IOWA LIQUOR LAW IS TO BE TESTED

Legal Department to Take Hand in Suit of Brewing Company Against Rock Island.

QUESTION UP IN CHICAGO

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 14.—(Special.)—The state legal department will probably take a hand in the liquor injunction case brought by the Hamm Brewing company in the federal court in Chicago against the Rock Island Railroad company in which a temporary injunction was granted against the Rock Island's refusing liquor shipments into Iowa.
The court took the position that the old federal law which authorizes the delivery by carrier to the consignee, or some one having a written order from him, was good. The attitude of the state officials is that the old law relied upon by the Chicago court has been superseded by the Webb-Kenyon law, preventing shipments of liquor and transportation of state laws in the delivering liquor. The Iowa law prohibits delivery to anyone other than the actual consignee.

The effect of the ruling has been that the Rock Island has accepted liquor shipments under the court's order while the other lines have continued to refuse shipments considered in violation of the Webb-Kenyon law.
The argument on the question of making the temporary injunction permanent is to be had in Chicago October 21. State officials will probably get into the case and seek to uphold the dignity of the Iowa law. It is pointed out that if the federal courts hold that the Iowa law may be deliberately ignored by reason of the old law, which has been superseded by the Webb-Kenyon law, it will mean that when Iowa goes dry next winter the gates will be opened for interstate traffic and mail order business will have no restraint.

Build Gravel Roads.

Now that Polk county has undertaken the building of gravelled roads, citizens of Norwalk in Warren county and farmers living near there are planning to build a gravelled road to connect with the Polk county road into Des Moines. The first gravelled road to be undertaken by the Polk county supervisors is from the end of the paving on South Ninth street to the Warren county line. This brings the end of the gravelled road to within three miles of the corporate limits of Norwalk. The Norwalk Good Roads and Improvement association has been formed and money is being subscribed to build this intervening three miles of gravelled road. The Warren county Board of Supervisors will be asked to contribute. This would give a gravelled road ten miles long.

Creamery Fight On.

The fight of the centralized creameries to obtain reduced freight rates on carload shipments of dairy products is being opposed by the small dairymen and creameries. Judge Quarton of Algona, president of the Iowa State Dairy association, has been in Chicago this week opposing the reduced rate. It will be discriminatory, he asserts, and will injure the co-operative creameries. The big companies endeavored to secure a similar rate from the western freight classification organization six years ago, but failed. Iowa has a law which compels a big creamery to pay uniform prices for milk and cream throughout the state and since it has been in operation the small creameries have become more numerous. Now, they say, if the big creameries are to be favored with rates on carload shipments, of which the small creameries could take no advantage, it will be hard on the small creameries.

Trunk of Whisky Seized.

A trunk, which had made several trips to Omaha empty and had come back filled, aroused suspicion when it appeared in the baggage room again last night heavily laden. Police officials, whose suspicions had previously been aroused, went to the baggage room and seized the trunk. Upon opening it they found it contained ninety-six pints of whisky.

Wants Books for Farmers.

At the opening session of the Iowa Library association at Colfax, L. L. Dickerson of Grinnell, president, made a plea for the distribution of books to the rural residents of the state. He said that a survey of three rural districts by University of Iowa graduates recently disclosed the fact that few books were to be found in these districts. The farmer is a good reader, he said, but he has too few books to select from. One hundred and seven librarians and trustees from all over the state were present.

Boost Iowa Stock at Frisco.

Iowa breeders of cattle, sheep and swine have no fear that they are going to lose much business because they have not been permitted to exhibit at the Panama-Pacific exposition. The members of the Iowa commission, who have been taking care of Iowa's interests at the fair, have prepared a pamphlet setting forth the prominence of Iowa as a cattle producing state and have prefaced it with the grand champion awards received by Iowa's horses at the exposition. These pamphlets are being liberally distributed. Iowa was only permitted to compete in the utility horse classes and in these it won every grand championship.

Woman is Loaded with Fifty Pints

MASON CITY, Ia., Oct. 14.—(Special.)—The only woman transporter who has ever tried to break through the strong wall thrown about Mason City was arrested last Tuesday. She had been at Albert Lea, and in a valise carried fifty half-pint bottles of whisky. She refused to give her name, but it was learned that she was Mrs. Frances Munson. She said the liquor was not for herself, but for another. She refused to divulge the name. Judge Hayes fixed her bond at $100. She was unable to secure this and was locked up in the county jail to await a hearing.

WOMAN HAS NEAR VICTORY

Mrs. Gail M. Wilkins Telegraphs Status of Kidnaping Case to Des Moines Chief.

TROUBLE IN DIVORCE COURT

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 14.—(Special Telegram.)—A telegram received by Chief of Police Crawford this morning from Mrs. Gail M. Wilkins, whom he is said to have assisted in escaping to St. Joseph with her child, indicates that she has partially won her fight for its custody, although the message is by no means clear.

The telegram states that the child was brought into court as a result of habeas corpus proceedings having been instituted and that it is now in the court's custody. The court ruled, the message says, that the application was insufficient, because adoption papers giving the child to the parents of her husband had not been recorded in Polk county.

Picking Summer Home for Wilson

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—President Wilson probably will not return to Cornish, N. H., next summer, but instead is considering transferring the "summer capital" to the New Jersey shore. He has occupied the residence of Winston Churchill at Cornish each summer since becoming president.

A committee will see the president tomorrow and urge him to select a residence on the New Jersey coast for next summer, so he may be easily accessible during the early presidential campaign. The committee has in view for him the beautiful summer residence of the late John A. McCall at Elberon, just south of Long Branch, named "Shadow Lawn."

Obregon Denies He Is Disloyal to His Master, Carranza

TAMPIOCO, Mex., Oct. 13.—(Via Laredo, Tex., Oct. 14.)—General Alvaro Obregon, who is conducting Venustiano Carranza, head of the army, on a tour of inspection, learned today that rumors of his loyalty had been published in the American papers. Reports that he was about to break with Carranza have been current in Mexico for many days.

"It was with the greatest surprise that I read of this account of a break with the first chief," he said to a correspondent of the Associated Press, and requested a denial of it.

"It is well known," continued Obregon, "that I invited him into the north in order to show him just what has been accomplished. Had I been planning to break away, it is unlikely that I would have done this, and the warmth of our meeting here and the evident friendly relations that exist certainly must serve to indicate the falsity of those stories. They are absurd."

Carranza's time today was taken up largely in receiving callers and accepting social favors from his friends here.

Accompanying Carranza is Ignacio Bonillas, head of the department of communications and public works. The visit of Bonillas to Tampico was attended by material benefit to the shippers of Tampico. The bar at the mouth of the harbor had increased in size until it had practically closed the port to larger vessels. Oil tankers have been leaving port only partly loaded, and there appeared likelihood that the exportation of oil would be stopped entirely. Attention of Bonillas was called to the situation and he issued orders today for a dredge to be brought here from Frontera and placed at work immediately to deepen the channel.

Obregon rendered to Carranza a report in detail of operations in north and central Mexico.
