The public demanded a Coffey- July. The Pacific coast handleap will be conducted, but the Interstate association has not awarded the event as vet. There is more interest in the sport this year than in any year since trap-shooting really took a hold on the American aport-loving public. Clubs are planning and giving "booster shoots," and no end of things are being done to make the sec tional championships even bigger than ever. More snap and dash is being displayed by those conducting the state championships and this energy will be repaid in additional entrants.

The first champlonships dates an ounced are the Mississippi State association. This tournament will be staged on the traps of the Greenville (Miss.) Gun The dates are May 3, 4 and 5. Besides the usual run of events, there will be a three-man team championship, the teams being selected from the best shoot ers of Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee, Louisiana and Arkansas. The competition will be known as "the lakes to the guif championship. The twenty-sixth running of the Pennsylvania state championship will be staged on the Lansdalc, Pa. (just outside of Philadelphia), traps on May 17, 18, 19 and 20. The original intention was to begin the shoot on May 16, but a primary C. Chambers of Lincoln, complimented election that day has caused a change in the plans. In connection with the state shoot there will be sessions of the Pennsylvania State Sportsmen's association in the evenings. These should be of great interest to sportsmen, for talks will be made on game, fish and forestry by authorities on the subjects.

The Lansdale Board of Trade is as much interested in the shooting tournament as the Lansdale Gun club and is alding in every way possible. The gun club is campaigning, for they expect to double the number of entries in any other state shoot of the year. Men who know their business are handling the shoot. Frank Eames is chairman of the general committee and his various subchairmen are: A. A. Fink of Reading. L. L. Swarts, F. S. Bender and J. B. Rausch. L. R. Lewis is managing the tournament, assisted by Bernard Elsesser of York and J. Leon Clarke. Nebraska and Illinois.

The Nebraska and Illinois state championship shoots fall on the same days-May 22, 24 and 25. The Illinois tournament will take place on the traps of the Starved Rock Gun club at La Salle, Ill. On the opening day of the shoot there will be a 100-target match for the Jefferson hotel (Peoria, Ill.) trophy and twentyfive pairs contest for the double championship of the state. The registered tournament is at 400 targets. The Elliott system will be used in dividing purses and the high-guns will be determined under the Conner system. The Iowa State association has selected Waterloo, In., as the place for the lows championship tournament and the time will be May 30 and 31 and June 1. The New York State Sportsmen's association will conduct the New York state championship at Syracuse on June 12, 13, 14 and 16. Oregon, Washington and Texas will announce the dates for their champlouship matches within the next few The Texas tournament will be staged by the Dallas Gun club on the traps of the Dallas Automobile and Country club in June.

TIPPLE'S RECORD IS POOREST

If the scouts sent out by Bill Donovan last season in search of hurling material to help the Yankees in the coming A. L. marathon missed any of the top-notchers in the minor circuits they certainly are hard to find. Of the eleven flingers who will receive tryouts this spring, not one of them failed to win more than half his games. And the Yanks did not go to the Class C circuits. They grabbed most of them from Class AA and Class A. Here's just a sample of what the rookies coming to the Yanks did in the minors last season: Love, a southpaw, pitching in the Coast league, one of the fastest Class AA circuits, wound up second, giving an average of 1.35 earned runs per game. from the same circuit, landed fifth with 2.30 earned counts per club. Mogridge was second in the Western

a Class A body, allowing 1.94 carned runs Blodgett was fifth in the same circuit with 2,27. Vance, another Western league, was lighteenth with 2.93. That's quite a collection of classy huriers and all of them halling from strong organizations. In fact, from the records of last season, it looks as if Dan Tipple, the much-heralded right-hander from Indianapolis, was the poorest of the lot.

Tipple last year pitched 183 innings and was found for seventy-seven carned rung an average of 2.79 per contest. This gave him forty-sixth place among the AA flingers.

Besides these and Nick Callup, the former Federal leaguer, Donovan will have Markle and Brady, who finished eleventh and twelfth in the Texas league; Russell from the International and Ross and Shocker from the Canadian.
