PUBLIC HOSPITAL

Endorse Suggestion by The Bee that City and County Officials Get Together at Once.

OMAHA BEHIND OTHER CITIES

Omaha physicians heartily endorse the position of The Bee in urging that city and county officials get together at an early date for consideration of a municipal hospital which will meet the needs of this metropolis.

"This is the only city of its size that can think of where a city hospital worthy of the name is not provided," declared Dr. Newell Jones. 'I can say from observations and experience that Omaha should have a public hospital, with isolation wards. I had a patient out this evening in their room in he diphtheria. There was no place where the court house, and all members must | the girl could be taken for proper obwear their badges, for none will be ad- servation. There is real need for the institut on in question and I believe now is the time to consider the matter seri-

Dr. Frederick J. Wearne said: "We need a public hospital worth while, We should make it possible to remove all patients having contagious disease and thus afford others in the same dwelling to have freedom to go and come. That is only a city cases are even sent to St. Joseph phase of the situation. Omaha is a large city now and needs a modern and adequate public hospital with isolation wards."

Other Cities Lead Omaha

"At the present time we have evidence of the real need of a large hospital, with wards for various classes of patients, as you will find in nearly every other city of the land," said Dr. M. J. Ford. Othere physicians offered similar expressions

Unusual prevalence of scarlet fever at this time, not regarded as a serious epedemic, necessitated the health commissioner to call upon the council for an and maintenance of a small private hospital at Twenty-second and Lake streets. The so-called City Emergency hospital at 912 Douglas street has a capacity of about sixty patients and has reached its

GRIFFIN LOOKS FOR BIG YEAR ON NORTHWEST COAST

E. C. Griffin, general agent for the Northwestern, with the north Pacific coast country as his territory and Portland, Ore., as his headquarters, has returned home accompanied by his wife and daughters. Mr. Griffin had been spending his holiday vacation with friends and relatives in Omaha.

Mr. Griffin looks for considerable of a boom throughout the entire Pacific coast country next year. He asserts that there emergency appropriation of $2,000 for rent is evidence of a revival in the lumber industry, and that toward the east there will be a good movement of building material as soon as winter ends. A good many settlers are coming into the Pacific coast country, buying up cheap age ricultural lands and developing farms.
