Young Woman Will Manage Play for Omaha University

Managing a college play. That's the work of Miss Rita Carpenter, a junior of the University of Omaha, who was elected to fill the managing bill of the "Maneuvers of Jane," a four-act comedy to be given by the Dramatic club April 1.

The first work of Miss Carpenter was in the disposal of tickets. By apportioning them among the different classes and offering a prize to the class selling the largest number she has created a rivalry that is certain of filling the large school gymnasium to capacity.

It will be a nifty looking set of characters that blossom out on the stage for Miss Carpenter with true theatrical skill has engaged all the special costumes necessary for the production. Miss Carpenter has also attended to the special decorations and scenery with the result that John Jacobs Memorial hall will house a spectacle unequalled in the annals of University of Omaha college plays.

Eighteen characters are in the cast under the direction of Miss Woodrough of the Omaha conservatory. The proceeds of the play will be turned over to the athletic board.

"WHAT WILL COME OUT OF THE MELTING POT?"

AUDUBON SOCIETY SHOWING GROWTH

Mrs. Button of Fremont Gives Delightful Talk on Bird Songs, Which She Illustrates.

SHOWS HOW BIRDS GIVE CALLS

Starting last October with a membership of but ten, the Omaha Audubon society has grown to an organization of 141 members, it was reported last night at the regular monthly meeting at the Omaha public library.

The wonderful strides made by this society of Omaha bird lovers were reviewed at a short business session which preceded the evening's program.

Besides having paid back to the donors the guarantee fund of $100, which was made up in order to bring to Omaha Ernest Harold Bayne, famous bird man and naturalist, who lectured a week ago last night under the auspices of the Audubons, the society now has in its treasury $41, derived from the lecture after all expenses were paid.

Practically the entire membership of the society attended last night's meeting. One of the most delightful and interesting features of the program was the talk on bird songs by Mrs. Lily Rugg Button of Fremont, a member of the Nebraska Audubons. She is the wife of Judge Button of the district court of Dodge county.

Records of Bird Songs.

A talented musician, Mrs. Button is an ardent lover of bird life and has collected after extensive research and exhaustive study a large accumulation of records of the songs and notes of a large variety of bird songs.

Her talk to the Omaha Audubons dealt with the difficulties and pleasures which she encountered in obtaining these records. As Mrs. Button explained the habits and characteristics of the different songsters, she gave by whistling the calls and notes of the birds. She explained and demonstrated how song birds give their calls, showing that they vary their tempo like the best musicians.

Habits of Water Fowl.

Miss Helen F. Treat gave a talk, illustrated with stereopticon views, on the life and habits of water fowl on the Pacific coast and in the Pacific northwest. The data and views were secured by Miss Treat on a trip which she made last summer.

At the close of last night's meeting the members of the Audubon society were urged to visit the exhibit of bird houses that will be held in the city hall on the last three days of this week. Over 400 bird houses, made by the pupils in the manual training department of the public schools, will be on exhibition. These bird houses will be placed in the various city parks this summer.
