Turmoil Author of "Penrod," "The Gentleman from Indiana." "Monsieur Illustrated.

Pull of gentility, refinement and charm, You will hear the rip and roar of mountain streams and foaming rapide and know the joy of wild, coaing marsh lands under crunching boots. You will get in touch with the crude, rough life of the Big Woods with its sawmills and big-fisted men, and beneath its sometimes ugly surface you will find refinements and comedies of life even as it is lived in the city, only cierased and sweetened by the freshness and farness of the Big Woods.

The here is the son of a middle-west millomaire, whose outlook is bounded by the "bigness of business." He has no desire to be a captain of industry, but his father is relentless and forces him to get to work. The turmoil of the factory cannot kill the boy's dreams, however. The girl with whom he fails in love accomplishes more than the father even hoped for.

Athalie CHAMBERS Author of "The Busine of Life," "The Comme Law," "The Hidden Children,"

"Athalie" is the startling story of a gir who was strangely clairvoyant and whose whole life was shaped and colored by this peculiar power. To her keen vision came the shapes that pass us unobserved. In tune with another world, she saw beyond our conventions, beyond our petty notions of right and wrong.
