Canadians and French Make Fierce Charges on the West

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.) BRITISH HEMADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Feb. 29.—The Canadians have won a reputation as good fighters in hand-to-hand encounters. Their ability in this respect was lately demonstrated when an expedition of twenty-five men started out on a trench raid. They returned with twenty-three men, having accounted for about double their number and destroyed two machine guns and a considerable portion of trench.

There had been much activity in the German trenches, and a bombing attack was planued. When darkness fell the bomb throwers crept forward, making slow progress. A false move, a cough or farmer's son.

"That's a backhanded compliment," said Henry Ford in a peace argument in his native Dearborn. "It reminds me of the book agent's wife. "While a book agent talked at a farmhouse door his wife sat in the buggy and conversed with little Tommy, the slow progress. A false move, a cough or a sound of any kind meant instant death.

The guards in the German trenches were apparently in merry mood, and snatches of a love-song came occasionally from the trench.

At last the barbed-wire entanglements were reached. They were stouter than and:

New York Central and Southern Pacific, which bolstered the session of the preceding day, averaged one point declines.

United States Steel and other former leaders were altogether neglected when not under marked restrain. Dealings in steel were exceeded by a half dozen other issues, some of which often fail of quotation for days at a time.
