

Bellevue Students Help Pay Way by Beautifying the College Campus

The annual spring beautifying of the Bellevue college campus, which begins each year during the spring vacation, is entirely in the hands of students this year. Eight students elected to remain on the campus during the spring recess and labor for the college to defray part of their expenses. Under the direction of Foster Kast and Edward Jiske, freshmen and custodians regularly in the employ of the college, and of Paul Wykoff Cummings, assistant business manager of the institution, they are hard at work taking the broad campus, reseeding the college buildings and laying cement sidewalks up the hill and back of Clarke Hall to the new college gymnasium. During most of the week they have been divided into gangs. Some have been cleaning up the campus, others have been reseeding lawns and doing spring housecleaning in Poniterville, Hamilton

HUMMEL IS BUSY ADORNING PARKS

Buys Immense Amount of Trees and Shrubs to Beautify City Breathing Spots.

ALFALFA FOR CARTER LAKE

The city park department is busy with springtime activities. One thousand white elms will be received within ten days for Carter Lake park. Sixty acres of this park are being sowed with alfalfa seed, the purpose being to kill off undesirable vegetation.

Three thousand rose bushes and 500 bridal wreath bushes have been ordered for distribution in the parks. The South Side system will be considered this season.

Commissioner Hummel ordered $300 worth of shrubs and trees for beautifying the parking at the Walnut Hill water station. The water board having finished the grading of a boulevard through this tract.

Play Apparatus.

Play apparatus will be installed within two weeks at Mandan and Spring Lake parks on the South Side, and about April 15 all the play apparatus will have been taken out of winter quarters and placed in the recreation centers.

A pavilion is being constructed in Mandan park, which commands the finest river view of any of the parks of Greater Omaha.

Friday afternoon the recreation department leased a tract at Thirty-ninth and Q streets for use as a base ball ground this season.

Candidates with Cold Feet May Now Withdraw from Race

Candidates who fled for public office, subject to the primary of April 18, and who have since become affected with cold feet, may withdraw to their hearts' content. Election Commissioner Moorhead announces. The opinion of the attorney general in the matter has caused the election commissioner to change his mind.

Candidates who wish to withdraw, however, are urged to make haste, Mr. Moorhead declares, because the primary ballot will soon be in the hands of the printer, and then it will be too late.

APRIL FOOL JOKER HAS ONE BUSY DAY

Elks' Club Chef Quits Job Without Notice and the Whole Club Goes Hungry.

JUDGE BRITT BITES ON ONE

Several score of loyal and hungry members of the Omaha lodge of Elks hiked for the Elks' club rooms at noon to partake of the usual choice luncheon served there.

But they were doomed to disappointment. The chef, whose duty it is to prepare the above mentioned choice luncheon took a siesta at the calendar and saw it was April 1, therefore April Fool day. Without making any announcement of his contemplated maneuvers, Mister Chef packed his belongings and flew the coop.

Thus did April Fool day work an awful hardship on the Elks.

Britt in Easy Subject.

Judge C. W. Britt "bit" on an April fool joke when he rushed up to the court house expecting to meet a bride and groom in need of his services. The judge had his mouth all made up and a regular benign and beatific smile, such as are used only on special occasions, hooked onto his face, but when he found out that some of his friends had made a "goat" of him, the expression changed.

April Fool Joke Played on Guests of the Hotel Rome

The Rome hotel perpetrated a wholesale April Fool's day joke on its guests and it was without "malice or forethought," in the reckoning of Colonel W. H. Anderson, chief clerk.

For two or three hours several hundred guests at the hotel were unable to locate their mail or telegrams. It was all on account of the fact that the hotel management did not consult the calendar when it decided to make a sweeping change in the system of numbering rooms.

Guests who retired Friday night in rooms A 18, B 25, C 12, and so on and so forth, awoke in rooms 118, 128, 112, and correspondingly.

Many guests, some of them ardent devotees of the dry movement, too, rubbed their eyes wonderingly many times if they chanced to glance at their room numbers before they came down to the office.

Colonel Anderson was the chief joke-smith.

Guests, when they inquired "If there was any mail or telegrams for number so and so," Colonel Anderson gave them the startling reply that "there was no such room in that hotel."

"Why, I've stayed at this hotel for eight years and have always had the same room; now tell me there's no such number—am I going crazy?" one traveling salesman quizzed.

Junior Pioneers Will Meet Monday

Double distilled "pep," the kind that made the Fourth of July famous is the kind of stuff everybody will be armed with, according to Harry Pearce, at the first annual induction of the Junior Pioneers' league meeting, which will be held Monday at the Swedish auditorium.

"We're not old now; don't get that idea," humorously declared Pearce. "We're just the Omaha men who have lived here for twenty-five years, and we think we have got to show a burst of speed every now and then."

The meeting Monday night will be opened with a short performance, music, a big feed, and the august presence of a number of institutions. Speeches, however, will be frowned at.

Green Will Address the Omaha Ad Club

A. L. Green, advertising manager of the Burgess-Nash company, will address the Omaha Ad Club at their next educational meeting to be held at the Paxton hotel, parlor B, Tuesday night. His subject will be "The Principle of Advertising Layout."
