MEETINGS TODAY. 12:15 p. m.—Sunday at Brandeis theater. Men only.

Those valiant and persistent members of the gentler sex, who are fighting the battle for equal suffrage stormed the tabernacle yesterday afternoon, captured the corridors and then triumphantly invaded the main part of the building, the rostrum, the platform and the pulpit.

The front of the pulpit bore a great yellow banner, a banner that bore this strange device, "Votes for Women." Similar banners were tacked to the front of the platform.

When the meeting opened it seemed that everybody in the "Tab" wanted votes for women. "Rody" asked everybody who was in favor of woman suffrage to rise and the audience rose as one man, or rather as one woman, for at least nine-tenths of the 7,000 present were women.

Bouquet for "Billy." Then up came a great bouquet of yellow flowers for "Billy" and "Ma" from the woman suffrage delegation. And then a big cake, a yellow cake, baked by a member of the South Side Suffrage League, was presented to the members of the Sunday party.

Takes Hat Off to Devil. "Billy" actually "took his hat off to the devil" in his sermon. "The devil admitted that Christ was the Son of God," he said, "and for that I have more respect for him than I have for some fools I've met."

GREECE REJECTS THE ALLIES' OFFER OF ISLE OF CYPRUS

Hellenic Monarch Does Not See Way Clear to Accept Proposals of the Quadruple Entente Powers.

ATHENS' REFUSAL DEFINITE

Confederates Feel, However, that Show of Force Will Have Some Effect.

RELY ON PUBLIC SENTIMENT

LONDON, Oct. 22.—The Greek government has informed the quadruple entente powers that it does not see its way clear to accept the proposals, including cession of Cyprus and other concessions offered in return for Greek military co-operation with Serbia.

While Greece's refusal of the offers is definite so far as the present is concerned it is felt by London commentators that a material strengthening of the entente allied contingents at Saloniki would have a very material influence upon the attitude even of the Greek government.

It also is believed by observers here that Greece cannot persist in its present ambiguous position and that public opinion which is generally understood to favor the entente allies probably will exercise its influence.

Court Holds Road Cannot Refuse the Liquor Shipments

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—A permanent injunction was issued today by Judge Carpenter of the United States district court restraining officials of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railway company from refusing to accept and deliver consignments of liquor to points in Iowa and to agents of the consignees on the written order of the latter.

A plea against making the injunction permanent was made yesterday by C. A. Robbins, assistant attorney general of Iowa, on the ground that the court order compels the railroad officials to violate the law of the state of Iowa, which directs that liquor consignments must be received by the consignee in person.

The order of the court provides that the consignees must designate the drayman or other carrier who is to receive the liquor and that the shipment must be marked for personal use and private consumption. The order also sets forth that the court decided the state of Iowa was entitled to the relief asked in the petition of intervention.

A temporary injunction was granted six weeks ago.

ACES BACK TO BACK CAUSE OF HIS DEATH

Once Too Often Did S. E. Brodkey Have the Big Card in the Hole—Friends Get Suspicious.

TRY TO GET BACK LOSSES

Upon aces, back to back, is laid the blame for the suicide of S. E. Brodkey, well known pawnbroker of Fourteenth and Douglas streets.

Once too often in various "friendly" card games did Brodkey get an ace up and an ace in the hole. He tripped himself up, finally, and the dilemma in which he found himself led to his self-destruction.

This is in substance the story that is circulating among his friends and acquaintances and stirring to its very depths the circle of Jewish folk in which he associated.

According to accounts which are amply verified, a little group of men, of whom Brodkey was one, had been in the habit of visiting around at each other's homes, particularly on Sunday evenings when free from business cares, and enjoyed little suppers, after which the table would be cleared to make room for cards. The same was poker and the speed of the playing could be imagined from the limit, which was ordinarily $5, and Brodkey nearly always had to "dig up." The score for a year or more, it is said, left him more than a thousand dollars loser.

Then one day not so long ago, a hard-up professional gambler entered his store to seek a pledge and the talk accidentally drifted to cards. Brodkey lamented his poor luck and complained of his constant losses, to which his customer remarked that it might not be so much in the playing as in the cards.

"I can tell you how to change your luck and show you how to win!" The professional returned later with a few decks guaranteed to produce three-of-a-kind, straight-flushes and full houses. "If you use these you won't have any more trouble settling at the end of a game," the professional is said to have laughingly told the pawnbroker.

The test fell in fertile soil. A week or so later Brodkey was host at a little dinner of friends. At the end of the evening his guests called him phenomenally lucky and departed quite a few dollars behind.

The next session took place also at the Brodkey place, and several more. From the "good thing" poker player he always lost, Brodkey developed into an inviolable winner. He always seemed to know when to "lay down" and when to "bluff."

One night one of the company, after losing considerable, picked up a pack of cards and stuck them in his pocket. Then came the blow off.

Brodkey was accused of ringing in a phoney deck and the victims demanded their money back. Brodkey returned some and explained that he was "making jokes." Then nearly all who had been playing with him from the start commenced to worry him and kept it up. To friends he declared that some of the losers were taking advantage of his position by demanding more than they lost, and he asked them in intercede and set him straight again.

Want All Back. The losers, however, insisted upon their demands in full, and even went so far as to engage a lawyer to commence prosecution. "They're trying to bankrupt me," Brodkey complained a few hours before he swallowed the poison draught.

The exposure of the marked cards came a few weeks ago. Since then Brodkey had been persistently sought after by his former card table playmates. The story leaked out and the suicide was the culmination.

Though forced to admit the use of marked cards, Brodkey at times insisted that by their use he had got back only about half what he formerly lost while playing with men who knew the game better than himself.

BULLETIN

LONDON, Oct. 22.—British casualties published since October 1 total 2,285 officers and 50,072 non-commissioned officers and men.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Serbia's military position is critical. Hammered by superior forces on two sides, its armies are threatened with being crushed, as no army has been crushed during the war.

Not only are these facts admitted in England, France and Russia, but they are reflected in official Serbian statements. The key to escape from this situation is the speed with which France and England can throw forces north from Saloniki, in the hope of relieving pressure from the Austrians and Germans in the north and the Bulgarians in the east.

The Bulgarians are now battling under the eyes of King Ferdinand. Notwithstanding the presumably superior artillery of the Austrians and Germans, it is the flank attacks by the Bulgarians that seem the most menacing to the Serbians. At few places are the Teutons as much as twenty miles south of the Danube. In fact the ground gained averages a depth of only ten miles.

Advantage for Bulgarians. The Bulgarians for their part are displaying tremendous energy, indicative of carefully laid plans preceding the declaration of war. With twenty miles of the Nish-Saloniki in their hands, they have a strategic advantage which it will be difficult to overcome.

The movements of entente troops from Saloniki are still unknown to the public, but if any considerable forces have been detailed for the task of doing for Serbia what England attempted to do for Belgium, it must be heard from soon.

From Sofia and Saloniki come denials that the Bulgarians have lost Strumitza. This means that Bulgarian soil is still free from invasion.

It is reported that Turkish cavalry is co-operating with the Bulgarians, and that a great battle is raging at the Macedonian town of Velese, where the Serbs won.
