way for a singer to insure her voice.

"Now, my company," said the solicitor, seizing the manager by the lapel of his coat, "will write voice insurance. Be glad to."

The young man was told to please not think of trying to see the singer. But the solicitor held to his point. He would telegraph her, so he would. And did. Manager Franke has received this message from Mme. Gadsdi's manager:

"No insurance. Not needed. In all her life Madame has never had even a slight cold. As needless for her to carry insurance as to put lightning rods on the ocean."

The Clerk Guaranteed It.

"A customer came into my store the other day and said to one of my clerks, 'Have you anything that will cure diarrhoea?' and my clerk went and got him a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and said to him, 'If this does not cure you, I will not charge you a cent for it.' So he took it home and came back in a day or two and said he was cured," writes J. H. Berry & Co., Salt Creek, Va. Obtainable everywhere. All druggists.—Advertisement.

Ninety reservations have been made for this affair.

My, How My Feet Hurt!

How often a woman makes this exclamation HERE'S RELIEF

For the woman with foot troubles, we say, "Come, let us show you what our makes have done to ease the pain of your feet."

We have specially constructed shoes; made one size smaller at the instep and two sizes at the sole. The snug fit over the instep and through the heel at the same time allows the foot to rest wholly on the sole as it should, and not on the uppers. The stock used is the finest kid. The soles are very flexible and not chemically tanned, and will not burn the soles of the feet. Do not suffer with your feet, when you can get shoes like these. Two styles: Dress and common sense toe, button or lace.

A Single Application Banishes Every Hair

(The Modern Beauty.)
Here is how any woman can easily and quickly remove objectionable, hairy growths without possible injury to the skin: Make a paste with some powdered talcums and water, apply to hairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off. Wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This is a painless, inexpensive method and, excepting where the growth is unusually thick, a single application is enough. You should, however, be careful to get genuine talcums.—Advertisement.

New Goods Forced Out So That This Great Establishment May Open With Wearables that are Only "Hours Old"

Every item of ladies' wearing apparel now at the store of Julius Orkin, 1510 Douglas street, is new; new this fall; possibly as new as anything that may be picked up in the New York markets. Yet, Julius Orkin is not satisfied to open this newly remodeled and enlarged establishment with ANY of the wearables that are now in stock. Far rather, says he, sell them at a sacrifice; quickly; so that NOTHING may stand in the way of the brand new stock he is at THIS MOMENT buying in the style markets of New York City. Julius Orkin intends making an IMPRESSION with his new establishment and is going to make the impression with EXQUISITE, late style wearables.

Speaking of remodeling, let it be understood that while plenty of finishing touches must yet be put in on this establishment, one may readily see what sort of a trade palace will loom up here in a few days. The handsome front is complete; the two buildings are already thrown together; but many of the fixtures, carpets, etc., are lacking. But everything is in readiness to make shopping comfortable and to exhibit goods properly. Carpenters' noises have been eliminated and you may shop with peace of mind. And to shop here within the next few days means that you will be able to pick up almost any article of wearing apparel at a stirring, positive, heavy reduction in price.
