AMO THAT'S

The Tale of a Bee Want Ad.

A young man had some stock in a mine; When he bought it he thought it was fine, But the stock did not pay, Till a note came one day. And the note he got made his eyes shine.

"I will now buy a house and a lot With this surplus of cash that I've got, It goes without saying, No rent I'll be paying, For I'll buy a home, cash on the spot.

EXACTLY AN' I'LL FIND ITAKW WANT

> "I want one not too high in price, Tho' it must in location be nice.
> All my friends say to me, You should look in The Bee, And I think I will take their advice."

Now, advice this man did not ignore; He found houses for sale by the score, And one place that he found Sults him down to the ground-He knocks on the Want Ads no more.

The cold weather is fast drawing near But of hard times he need have no fear, On cold nights he won't roam, For he owns his own home, With his title and-so-forth all clear,
