

The Tale of a Bee Want Ad

A young man of the push-ahead kind One day suddenly made up his mind He'd no longer be slow To the city he'd go; He felt sure that success he would find.

As he started to walk up the street, Hailed the first man he chanced to meet; Said he, "I'd like to know Just where I'll have to go To find rooms that are both clean and neat."

And the man he stopped made this reply: "Why, the Omaha Bee you should buy." So the paper he bought, Said he, "Surely I ought To get rooms in this town if I try."

As he opened the paper said he: "A fine list of rooms here I see; I'll rent one at small cost, And no time at all lost; That young fellow was not stringing me."

"If you're bound on a similar quest, You want rooms where you will find rest; If you take my advice You'll find rooms that are nice; A Bee Want Ad you'll find stands the test." —L. V. Smith.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

You Can be Whatever You Want to Be

You can be a success—and a big success—if you have ambition, energy and nerve. Men fly because they wanted to fly—because they wanted to fly more than they wanted almost anything else—because they kept at it until they had accomplished their purpose.

You young men and young women cannot fail if you really want to be a success—if you have ambition and energy, and strive to succeed. But you must learn about business before you go into it. A business education will double—triple—multiply your earning powers many times—enable you to sit on the "Board of Directors."
