

DEFENDS RIGHT TO USE PICKETS

Judge Baker Argues Before Bedick on Application for an Injunction.

CASE IS UNDER ADVISEMENT

Judge Ben S. Baker defended labor's right to use picketing and the boycott in its "eternal conflict with capital."

All labor organizations of the state are interested in the Princess theater case by reason of the fact that the most comprehensive exposition of the rights of labor during strikes yet made in Nebraska was outlined by Judge Baker.

"Picketing in and of itself is not unlawful, but when accompanied by violence or coercion is unlawful," a statement made by the late Judge Munger of the local federal court, defined the distinction between the legal and illegal acts of strikers, Judge Baker declared.

Cites Previous Decisions.

Numerous decisions upholding injunctions against picketing and boycotting were cited by Sullivan & Rait, attorneys representing the theater. Judge Baker pointed out that congress had passed a law preventing federal courts from continuing to enforce such acts by strikers.

"The time will come," said Judge Baker, referring to the mass of conflicting opinions regarding struggles between capital and labor, "when courts will ignore decisions of other courts unless they are upheld by the judge's conscience, unless the decision are right."

"If the Missouri decision quoted to your honor is wrong, shall this court uphold it? The same court once before said picketing should not be enjoined. If we must follow precedent rather than justice, which precedent shall we select?"

"We pile up the shelves of our offices with books, books and books, and with irreconcilable decisions, until it seems that the lawyer who has the most books can pile up the greatest number of decisions, wins his case."

"Law has become too much of a conjecture. Let us throw this mass of conflicting opinions into a heap and apply justice."

The hearing was to determine the nature of the temporary restraining order which Judge Redick is to grant. Issues of law only were argued, Judge Baker making no resistance to an order forbidding intimidation or violence, but arguing that peaceful picketing should not be forbidden.

"The great conflict between capital and labor has been going on for many years," Judge Baker asserted, "and it will always continue. Labor wants all it can get and capital wants all it can get. Selfishness of human nature established that conflict, which will endure as long as men endure."

"Courts have no right to enforce peaceable means of carrying on that conflict," Judge Redick took the case under advisement.

Comes from Hawaii to Get Big Supply of Feeder Cattle

Coming all the way from Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands, in search of some first class feeder cattle, James McQueen of the Eurasian country finally found what he wanted among the traders of the Omaha live stock market.

He left yesterday for What Cheer, Ia., to inspect the herd of Filled Herefords belonging to R. O. Hazen, a trader at the local yards. He will also inspect several other top-notch herds of Iowa and middle western traders.

For years the Hawaiian stock officials have been importing pure-bred cattle and breeding them with the Spanish and Mexican variety that lived here when the United States took possession. Today they have about the best bred cattle in the world. One ranch alone is of 200,000 acres in extent and yearly contributes more than 100 head of cattle to the local market.

Ten thousand American soldiers must be fed besides the native population and about 100,000 pounds of meat supply are imported each month. The beef formerly came from Australia, but since the outbreak of the European war it has come from the United States.

The stranger, who took away five cars of pure-bred cattle five years ago, was greeted warmly by local stockmen. His selection of the local market preference to other stock centers of the world is considered a distinct compliment.

Omaha Retailers to Make Campaign for More Members

A campaign for more members will be inaugurated by the Associated Retailers of Omaha. This was decided at the regular monthly meeting held at the Commercial club yesterday, and W. G. Brandt, Charles Black, W. H. Straight and Elmer Beddoe were appointed a committee to conduct the campaign.

Sixteen charities were given the sanction of the retailers at the meeting. They are: Associated Charities, Associated Jewish Charities, Social Settlement, Association, Visiting Nurses, Child's Saving Institute, Children's Home society, Salvation Army, Young Men's Christian association, Young Women's Christian association, Scandinavian Young Woman's association, City Mission, Old People's Home, Creche, Volunteers of America, Nebraska Foreign association and the St. James orphanage.

The monthly report of the retailers showed that 2,521 new accounts were opened with members of the association during October as against 1,016 during October, 1914, and 2,276 calls were made as against 662 during the corresponding month a year ago.

The association decided to close all retail stores all day on Thanksgiving.

Sufferer from Indigestion Relieved. "Before taking Chamberlain's Tablets my husband suffered for several years from indigestion, causing him to have pains in the stomach and distress after eating. Chamberlain's Tablets relieved him of these spells right away," writes Mrs. Thomas Casey, Geneva, N. Y. Obtainable everywhere.—Advertisement.

JOSEPH HENABERY, former Omaha boy, who portrays President Lincoln in "The Birth of a Nation." His grandmother, Mrs. Herman Deiss, 81 years old, was a former nurse in the northern army, and is now living at 2018 Binney street.

Joseph Henabery, who was selected from twenty players who were coached and prepared for the part before the choice was made, is an Omaha boy, born and raised here and a former pupil of the Lake and high schools. His grandmother, now 81 years old, still lives here in Omaha and is looking forward to the opportunity to see her grandson work in the role where he portrays the martyred president. The boy's grandmother was a nurse with the northern army, so that the whole spectacle will be full of heart interest for her. Henabery has carefully counterfeited Mr. Lincoln's appearance and mannerisms even to the small but interesting detail of the president reaching back for his shawl just a few minutes before Wilkes Booth attacked him.

TO BAR CERTAIN OF MOVIE PICTURES

Mayor Dahلمان Introduces an Ordinance that Will Not Affect Current Picture.

NO FILMS TO SHOW HANGING

An ordinance to prohibit motion pictures, vaudeville, drama, songs, advertisements or bill displays which tend to incite race hatred or riot has been introduced by Mayor Dahلمان. The measure was referred to the committee of the whole for consideration.

The mayor announced that the ordinance was offered in behalf of citizens who objected to a motion picture production advertised for presentation at a local theater at an early date. This ordinance, even if it should be passed, will not be effective in time to operate against the motion picture in question.

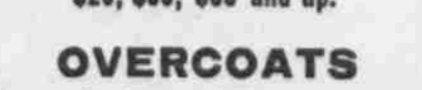

A section of the ordinance reads, "Or which shall represent or purport to represent any hanging, lynching, burning or placing in a place of ignominy any human being, the same being incited by race hatred."

During the week a delegation of negro citizens called upon city officials to protest against allowing a motion picture spectacle already advertised. The officials contend there is no law covering a situation of this nature.

A conference was held Wednesday morning at the theater where this picture will be shown. The "Birth of a Nation" will be shown in its entirety.

SOUTH SIDE HIGHWAYMEN SEVERELY BEAT VICTIM

Two thugs, who were hiding near the sidewalk at Twenty-fourth and S streets about 10:30 o'clock Wednesday night, attacked Ed Gay, 2028 M street, as he passed there on his way home. They knocked him down, beat him unconscious, and robbed him of his money, $2.70. As the men attacked Gay suddenly from behind, he was able to give only a meager description of them, when Detective Zandouek found him later and revived him. The highwaymen were both about 30 years of age, Gay thought.

AMSTERDAM MAN FALLS INTO HANDS OF POLICE

Frederich Heinrich Johan Schobert of Amsterdam, Holland, was brought before Judge Foster, charged with the theft of an alarm clock. Frederich told an interesting tale of leaving Holland to secure service in the army and of his experiences at work in this country. He was on his way back to New York from Salt Lake City, "had no cent," was hungry and swiped the clock to sell for wherewithal to buy food. He was discharged.
