afterward given a decided upturn. The late strength came chiefly from talk of reduced stocks in the east and of chances of improved expert demand.

Oats trade broadened out from the start. The seaboard and commission houses were heavy buyers encouraged because of better railroad and shipping conditions at Baltimore and owing to the wide discount for oats as against corn. Higher prices on hogs helped to lift provisions. Liberal exports tended also to bring about an advance.

an increase of only 72,000 bushels, whereas that suited them, paying prices that we're less. A falling off of 660,000 bushels in the amount of wheat on hand at Chicago formed one of the items which had not been generally foreseen. A material handicap to the bears was the renewal of cold weather damage to unprotected fields in the crop belt.

Heavy seiling by leading firms was theirly responsible for depression that set in soon after the opening and continued in less evidence until midday. The seiling which nullified for the time being the influence of higher prices at Liverpool, was based largely on reports of increasing stocks at Minneapolis and Duluth.

Corn, although at first depressed by prospects of larger receipts and by reports of beneficial rains in Argentina, was afterward given a decided upturn. The late strength came chiefly from talk of reduced stocks in the east and of chances of improved export demand.

Oats trade broadened out from the start. The seaboard and commission houses were heavy buyers encouraged because of better railroad and shipping conditions at Baltimore and owing to the wide discount for oats as against corn. Higher prices on hogs helped to lift provisions, Liberal exports tended also to bring about an advance.

SAYS WIFE DIDN'T GIVE HIM UP

Arthur Hauser, convicted by a jury of the murder of W. H. Smith, in a two-hour interview in his cell in the county jail last night, told Mine Operators Ask the story of his life. It began at Wichita, Kan., where he went with his parents at the age of 16 years, continued through ten years of honest labor, and his entrance into crime in Denver five years ago and on October 1, 1915.

He denied the murder of Mr. sult of other crimes fastened on ference after the convention adjourns. fairly conducted the trial.

Woul Be Model Prisoner. Hauser was cheerful except when he taiked of the verdict. He spoke hopefully of the prospects of a new trias and of an penitentiary he would be a model pris-

I went to work for the Wichita Transfer company as a driver, and worked for them seven years. They've got me wrong if they think I never worked.

"I got married when I was just past 20 years old and my wife is as good a woman as lives. I have four children. three of them elder than the baby you saw in court. They took the older children away from my wife to try to get her to turn me in." Denies Wife Gave Him Un.

Here Hauser entered an emphatic denial of the story that his wife gave the information which caused his arrest last fall in Indianapolis and would receive part of the reward money. When asked whether that report was true he said: "It is not true. My wife never turned me in. They may have got the information by playing a trick on her, but she didn't give me up. I wish you would be

"How did you come to break away from the "straight and narrow?" was the next question put to Hauser.
"It was bad company," he answered.
"I got to associating with a bunch of petty larceny thieves. I never drank, except a little wine and beer on a few except a little wine and beer on a few and straight and little wine and beer on a few except a little wine and beer on a few area. occasions and never hung around pool halls or saloons. But I was hard up and my family was hard up. Were you ever

"Well," he said, "After I broke away went to Oklahoms. I worked in the Cushing oil fields and sent money home to my wife regularly. In the meantime my wife's mother died and my wife was sickly. The officials took the three older children away from her to try to make her give me up for the Colorado job. I went home to Wichita in June, 1914. We decided we couldn't get the children back and we went back to the oil fields, and I worked there again. "My wife didn't get any better and in August, 1914, we went to Scattle, I worked there for the Seattle Transfer company. You can check this up if you want to, and you will find my name on the pay roll. In the last part of November the weather was rainy and my wife got worse. We went to Kansas City in December, 1914, and stayed till Easter, 1915. Then we went to Louisville, Ky., and then to my wife's relatives, who live in the mountains in Kentucky. We stayed there until after Decoration day.

Denies Killing Smith.

"I no more killed that man than you did," said Hauser. "If I go to the penitentiary I am going innocent of that murder. The judge was as fair as any judge that ever lived and all three of my lawyers worked as hard as though they got $10,000. I am grateful to them all. The sheriff and the guards have treated me well, too.

"But the jury's verdict was not fair.
They convicted me on account of the prejudice against me. Don't believe a lot of the stuff that has been told about me."
Hauser incidentally denied the story that a messenger boy had captured him when he was arrested in Indianapolis. He fell over the boy's bicycle, he declared, while running to essent the officers. He while running to escape the officers. He denied that he went on a hunger strike in the city jail in Omaha and laughed over the reports that he had done so. At one stage of the conversation Hauser liscussed the evidence in the murder case. "Do you suppose I would have jumped

Kansas City Grain and Provisions on a street car or stood under an arc light the way they said I did, if I had killed Smith that night?" he said. "If I had passed Grace Stater on the street she wouldn't have known me. I was pointed out to her at Wichita" Keeps Promise to Talk.

night. "Come around and see me Sunday," he said, "and I will talk," The man was at his case and gave no righ of fear or of remorse. He declared however; "I hate the name of murderer they have fastened on me, on account of my wife and children. But if I've got to serve for life I'm going to serve right There won't be any sulking for me There's nothing to that "I hope if I go to prison I can get work as a trusty so that I can make a little money and send it to my wife, Even a few cents a day would help her a lot. She is living with her brother in Wichita but she needs money "
