

MOVE ON FOOT TO PAY OFF MORTGAGE

Young Men's Christian Association Evolving Plan to Clear Building of Debt.

CAMPAIGN IS TO START SOON

A movement to pay off the mortgage of $56,000 against the Omaha Young Men's Christian Association building and to supply money for current expenses of the institution is to be launched in Omaha.

Seventy-five business men and directors of the Young Men's Christian Association lunched in the south dining room of the Commercial club and heard H. M. Beardsley of Kansas City in an address on Young Men's Christian Association work.

Mr. Beardsley is president of the Kansas City association and has been for twenty-five years. He is an attorney and a former mayor of that city. He is moderator of the Council of Congregational churches of the United States.

Plan for Support. Mr. Beardsley dwelt on the work accomplished by the Young Men's Christian Association all over the world, and made a plea for hearty support of this movement in Omaha for raising more funds to further the work here.

The business men will organize the campaign and begin with the subscription list shortly. The Young Men's Christian Association building at Seventeenth and Harney has been occupied nine years. The wisdom of those of the building committee at the time in building much larger than seemed necessary at that time has been demonstrated by the fact that the structure is at present crowded, and there are many times when the secretary is put to the test to find room enough in which to carry on all the various activities that accumulate at any one time.

To Free from Debt.

Although something over $100,000 was raised ten years ago for this building, it cost over $200,000, and a mortgage of $56,000 has stood against it ever since. There is a general feeling among the directors that this should now be cleaned up by a subscription campaign, and that the association should be put on a clear footing, free from annual interest charge and other obligations, to branch out and extend its work where they believe the work should be extended at the present time.

"We are unable to do many of the things we feel that we should be doing now," said Secretary Denison, "and there is a feeling that we should be put to the test to see if some money should be raised for current expenses so that the work could go ahead better and in a broader way. The building needs overhauling, painting, decorating, the renewal of machinery and lots of necessities. What the association wants to do is to go on expanding to keep up its work in proportion to the growth of the city, and do its part in this great development of the metropolis that is taking place."

Stolen Automobile Bubble Bursts Soon After Club Notified

Telephone messages were buzzing thick and fast for a few minutes early Friday morning between police headquarters, the downtown headquarters of the Omaha Automobile club and the Webster street depot.

Attendants at the automobile club headquarters when they arrived at the office were complaining that there was "nothing new under the sun." There soon was quite a bit new.

Nelson B. Updike drove his big touring car to the Webster street depot, leaving instructions for his chauffeur to call for the machine and depart from the city on an early train.

But some way the instructions went away and soon the depot employees began to entertain suspicions that jewelry or automobile tires had stolen the car and then abandoned it after an attack of faint heart.

The police were notified, who in turn communicated with R. E. Smyth, assistant secretary of the automobile club. Mr. Smyth hurried to the scene and ascertained that it was Mr. Updike's machine. He took charge of the situation, which had attracted a crowd of the curious, until the arrival of Mr. Updike's driver. Explanations followed and the "stolen automobile" bubble burst.

"Some service, anyway," argued the automobile club assistant secretary.

School Children of Germany Subscribe to the War Loan

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.) BERLIN, March 20.—With subscription to the fourth German loan scarcely under way, appeals to the school children to repeat their efforts during the earlier loans are already being sent out. This time special emphasis is being laid on the possibility of pupils in higher schools, who are now or have been earning money of their own, subscribing even more than they did last time.

School children subscribed to the third loan about 20,000,000 marks, it is estimated, to twenty institutions in Berlin alone the pupils put in $2,000,000 marks in some of them. To encourage a repetition of this willingness to subscribe, the magazine of Berlin has arranged to supply to the school each year, a certain number of copies of the "German Loan" magazine, so that no school will be under any expense and may subscribe, either as much as possible.

Many boys in higher schools, it is said have of late been earning more money than many adults in several times as long. These higher school and continuation schools must be subsidized, says the first appeal. "When some small whatever possible be made available for the fourth war loan."

Aided By a Helping Hand and Much Advice, Gray Hair Writes His Name

Introductions, ladies in gentlemen, Louis Gray Hair, the educated Indian. Louis isn't one of those red men of whom the poet sang, "Lo, the poor Indian, whose untutored mind—"

No, no, Louis' mind is tutored. Louis can write his name.

He wrote it on the back of a check up in the United States marshal's office. A reporter saw him do it. The reporter complimented him and Louis almost smiled.

His wife, Jane Four Cloud, saw him do it, too. Peter Sharp Back saw him, also. Peter had just finished making his mark on a check and Deputy Marshal Nickerson had to guide the pen even in that operation.

Louis Gray Hair grasped the pen in a hand that seemed designed rather for the tomahawk, traced himself firmly against the counter, took his tongue between his teeth and wrote. He wrote the letters of the white man. The pen scratched and spluttered, but Louis persevered.

He was already beginning on the "G" when Deputy Nickerson stopped him. "You forgot the 's' on the end," he said. "Ugh," said Louis, as he began all over again. It apparently didn't occur to him to add the "s" without sending the pen traveling the devious route over the rest of his first name.

This done, he began again on his second name.

"Now don't forget the 'a' this time," warned Nickerson sternly. "Nick" has superintended Louis' writing of his signature on several occasions before. So Louis got the "a" in and then sailed triumphantly on to the end of his last name.

"Walla grump hoosha pra," said Jane Four Cloud, who had been an admiring witness of her husband's accomplishment. Apparently she was complimenting him. He pretended to think nothing of it, as he responded with a stolid "Ugh," conveying the impression that he could write a whole page if he wanted to.

Father Fitzgerald In Serious Condition at Local Hospital

Rev. William T. Fitzgerald, 36 years old, assistant pastor at St. Cecilia's Catholic church, is in a serious condition at St. Joseph's hospital. He was operated upon Thursday by Dr. C. C. Allison for an intestinal disorder.

Rev. Mr. Fitzgerald was ordained at St. Paul seminary, St. Paul, Minn., four years ago, and came at once to Omaha. Upon his arrival here he was sent to Grand Island, where he served as assistant pastor for six months.

He came back to Omaha as assistant pastor at St. Peter's church for six months, later returning to Grand Island for a considerable period. He then came back to Omaha, where for the last year he has been assistant pastor at St. Cecilia's church. His parents are dead, but a brother and sister reside at the old home in Hartford, Conn. Before his recent illness he was contemplating a trip to Hartford early in the summer.

Pioneer South Side Livery Man Is Dead

L. J. Carpenter 60 years old, pioneer livery man of the South Side, a resident of the county for the last thirty years, died at his farm home on the Ft. Crook boulevard south of the city Thursday evening at 11 o'clock. Death was due to a complication of causes, principally old age.

Carpenter was for years one of the most prominent business men of the South Side, owning one of the largest livery stables in Greater Omaha. He is one of the earliest pioneers in this part of the county and has lived in South Omaha for nearly thirty years continuously until a few years ago, when he retired from active business and took up residence south of the city.

Five years ago his wife died. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Earl Brown, who lives on the Carpenter farm. The funeral was held Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the residence, Rev. Robert L. Wheeler officiating. Interment will be made Saturday to the cemetery at Emerson, Ia., where he has relatives.

Largest Range Sheep Market in the World Looks to Montana

Eight pages of half-tones and reading matter concerning Omaha's industrial plants and business section are contained in the latest Industrial and Agricultural Review, published by George F. Cram of Chicago. The cuts and information were furnished by the bureau of publication of Omaha.

The Helena Daily Independent, edition of Sunday, April 16, contains a full-page story with cuts concerning the live stock market in the Union stock yards in Omaha. This was also furnished by the bureau of publication on request of the editor of the paper, Will Campbell, formerly of Omaha. The article is an attractive one in a stock country like Montana, since it is headed, "Omaha, Largest Range Sheep Market in the World, Looks to Montana." The article gives the history of the stock yards and the market in South Omaha, and carries the figures and facts up to the recent phenomenal receipts of stock which put Omaha second in receipts in the United States.

THALIAN APARTMENTS ARE SOLD FOR $75,000

The Thalian apartments, 236 South Twenty-first street, have been sold by George Reginald Frost and wife to James P. Thompson. The consideration is said to have been in the neighborhood of $75,000.

OMAHA MARKET IS MODEL FOR WORLD

Carl Vrooman Says He Tells Everybody to "Go and Do as Omaha Has Done."

THE ONE WAY TO SUCCESS

"Go and do what Omaha has done," that was the recommendation inspectors of the United States Department of Agriculture gave to other live stock markets of the country, and especially of the Missouri river markets, after making a thorough investigation of live stock markets up and down the river.

Carl Vrooman, assistant secretary of agriculture, speaking before the Commercial club at noon, mentioned this. He said he had sent inspectors out to inspect the live stock markets of the Missouri valley some time ago to get ideas as to how to better market conditions, and that their whole recommendation was wrapped up in the one slogan, "Go and do what Omaha has done," or "Use Omaha's market as a model."

The inspectors were so well impressed with the exceptionally fine facilities in the Union stock yards in Omaha, the new hog parlors where all hogs are protected from every kind of weather, where not a drop of rain or a flake of snow can touch them in the fireproof, concrete quarters, with the new sheep barn, also of concrete and steel, absolutely fireproof, with the new sheep barn, with facilities for handling the vast flocks of sheep that annually swarm in there to make this the greatest feeder sheep market in the world, and with all the modern facilities of yardage, that they are today holding up the South Omaha yards and their equipment as models to other markets.

Mr. Vrooman spoke of business methods also and their relation to agriculture. He said the United States is destined to assume industrial and moral leadership of the world and he declared the business men must rethink themselves as to how they are going to do this and what methods to employ. "Shall we assume this position in the world," he asked, "in a way that will make other nations jealous of us and make them seek to hamstring this great power, or shall we do it by building up a reputation for honesty and square dealing? It is the spirit of the American business man that is to determine the success or failure of the nation in the future."

WALT JARDINE SAID TO BE MUCH IMPROVED

City Commissioner Jardine continues to improve. Indications are he will be able to return to his office next week.

LIVE STOCK MAN TO GO BEFORE CONGRESS

M. F. McClure, President of National Exchange, Will Conduct Meat Price Probe.

OMAHANS ADVISED OF PLANS

A news dispatch from Washington, D. C., to local stock yards authorities conveys the information that M. F. McClure, president of the National Live Stock exchange, has announced that he will go before the congressional committee that is making an investigation in the interests of the national association.

He asserted in the dispatch that he will demand a thorough investigation on the part of the committee whether high prices and low profits in the last few years have been due to restricted competition, artificially forced by the packers. The fact is evident, he states, that prices have been comparatively low in the last few years for no apparent reason or easily foreseen reason. Because of this an investigation is necessary. "This is an important matter for both sides of the question," he said. "At the eighteen principal live stock markets in the United States in 1915 about 35,000,000 cattle, 2,000,000 hogs and 15,000,000 sheep were marketed, their value being more than a billion dollars. The packers have millions invested, and all these interests are so vast that no one wants to destroy, but all want to improve for the public good. We hope that congress will have the Federal Trade commission proceed with the investigation with malice towards none with charity for all, and nothing less will satisfy either the producer or the consumer."

City Hall to Close Account Arbor Day

All offices of the city hall will be closed today in observance of Arbor Day. School children of all public schools have been reminded of the significance of the day and they have been impressed with the thought that Arbor day originated in Nebraska.

The conservation committee of the Omaha Woman's club will plant a tree at Central High school grounds, in honor of the Shakespeare Tercentenary, and another tree at Train school, in memory of Mrs. N. H. Nelson, late president of the club.
