OBJECT TO USE OF CARS FOR PEDDLING

Commission Listens to Arguments of Railroad Officials and Case Taken Under Advisement.

SHIPPERS DENY ALLEGATIONS

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Nov. 17.—(Special Telegram.)—Objections to the use of their freight cars as salerooms from which shippers could retail their goods at stations was the principal reason given by General Freight Agent Holcomb of the Burlington for the promulgation of an order by that road prohibiting the use of cars for that purpose, and which was the reason for the hearing today before the Interstate Commerce commission brought by retailers.

In the contention the Burlington was joined by General Freight Agent Lane of the Union Pacific. Danger from accidents caused by people crossing the tracks to get to the cars was another reason given for the order. The railroad officials were closely questioned by the commissioners and J. R. Duncan of the State Horticultural society, G. D. Christy of Johnson county, a leading apple shipper, denied the allegations of the railroads, and cited cases where the railroads allowed shippers of stock to use its yards for the purpose of sales without opposition by the roads. The commission took the case under advisement.

SHARP TELLS OF LATENT POWER

Nebraska Has Great Amount in Water Courses that is Yearly Going to Waste.

MARR IS ELECTED PRESIDENT

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Nov. 17.—(Special.)—Eliminating the usual speechmaking which has characterized the annual banquets of the Nebraska Manufacturers' association the members were given an hour of hilarity when President F. S. Marr of Omaha was pulled before a kangaroo court charged with the crime of attempting to wrest control of the Omaha government from its political boss. This morning the headliner of the program was an address by President Sharp of the Lincoln Traction company on water power development in Nebraska. Mr. Sharp has some strong ideas on the subject, and the members were much interested in what he had to say. He told them in part that $15,000,000 or $20,000,000 were floating unharnessed down Nebraska rivers into the Gulf of Mexico yearly, when the citizens could keep that amount of wealth within their state. "Three elements that must be present to create heat and power are wood, coal and oil—none of which Nebraska possesses," he said. "But Nebraska has a fourth element—water power—which the greatest engineers have pronounced of unlimited possibilities on Nebraska rivers." To create the present power in the state from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 are sent into other commonwealths annually. This sum, kept in the state, would increase the wealth, the population and the prosperity to a marked degree.

Stopped by Wilson.

After two years of surveying and map making and expert advice, Mr. Sharp explained how he had secured the necessary capital to back a development project, when the legislature interfered with statutes that would discourage the bravest investor.
