KLANK HAS MAN HE SAYS CAN LICK JOE

Former Manager of Frank Gotch Declares Joe Rogers Can Twist Tail of Nebraska Phenom.

ISSUES A DEFI TO DODGE LAD

Emil Klank, formerly manager of the two best meal tickets in the grappling game, Frank Gotch and Mahmout, has discovered a wrestler he believes can twist the tail of Joe Stecher, the Nebraska farmer boy, who has been cutting a wide, red streak in the wrestling world.

Klank writes a letter to the sporting editor of The Bee in which he says that Joe Rogers of Buffalo is the lad who can put the fixings to Mister Steeher. Klank declares he has had Rogers in T've been looking for just such a man ever since last winter," scribbles Klank, "and I am satisfied now that I have got the man who will put a stop to Stecher's winning streak.

"I put one over on those 'farmers' at Kansas City recently," he continues. "I took big Mechalloff up there to wrestle Stecher, I knew he couldn't beat Stecher; I just used him as a trial horse. It took Stecher thirty-three minutes to beat him.

Just an Earful By Tad

Jimmy De Forrest was refereeing a battle royal over in Philly one night and of the darkest boys that ever straddled a rope were in there fighting. The biggest of the bevy was blacker than the inside of a rat and stronger than a horse. He belted four of his oppo nents on the puss and down they went for keeps.

The fifth, who resembled the Masked Marvel, inasmuch as his dome was blacker than the rest of him, stuck to his guns like a wolf. He would not be knocked out. He wanted to be the last man in the ring and cop the kale. He put up an awful argument for a while, but suddenly got a belt right on the old pantry and sank to the floor weary and diaguated.

De Forrest rushed over and counted up to five. The fallen gladiator arose to one knee, then, reaching for the ropes, got up and started to take a runout powder. Jimmy grabbed him by one arm, and, giving him a yank, yelled, "Come back here, Washington, You're not out!"

Mr. Washington turned, and with an appealing look, piped: 'Ah know I'm not, but I'm half out!
