

INSURGENT BAND WATCH AND WAIT

Democrats Opposing Wilson's International Policy to Be Quiet Till Crisis Menaces.

GET WHAT THEY ARE AFTER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Legislative business will be resumed in regular order at the capitol this week after the recent flurry over international affairs that demoralized the work of congress.

In both houses administration leaders have held in control the threatened revolt against the president on the armed ship issue and no further outburst is expected unless there should be a development apparently leading toward war.

Leaders of the agitation for action to warn Americans off belligerent merchant carrying arms admit there is no chance to get legislation on the subject.

Senator Gore, author of the warning resolution in the senate, has publicly declared that there is no desire to stay the hand of the president in diplomatic negotiations.

He also says the real purpose of his resolution already has been accomplished and this is regarded by administration leaders practically as an abandonment of the effort to force a vote on the issue in either house.

To Fight Shields Bill.

Conservation champions in the senate plan to throw their combined strength against the Shields bill, to provide for leasing of water power sites on navigable waters to private interests.

For two weeks they have been fighting the bill in a more or less haphazard manner, but they propose this week to centralize their efforts in the hope of amending the measure to the satisfaction of the conservation forces.

Tomorrow Senator Husting of Wisconsin, who has had co-operation of other senators, will propose a substitute to the Shields bill with regulatory features, which he declares will safeguard the public interest and prevent monopolization of water power facilities.

Senator Norris of Nebraska, charged in the senate Saturday that the strongest lobby the capitol has seen in many years is here in the interest of the Shields bill and that it is composed of representatives of the water power trust, which has its headquarters in Wall street.

The fight against the bill has almost reached the filibustering stage, inasmuch as last week so far on amendments to the Shields bill the shields bill has a strong following.

Robinson to Press Inquiry. As soon as an opportunity is offered, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, will make an effort to have passed his resolution providing for an inquiry into the aviation service of the army, against which he has filed serious charges of inefficiency.

The Arkansas senator declared tonight he would insist upon a vote within a few days. Little opposition to passage of the resolution has appeared in the senate and the house is expected to agree to the resolution when it reaches it.

Progress to being made on general appropriation bills, both leaders in both houses are again complaining over delay in legislative accomplishment and another meeting to order has been sent out along the line.

The judiciary subcommittee of the senate hopes to conclude its hearing this week on the fitness of Louis D. Brandeis, to be confirmed as justice of the supreme court. Part of the time of the senate, it is expected, will be given to consideration of the treaty providing for the Haitian financial protectorate.

The Strange Case of Mary Page

By Frederick Lewis, Author of "What Happened to Mary" Pictures by Essanay

SYNOPSIS. Mary Page, actress, is accused of the murder of David Pollock, which is defended by her lover, Philip Langdon. Pollock was intoxicated. At Mary's trial she admits she had the revolver. Her maid testifies that Mary threatened Pollock with it previously, and Mary's maid, Miss Page, implicates Langdon. How Mary disappeared from the scene of the crime is a mystery. Brandon tells of a strange hand-print he saw on Mary's shoulder. Further evidence shows that horror of drink produces temporary insanity in Mary. The defense is "repression." Witnesses insist that Mary's flight from her intoxicated father and her father's suicide. Nurse Waiton described the kidnapping of Mary by Pollock.

CHAPTER VII. Stage Aspirations. Not since the famous trial that sent the expression "brain storm" spinning words through the years has the testimony of an alienist so greatly stirred an audience as did the phrase "repression," "Psychosis," with which Mr. Foster summed up the temporary insanity of Mary Page.

It spread through the court and the throngs in the corridor, it sped over the telephone wires to the waiting newspapers of the city, and its associated Press to other papers in every state. Editorial writers delved for the works of Bain, Fechner, Hismbolta and Munsterberg; and the more learned searched the records of psychophysics and recalled the fact from their co-existence days that it came from the Greek words "nature" and "seed." Before long it even reached the zenith of publicity and became the limitation of the cartoonists, but all this was more than the witness stand, told with technical brevity of how prenatal influence, increased by fear and suffering, reacted upon the delicate brain tissues under the strain of a great shock.

Much of what he said was entirely unintelligible to the excited audience. It was, therefore, with a little rustling sigh of relief that they heard Langdon abruptly change his line of questioning and say: "How long after the night at Dr. Zeller's sanitarium did Miss Page remain in your hospital?" "It was nearly three weeks before she was able to go, and even then it was with some trepidation that I consented to her leaving."

"Did you fear a return of her illness?" "Yes, I knew that excitement or a nervous strain of any sort would have an injurious effect, and I warned both Mrs. Page and Mr. Langdon to protect her as much as possible."

Dr. Foster, did you ever see David Pollock after the night he took Miss Page to Zeller's?" "Yes, I saw him again on the day when Miss Page left my sanitarium."

"Will you tell us the circumstances of that second meeting, please?" "Miss Page and her mother and Mr. Langdon were just about to leave, in more numerous while others said they were a shade firmer. One offer of Santos was reported at 10.15c for American credits.

Coffee Market. NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—The market for coffee futures had an early advance and closed at a net decline of 1/2 point. The opening was unchanged to 1 point higher and active months sold about 1/2 to 1 point above. The market was active during the morning on covering of shorts and some scattered trade buying which seemed to be inspired by the steadiness of the market.

Auctioneer Weeps Real Tears at the Low Prices at the Nixie Sale. Oh, the grief of an auctioneer who holds a public unsuspicious of his wares! What grief is so great as this grief? The orator who besought the people to buy of the 50 packages offered in the semi-annual sale of undelivered mail in the postoffice corridors, this morning fairly wept in agony as he found three "elegant, grand, splendid dresses" going begging at $15.

your voice (yoursself) screaming, not the dress, silly! you couldn't get even one of these dresses for less than $2! A man finally bid the three dresses in at $15, whereas the auctioneer nearly wept. A piece of green "urepe de chene" silk, which the auctioneer said would cost $20 a yard, was started at $1 for the whole seven yards. And in spite of his tearful protests that "if you get it for $5 you'll be stalling it," the piece went at $25.

ALL GOOD IS NOT TO BE FOUND IN PAST

Dr. S. A. Elliot of Boston Says Religious Advancement Matter of Penetration.

TALKS TO THE UNITARIANS

"If I read history aright, all the really great men of the world have been simplifiers," said Dr. Samuel A. Elliot of Boston in his morning sermon to the Unitarians at Turpin's hall. "They have called the people back from intricacies to simple principles."

"Many people," he continued, "mistake real religious advancement. Religious advancement is not a matter of accumulation, but a matter of penetration. It does not depend upon how many things we believe, but rather on how much of what we believe we put into practice in our daily lives."

Dr. Elliot is president of the National American Unitarian association, and former minister of the First Unitarian churches respectively of Seattle, Denver and Brooklyn. He spoke on the subject of the "Law of Liberty." "I sometimes think," said the speaker in touching on the variety and diversity of life, "that the decay in the belief in immortality is due to the intolerably dull picture of the future life that stupid preachers and theologians draw. Life's would be intolerable if all people were alike. We do not wish even our children to be all alike. Hence this life, its virtues mingle with the sinners and the wise with the foolish in an infinite diversity."

All Good Not in the Past. Only, continually, and simplicity, Dr. Elliot contended for in the church. "There are many people," he said, "who believe that all good was in the past, and that in the past were all complete revelations made."

"Again there are groups of people who believe just the opposite, that the past holds nothing but falsehood and corruption, something to be overthrown, and that the only good to be found is that to come with the succeeding centuries."

Dr. Elliot contended for in the church. "There are many people," he said, "who believe that all good was in the past, and that in the past were all complete revelations made."

Maloja is Insured Against War Risks. LONDON, Feb. 28.—The steamer Maloja was insured against war risks under the government scheme, but the insurance was based on the original cost of the vessel, the value of which had increased because of the war, and hence to the Peninsular and Oriental line the loss will be large. The vessel was fully laden with a general cargo virtually all of which was insured with the government.

Vengeful Pair Beat Up the Wrong Man. Muttering the words, "That's not the man," after they had administered a vigorous beating to two stalwart men, assailants ran from the scene. The police, however, were not deceived by the police announcement that Mrs. Harrison, to clear the suspected man, had admitted in a signed statement that she was responsible for Warren's death.

Great Navy Means Nation Must Have Big Merchant Fleet

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 28.—An increasing navy means that America must soon have one of the greatest merchant marines in the world, in the opinion of secretary of the Navy Daniels, expressed in a letter to Superintendent King of the Charlestown Sailors' Haven, which was made public tonight.

The sailor has always been one of the most useful men in any country," Mr. Daniels wrote. "While it is true that the United States has allowed their merchant marine to decline, we have, nevertheless, come to a day in our national history, when the whole American people have awakened to the conclusion that we must rebuild that marine. Already the great ship yards of the country are crowded with new ships and are hastening the time of their launching. A great navy and a great merchant marine must always go hand-in-hand. The very fact that we have built a great navy and are increasing it today, as never before, is an earnest evidence of the fact that we must also have one of the greatest merchant marines in the world. The sailor, therefore, is the coming man, if he is not already the man of the hour and we live in a day when the church cannot afford to neglect the spiritual welfare of this man. I heartily endorse the establishment of sailors' day, when prayer shall be offered for the gifts made in the interest of those courageous men, who go down to the sea in ships."

To Remove Roughness, Chaps, Freckles, Lines. If your skin is chapped, rough or harsh, dab a liberal amount of moricized wax on the face and allow it to remain overnight. When you wash off the wax in the morning, fine, flaky almost invisible particles of cuticle come with it. Repeating this daily, the entire outer film skin is soon absorbed, but so gradually, there's not the slightest pain or inconvenience. Even the slightest complexion yields to this treatment. The underlying skin which forms the new complexion is so fresh and youthful looking, you'll marvel at the transformation. It's the only reliable way to get rid of freckles, blotchy or weather-beaten complexion. One ounce of moricized wax, procurable at any drug store, is sufficient in most cases.
