Kilne 10:

Jamen & Lungren 111

Jamen & Lungren 111 iargest of any similar period for a number of weeks back and double the receipts of a year ago. As has been the case on most days of late the average quality was far from good.

Under the influence of the liberal receipts and none too favorable reports from other market points the market opened slow, with fat steers, cows and heifers generally 10c lower than yenterday. The late market vesterday was very bad and if compared with the extremely close prices today did not show much change.

Stockers and feeders were in moderate request and as the supply was light prices showed little change.

HOG8—Supplies made up in part at least for yesterday's deficiency, some 276 cars, or 20,000 head, being reported in. Total arrivals for the three days are 52,623 head, being about 4,000 smaller than either last week or two weeks ago, and more than 5,000 short of the same days last year. either last week or two weeks ago, and more than 5,000 short of the same days last year.

Other markets reported stronger prices, and the tone of the local trade was higher right from the start. Late arrival of many trains naturally made the market late in getting starice, and as quality was not so good as yesterday, shippers did not have so large an assortment to pick from, but they started out in good season huying their kind at prices that were largely is better than Tuesday, paying as high as $7.55 a number of times, and making the bulk of their purchases at $7.7567.50.

Owing to the lateness of trains, packers did not get started very early, and tirst bids, when finally made, were barely standy. However, these offers were gradually raised, and when movement started sales were mainly sc above yesterday.

Once the ball began to roll trade livened up and values continued to improve as the morning advanced, so that before the close a good many sales were made that looked a flat loc higher. Lateness of trains, delayed the finish somewhat, but this dragginess did not hurt values any, in fact last trains found the day's best time, buyers meeting them in the chutes.

General market was anyway 5000c higher, opening slow but closing active at the day's best time, buyers meeting them in the chutes.

General market was anyway 5000c higher, opening slow but closing active at the day's best time, it was the first real live finish seen here in days and presented a marked contrast to the many dull, coloriess closes of recent weeks. Bulk of all the sales was made at $7.55 and under, and a good showing up to $7.85. Tops reached $7.90, the higher price paid here since last October.
