

BUZZARDS FLOCK AROUND TRENCHES AS GUNS BOOM

(Corrected) Evidence of the Associated Press. PARIS, March 13.—Bird life along the battle front appears to have been little disturbed by the continual thundering of the guns.

and some naturalists attributed their migration to the din of war. They came back again, however, and little by little accustomed themselves to the noise of explosives and even find an advantage in being close to the conflict where there is ample nourishment among the soldiers' quarters.

in trees as close as they find them in the trenches. Monsieur Louis Rousseau, a well-known ornithologist, has discovered that the war has changed the character of these birds and made them thrifty. He has found their nests in the holes of dead oaks, with a provision of bread-crumbs stored away prudently under leaves.

appear to be afraid of either aeroplanes, observation balloons, or dirigibles. Buzzards are everywhere along the front, and they seem to find particular amusement in strutting around the observation balloons.

which drove some ahead of it toward the Marne. Deer and stags are very numerous, in spite of a great deal of poaching on the part of the peasants. On the other hand, rabbits are very rare. Wild boars are seen in places they were never known to frequent.

SENT TO JAIL FOR BEATING UP THE WHOLE FAMILY. Frank Terhune, 550 North Twenty-fifth street, was arraigned for beating his father, mother and sister. He was sentenced to sixty days.

Countering on the Move. 'I have written a poem on 'The Old Bird' in the 'Farm' and 'The New' which I have just published from the 'Farm' and 'The New'.
