CRIES OF MOTHER GET HOWARD'S GOAT

Husband of Dead Woman Talks With Grief Stricken Mother Over the Long Distance.

FATHER COMES AFTER BODY

In a palatial mansion on pretentious Michigan boulevard in Chicago a little gray mother is broken with grief.

Though she has millions of dollars and the comforting adjuncts to millions, the one real spark of happiness, tiny though it was, has flickered and died out.

The little mother is Mrs. Michael Kilgallon, wife of the multi-millionaire steel king, and mother of Mrs. Joe Howard, who killed herself in her room at the Pontenelle.

Joe Howard, the son-in-law whom Kilgallon refused to accept as a member of the family, in a confidential mood Tuesday morning at the coroner's office, told the writer about Mrs. Kilgallon.

"It's the one thing about this business that's getting my goat," he confided. "She has talked to me almost continuously over long distance. God! I never heard such crying in my life! Her grief is terrible!"

Kilgallon's Wealthy.
The fortunes of the Kilgallons have been remarkable.

Michael Kilgallon, the iron-man of iron, who arrived in Omaha this afternoon, started in life practically penniless. His Celtic aggressiveness stood him in good stead when he finally entered the world of finance, and it was not long before he stood at the top.

His wife, though, well remembers the day when they were not social pillars, nor wealthy.

She remembers the days when, shoulder to shoulder with her husband, she helped him to fight his battles, and when little Irma, their only child, came into the world thirty-two years ago, on eve of success, her happiness was full.

Tragedy Comes Fast.
Irma grew to cultured womanhood, and as she progressed, so did the Kilgallon fortunes. Correspondingly did trouble come.

When the affair with Count Mourik De Beauforth was at its climax, the little mother was always at her daughter's side, ready to take up her defense always. To her Irma was always right.

Even when she married Joe Howard, whom she met one night at Los Angeles and wedded the next day, Mrs. Kilgallon remained loyal. Howard left the day after the wedding, but to Mrs. Kilgallon he was a son-in-law in fact as well as in name, despite her iron-willed husband's objections.

The dead woman reposed in an expensive coffin in Coroner Crosby's establishment. Howard, his arms folded stoically, stared at it. Miss Clark, his dancing partner, shivered as she looked, and walked away.

Howard turned to the writer at his side: "Boy, a mother is a wonderful thing. My god, how she was wrapped up in that girl! I'll hear her cries of grief that came over the telephone until my dying day. Honest, boy, it's getting my goat."

He Sat in Jury Box, Man Without Fame, Until Asked His Name

Vincent C. Stecher sat among the jurors in the federal court room Monday afternoon, a man without distinction. He was just a juror, just one of thirty, just one of the crowd.

The examining attorney, after asking his name, asked where he lived.

"Dodge, Neb.," said Mr. Stecher.

"Stecher" and "Dodge," two inseparable ideas. Lives there a man with soul so dead who wouldn't ask the question which the attorney then asked? No such man lives.

Are you any relation to Stecher, the bright star of Nebraska, the shining sun in the wrestling firmament. The prize of the white race, the boy of the United States of America? Inquired the attorney. He didn't use just that language, but that was his fault—that was one opportunity he missed. He should have used that language, but being a mere dry man of the law, he didn't.

"Yes, sir, I'm his cousin," replied Vincent C. Stecher.

With that sentence he leaped from the ranks of common mortals to the pedestal of fame. He shone by the reflected glory of Cousin Joe. Every eye was fixed upon him. A hush of awe spread through the room. The attorney who had asked the question gazed about, proudly, as though he had done a great thing. Even Judge Munger looked up from his reading and looked down over his glasses at the cousin of Joe Stecher.

Vincent C. Stecher, carpenter, bore the glare of publicity and the spotlight of fame with more or less equanimity. He is a marked man. As long as he remains on the jury he will be pointed out.

"See that fellow up there in the jury box, with the black moustache—see 'im"—his Joe Stecher's cousin?"

"Gosh, izee?"

Instead, they are to be known as the Jubilee grounds.

All of the vacant lots on which the Sunday fabrics stood is to be included in the Jubilee grounds for this fall, and everything else between Fifteenth and Thirteenth streets on Capital avenue.

The leases have just been signed up, so that now with the matter of the location for the grounds off the hands of the governor, attention may be centered for a time on the selection of the best shows throughout the country to be booked up for Omaha.

Central Wyoming Filling Up Fast With Soil Tillers

"It is wonderful the way central Wyoming is settling up with men going there to engage in agricultural and dairy pursuits," asserted H. W. Lovelace, assistant immigration agent of the Burlington, who is in from a trip to Douglas, where he went to locate a party of ten Nebraskans.

Continuing, Mr. Lovelace said: "I was in Douglas three days, and during that time some forty families arrived and located on land in Converse county, of which Douglas is the county seat. Most of the men were from Nebraska, and in this state they had been tenant farmers. Going into Wyoming they took their live stock and farm implements with them, so that they can go to work immediately."

"The part of Wyoming referred to is in Omaha trade territory, and this city ought to derive great benefit from the settlement that is being pushed into the state."

"Apparently the land in Converse county is of about the same character as the land in western Nebraska. It lays well, has black loam for an upper, with a heavy clay subsoil."

"In Converse county alone there are fully 100,000 acres of government land that is subject to entry in tracts of 320 acres each. Of this land none is more than ten miles from railroad. Lying farther back and within the twenty-mile limit there are hundreds of thousands of acres that are open for settlement."

"The Wyoming land is a dry farming proposition, but last year the precipitation aggregated nineteen inches, enough so that the crop was carried through to maturity and the harvest was abundant."

Auto Roads Around Omaha in Good Shape

Automobile highways in the vicinity of Omaha are in excellent condition, judging by reports made by several tourists who registered at the downtown headquarters of the Omaha Automobile club at the Hotel Pontenelle.

J. W. Holtzinger of Elliott, Ia., toured to Omaha with Arthur E. Johnson of Red Oak, Ia., in the latter's car and purchased a new machine, which he will drive home.

En route to Chicago from Moberly, S. D., William Sooney stopped in Omaha a few hours. He found the highways in good condition all through South Dakota.

F. A. Haylis of Des Moines, who will tour to Plainview, Tex., is visiting the city.

Well Known Remedy Relieves Chronic Case

Important to Dispose of Waste from the Stomach With Regularity.

People frequently attribute to failure of the digestive organs conditions that are primarily due to inactive bowels, and apply remedies that from their very nature are more apt to aggravate than to relieve the disorder.

When the bowels act regularly the stomach is in better shape to perform its allotted tasks and can usually be depended upon. To keep the bowels in condition there is no more effective remedy than the combination of simple laxative herbs known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is sold in drug stores for fifty cents a bottle.

Dr. Caldwell has prescribed this remedy in his practice for over a quarter of a century and it is today the standard household remedy in thousands of homes. Mr. Thos. DeLoach, with the Department of the Interior, Office of Indian Affairs, at Washington, wrote Dr. Caldwell recently that "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the best laxative I have any knowledge of and the cleaning up guaranteed by its use relieves every organ."

A Miracle

in BOOKMAKING
Weight Reduced 3/4; Size (Shelfspace) from 8ft. to 32in.
COST cut to 1/3

Two Remarkable Things that have happened

The greatest reference work in the world, which used to be in large cumbersome volumes—heavy to handle—has been reduced in size to fit any library or drawing room (unabridged by a word or a line).

And—the cost has been reduced so as to bring it within the reach of every home. The price is no longer a bar. You can own it, now, if you act promptly.

Why You Need It
You do not belong to the 20th century if you have not in your home a quick and authoritative work of reference to settle every question which may come up, and inform you about any desired fact or thing.

Your school or college education has been wasted if you have not the ready means and the habit of recalling, fixing, broadening, applying, the things you have learned.

There is in English only one great exhaustive encyclopaedia of all knowledge—without a rival for a century and a half—the oldest encyclopaedia, now in its latest edition the newest—the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

With the Encyclopaedia Britannica in your home, the worth of your school or college education is not merely doubled or tripled; it is multiplied twenty, forty times.

With the Encyclopaedia Britannica as a daily guide you have no need for a college education; it is in itself—a "liberal education in the best sense."

But hitherto this work has been only for the few, who could afford to pay a high price—$150 to $250 for the new Eleventh Edition. In the new "Handy Volume" issue of the new Eleventh Edition, the cost has been so reduced that we are able to sell the complete work for one-third the price of the higher priced issue.

And we send you the complete work—the entire 29 volumes—for a first payment of one dollar.

You Take No Risk
Get this fixed firmly in your mind. This is the complete new Eleventh Edition of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, which cost a million and a half dollars simply to prepare, and involved the investment before a single copy was sold of more than $4,000,000. The "Handy Volume" issue is identical in contents, page for page, line for line, with the higher priced issue.

It is the new Eleventh Edition unabridged, unchanged—all for a first payment of one dollar now, and then small monthly payments for a short time. Yours to use and enjoy all the while. Isn't this an amazing achievement and an amazing offer? It involves our loaning to the public several million dollars in cash.

Our guarantee goes with every set sold. When you have the 29 volumes in your home and are using them, then if you are not fully satisfied, you may return them to us any time within three weeks and we will pay all shipping charges and send you back your dollar.

You Must Act Quickly
This remarkable bargain we are offering can last only a little while longer. The contracts for the "Handy Volume" issue were made before the war began. The drastic increase in the cost of raw material makes it impossible to renew them.

The publishers notify us that after the sets now on hand are exhausted they cannot supply any more at the present low prices.

A 130-Page Book Free
The publishers of the ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA have prepared a truly illustrated book of 130 pages to tell you all about this great work and the new "Handy Volume" issue and its use. It contains a list of interesting stories, facts, and figures, and is a book to be read from cover to cover.

Write now, and ask interested in the "Handy Volume" issue, and receive a number of your family will be thoroughly interested in this book, as big as a magazine. Write to us for a coupon which will send you this book free.

Please send me the "Book of 100 Wonders" describing the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Want Rescue Home
As Part of State
Medical College

The Salvation Army Rescue Home should be under the direct patronage of the University of Nebraska College of Medicine, is the opinion of the advisory committee of the Associated Charities.

The committee at its meeting at noon passed a resolution in appreciation of the past work of this home, and, with a view to perpetuating the good work, which the resolution expressed as in the highest interest of the state, the committee recommended that the home be placed under the patronage of the medical college of the University of Nebraska.

It was recommended that this would mean that it would get its medicines and accessories from the state institution.

MARRIED AT FIFTEEN AND WANTS IT SET ASIDE

Blanche Stephens Long, a minor, by her next friend, Esther Johnson, filed a petition with the clerk of the district court in which she seeks an annulment of her marriage with Russell Long on the grounds that when they were married she was under the age of legal consent.

The petition states that when the Longs were married in November, 1914, the plaintiff was not yet 15 years old, and that they have never lived together since then. The petition also states that for a year after the marriage the plaintiff was a resident of Riverside Home, in the custody and care of the juvenile court of Douglas county.

WATER BOARD MEMBERS TO ADDRESS ROTARY CLUB

Members of the city water board will address the Omaha Rotary club at the weekly meeting and luncheon Wednesday noon in the Heurich restaurant.

The following are on the program for four-minute talks: C. W. Wilhelm, accounts and expenditures; C. B. Sher man, service and extension; W. J. Good, finance and water rates; Fred D. Wood, chairman of the board; P. C. Heafey, construction and operation; R. H. Howell, president of the board.

P. C. Heafey will preside as chairman of this week's meeting.

WELFARE INVESTIGATORS START ON SURVEY OF CITY

Laura Franklin and Betty Letinsky, investigators of the Welfare Board, have started to make a survey of the pauper employment of the city. Their work will be directed especially to the interests of women and girl workers. Information cards of a comprehensive nature will be filled out by employers and workers. Efforts will be made to secure every working and home condition of each woman and girl employed.

In this connection observations will be made of the sanitary conditions of all places of employment.
