Store Your Furs At Home And Save Needless Expense

Furs thoroughly cleaned and properly packed can be safely stored in your own home without the least danger of moths bothering

The cleaning is the most important part; it removes all moth eggs, dirt, grease and germs. The furs are carefully packed and sealed by us in heavy paper at our plant before the moth miller gets an opportunity to deposit more eggs.

No need of moth balls or cedar chests. If you leave them in the package in which they are returned we will guarantee them to open up in satisfactory condition in the fall.

The only expense is for the cleaning. We've planned this special service for you, why not take advantage of it? Just say to our driver: "Return these furs ready to lay away for the summer." We will do the rest.

From Generation to Generation

I was married about 22 years ago, and I read an article in some paper, stating that there was a factory that was making Aluminum Ware. My wife bothered the life out of me because she wanted Aluminum Ware in her home. Well, you know how it is with young married people; a man will do anything for his wife, so I sent down to the Illinois Pure Aluminum Company, Lemont, and got six pieces of "1892" Aluminum Ware for my own home.
