ARMY PLAN BEFORE HOUSE COMMITTEE

Scoretary Garrison Explains Plan for Creating Army of Million Within Six Years.

WILL DOUBLE THE WAR BUDGET

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 .- Secretary Garrison laid before the house military affairs committee today his formal argument in behalf of the administration's army plan which is designed to give the country a definite military policy. It proposes the creation of a mobile federal force of more than 1,000,000 men in six years, accumulation of a huge reserve of ammunition and equipment and elaborate extension of the coast defenses, the whole project involving an expenditure of $600,000,000, and an annual War department budget thereafter of more than $200,000,-600, as compared with an average of $100,000,000 for the last few years. "The integrity of the nation and its existence." the secretary said, reading from a lengthy statement he had prepared, "may depend upon what is done in this matter at this time. This great epportunity will be lost unless a wise, sensible and practical policy is the result of the consideration and action of this

Many Outside Responsibilities. Referring to the far-spread military responsibilities of the nation, reaching into the insular possessions, China, Alaska and the Panama canal zone, Mr. Gar-

"We have determined and announced that the sovereignty of the other republics on this hemisphere shall remain inviolable and must therefore at all times stand ready to make good our position in

"There is a disposition upon the part of some." he continued, "to assume that we are forcing a crisis. The only way to meet any emergency is by adopting emergency measures. The personnel and material needed for military purposes should be immediately mobilized. Every nerve should be strained and every resource drawn upon and nothing overlocked necessary to preserve and defend as, regardless of cost and of other con-

"There is common agreement among those who have studied the subject intelligently that we should have a force the continental United States of $00,000 men subject to instant call.

"Our immediate problem, therefore, weems to be how shall we meet these re-

"The adjutant general reaches the conrlusion that he cannot expect, under present conditions, to recruit more than would, therefore, seem impracticable in the last degree to consider that the problem can be solved by providing for a ptanding army of the size necessary for

Ald for National Guard. Turning to the National guard, Mr. Earrison said:

"At the present time this force consists f approximately 129,000 men and officers. and it would therefore be necessary, if It is to be expanded to 400,000, to add 171,000 men and officers.

"I, therefore, propose a large addition tional guard, so that the system may be operated to its maximum capacity and be available for the federal purposes specified, in its most effective condi-

The secretary then outlined the continental army plan which proposes to caise 400,000 men in annual increments of three years on furlough and will be armed, equipped and officered.

The training would be done by officers of the National guard and they would paid during the time of their service on the same basis as the regular army. Seventy Thousand Regulars.

Turning to the question of the size of the regular army necessary to train the continentals and carry on the various military activities of the War department in normal times, Mr. Garrison said it had been demonstrated to him that a obile force of $0,000 men and 20,000 coast artitlery troops would serve all needs. Such a force, an increase of nearly 40,000 over the present army, he said, would be comparatively inexpensive, would require no additional quarters and could be recruited. For these reasons he recom mended the addition of ten regiments of sfantry, four regiments of field artillery, fifty-two companies of coast artillery, fifteen companies of engineers and four aero squadrons to the present force, bringing the enlisted strength in two years up to 134,707 and the number of "The officers and men of the new organizations are absolutely essential if the War department plan is to be fairly tried out," he added. "In the plan of the war college division of the general staff, an army of about 250,000 is so distributed that in continental United States there would be left 121,000 mobile army troops. In the War department plan, these divisions are at peace strength, so that they are capable of expansion. The signature on box, Ec.—Advertisement. war college division plan proposed a twoyear enlistment, with six years in reserve and, eventually, at the end of eight years, makes up a line of 500,000 men of the regular army, of whom 121,000 would be with the colors and 379,000 in

Hay Asks Questions.

Chairman Hay asked if recent orders of the War department would prevent army officers from giving the committee free expression of their individual views. "They are free as air," the secretary replied. "They are bound only by vocabu-

The secretary developed no definite opposition to his plans during the early part of his examination by members of the committee. Representative Kahn, rapublican, asked if the Monroe doctrine was not a constant source of danger to the country, against which preparation must

"Absolutely," said Secretary Garrison. "We must be prepared to defend it or abandon It."

Steel Corporation Raises Pay of Its Unskilled Men

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.-The United States Steel corporation today decided to increased the wages of virtually all of its unskilled employes about 10 per cent. The following statement was given out by Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation:

"In view of the presperous conditions ow existing it was voted at a meeting of the presidents of our iron and steel companies today to recommend that there should be made adjustments of wage rates to take effect February 1. The finance committee unanimously adopted the recommendation of the presidents. "It is proposed to increase rates of com-

HORRORS TOLD OF LOST FIGHT FOR GALLIPOLI

(Centinued from Page One.) and the Fifth Wiltshire regiments, which General Hamilton describes as weakened in numbers though not in spirit. First, our men were shelled by every enemy gun," he says, "then assaulted by a huge column consisting of no less than a full division plus three battalions. The North Lancashire men were simply overwhelmed in their shallow trenches by He resented also the remarks that as sheer weight of numbers, while the Wiltshires, who were caught out in the open, were literally almost annihilated."

Sweep Over Crest. ponderous mass of the enem swept over the crest and swarmed round the Hampshires and General Baldwin's brigade, which had to give ground, and were only extricated with great difficulty and very heavy losses.

'Now, it was our turn. The warships and the New Zealand and Austrilian artillery, an Indian Mountain artillery brigade and the Sixty-ninth brigade anyal Field artillery, were getting the chance of a lifetime. As successive solid lines of Turks topped the crest of the ridge, gaps were torn through their formation and an iron rain fell on them as they tried to reform in the guilles.

"Not here only did the Turks pay dearly for their recapture of the vital crest. Enemy reinforcements continued to move up under a heavy and accurate fire from our guns. Still they kept topping the ridges and pouring down the western slopes of Chunnuk Bair, as if determined to gain everything they had lost. But once they were over the crest they became exposed not only to the full blast of the guns, naval and military, but a battery of ten New Zealand machine guns, which played upon their serried ranks at close range until their barrels were red hot.

Losses Enormous. Enermous lesses were inflicted and the swarms which had once fairly crossed the crest line only a handful straggled back o their own side of Chonnuk Bair. "At the same time strong forces of the enemy were hurled against the spurs to the northeast, where there arose a conflict so deadly that it may be considered the climax of four days' fighting for the ridge. Portions of our line were pierced and the troops were driven clean down the hill. At the foot of the hill the men who were supervising the transport of food and water were rallied by Staff Captain Street. Unhesitatingly they followed him back, where they plunged into the midst of that series of struggles, in which generals fought in the ranks and men dropped their scientific weapons and caught one another by the throat.

The Turks came on again and again Fighting magnificently and calling upon the name of God, our men stood to it and maintained by many a deed of daring the old traditions of their race. There was no flinching; they died in the ranks where they stood. Here Generals Cayley, Baldwin and Cooper and all their gallant men achieved great glory. On this bloody field fell Brigidier General Baldwin, who earned his first laurels on caesar's camp at Ladysmith. There, too, fell Brigideir General Cooper, badly wounded.

No Live Turk Left.

"Toward this supreme struggle the absolute last two battalions from the general reserve were now hurried, but by 10 o'clock in the morning the effort of the enemy was spent. Soon their shattered remnants began to trickle back leaving a track of corpses behind them. By night, except for prisoners or wounded, no live Turk was left upon our side of the slope."

lesser attacks were made by the Turks the same day. General Hamilton continues:

"By evening the total casualties of General Birdwood's force had reached 12,000 and included a very large proportion of officers. The Thirteenth division of the new army under Major General Shaw had alone lost 6,000 out of a grand total of 10,500. Brigidier General Baldwin TO PRESENT BANK CASE was gone and all his staff men and commanding officers, thirteen, had disappeared from the fighting effectives. The Warwicks and Worcesters had lost literally every single officer.

"The old German notion that no unit could stand the loss of more than twenty-five per cent has been completely falsified. The thirteenth division and the Twenty-ninth brigades of the Tenth Irish division had lost more than twice that, and in spirit were game for as much more fighting as might be re-

Hold All They Gain.

"The British had held all they gained, xcept two important salient, one a hill, momentarily carried by the Gurkhas, and the position on Chunnuk Bair, which had been retained forty-eight hours.
