

COMMONS DEBATES RECRUITING ISSUE

Proposition to Call Married Men to the Colors is Subject of Acrimonious Debates.

CABINET BARELY WINS POINT

LONDON, March 17.—It was well past 1 o'clock this morning when the House of Commons adjourned after a protracted debate, nominally on army estimates, but really covering a wide range of topics.

There were many heated passages regarding the problem of calling out married men. Sir John A. Simon, ex-secretary for home affairs, among others, appeared as the champion of the married men, but his speech met with sharp criticism from other champions of the married men owing to his argument that there was danger of over-recruiting.

It was announced in the lobby of the House of Commons that a conference would be held Saturday at the war office between the higher military authorities and the recruiting commanders when the whole requirements of the army for men will be fully discussed and explained.

It is stated that the widespread agitation on the part of the married men has already interfered somewhat with the war office arrangements, but there is little doubt that the entire matter has only been briefly postponed.

Among the proposals now being considered is that of extending the military age of single men to 46 years. There is also a widespread feeling that the compulsion act should be extended to the married men, as a considerable part of the ill feeling among married men now being called in due to the fact that those who voluntarily enlisted under the Derby scheme must go into the army, while married men, who declined the invitation to enroll, are allowed to continue in their civil occupations.

The real seriousness of feeling throughout the country on this matter was reflected in the House of Commons, where members showed the state of their minds on the vote for adjournment. The government demanded adjournment until Tuesday, but partisans of the married men urged a continuation of the session until the question of the married men was properly settled.

Cabinet Has Close Call.

The government got its wish, but only after a division which was carried by six votes. This is the most serious division the coalition government has yet faced. Special meetings of the liberal and unionist "war committees" which will constitute the backbone of any organized opposition to the present government, have been summoned for next Tuesday.

Contest at Harvard.

HARVARD, Neb., March 17.—(Special.)—Fifteen high school students battled for honors in the high school declamatory contest here last night. Melvin De Vaughn, a sophomore, won first place, giving "The Independence of Cuba." He will represent the local high school in the district contest at Central City. Miss Pauley, with "The Soul of the Yellin," won second place and will represent the school in the Jones medal contest at Fairfield this evening.

AMERICAN ARMY IN VILLA HAUNTS; BRIDGE IS BURNED

(Continued from Page One) In Wednesday by General Pershing. It was intended that the more mobile force of Colonel Dodd should effect a junction with the first column, after which Colonel Dodd's cavalry would be sent on reconnaissance work, utilizing also the services of American cowboys who have joined the column and other scouts.

Uses the Wireless. General Pershing continued to hold his line of communication today, reporting at intervals as to his position and the state of his troops. His wireless set was used and couriers to the border brought more detailed information. The direct wire from the border carried the messages to General Pershing's headquarters. It was said today that General Pershing probably would supplement his field lines of communication with a telephone line that would be extended as he proceeded.

Failure of any body of Mexicans to oppose the Americans and reports that General Calles was using his men to fortify the passes that lead from the state of Chihuahua into the state of Sonora served to dispel somewhat the feeling common in many quarters that not all the Carranza garrisons would co-operate in the chase of Villa.

There prevails here a belief that an encounter with Villa is not probable for some days. His exact whereabouts is not known, but he is believed by most persons to be in the mountains not far from the Casas Grandes district, towards which the Americans are moving and against which the Carranza columns are said to be directed from other directions.

PROVINCE OF KWANG SI JOINS REVOLUTIONARY MOVEMENT. SAN FRANCISCO, March 17.—The province of Kwangsi has declared its independence of the government of Yuan Shi Kai and joined the Chinese revolutionists according to a cablegram received today by the Chinese Republic Journal, a revolutionary paper published in San Francisco.

The cablegram said Luok Yun-Ting, military governor of Kwangsi, following the declaration of independence on March 15, was leading his forces against Chi-Kwang, military governor of the province of Kwangtung, which adjoins Kwangsi on the east. The addition of Kwangsi gives the revolutionists, according to their claims, the two southernmost provinces of China, Yunnan, on the west, being the revolutionary stronghold. The seaport of Canton is the capital of Kwangtung.

WEST DAKOTA STOCK GROWERS FIX MEETING

HOT SPRINGS, S. D., March 17.—(Special Telegram.)—The twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Western South Dakota Stock Growers' association will be held here April 10 and 11. This organization was formed in the early days of the open range, when stock was permitted to roam at will throughout the year, for the protection of its members by a system of inspection on the range and at all market points in the middle west. During its lifetime the organization has recovered strayed or stolen stock belonging to its members of a value of over $2,000,000.

Even with the passing of the large herds and the settlement of practically every portion of the range, the work of the organization and the benefits accru-
