Students Plan Big Graduating Week At Creighton Uni

This year an organized effort is being made to give commencement week at Creighton added significance. Clinics, under the direction of Dr. Crile of Cleveland, are being arranged for the medical and dental graduates, and it is expected that the largest gathering in the history of the Pan-Alumni association will be present at the dinner on the evening of April 27. On the following evening at the Brandeis theater the most pretentious play in the history of the school will be staged, and on Saturday evening, April 29, the commencement exercises will be held.

As far as possible a widespread homecoming of the alumni will be promoted. The combination of the various graduating classes, and the organizing of the alumni into a common body, have helped to give a better impression of the university's importance and to promote a better feeling among the graduates. The various committees in charge are busy with the preparations and promise a week which will long be remembered.

The Pan-Alumni banquet is the funfest of the year at Creighton. All formalities are cast aside and the new and the old graduates give themselves over to the enjoyment of the evening. The mere mention of last year's banquet will evoke a smile on account of the stunts staged. The committee this year promises to outdo last year's affair. At least 500 are expected to be present, many from out of town.

The banquet will have added significance from the fact that the outgoing seniors will present the initial pledge of $25,000 in the form of an endowment. This idea was suggested by a member of the upper classmen a month or so ago and was enthusiastically taken up by the seniors. The precedent established by them will be followed by the future graduates.

For a Bilious Attack

When you have a severe headache, accompanied by a coated tongue, loathing of food, constipation, torpid liver, vomiting of partly digested food and then bile, you may know that you have a severe bilious attack. While you may be quite sick there is much consolation in knowing that relief may be had by taking three of Chamberlain's Tablets. They are prompt and effectual. Obtainable everywhere.—Advertisement.

PUBLIC GETS CHANCE TO SEE CENTRAL HIGH ROAD SHOW

The second annual Central High school Road Show was given for the second time last night for the public. The auditorium was well filled. Two special numbers were given. Miss Winifred Travis had a clever original act. She gave several impersonations of southern darkey characters. Hart Jenks sang.

The competitive drill proved a thriller, not one of the drillers being eliminated until several minutes after the beginning of the spell-down. The men were quickly eliminated then, until only Daniel Longwell and Nathan Miller remained. Miller was eliminated after continued drilling and the gold medal for first place was given to Longwell.

Those appearing in this act were the nine best drilled cadets in the regiment, one cadet being chosen from each company. The names of those entered were: Corporal Daniel Longwell of Company A, Corporal Leland Potter of Company B, Sergeant Russell Sage of Company C, Corporal Nathan Miller of Company D, Corporal Harold Lindley of Company E, Sergeant Warren Mac of Company F, Corporal Wallace Johnson of Company G, Corporal Clyde Jensen of Company H and Sergeant Fred Bowser of Company I.

Believing that plans of Gala day might be interfered with, members of the dramatic club have decided not to give the "Maneuvers of Jane," a four-act comedy, at Fremont Friday evening, as had been planned.

Plans recently completed by the executive committee for Gala day call for a special act or stunt from every class and student organization of the university. The proceeds of the affair will be turned over to the athletic board.

Joint Young Men's and Young Women's Christian association chapel exercises were held Friday. Special violin numbers were rendered by Joseph Woolery, accompanied by Kenneth Widenor. Eugene Simmons, Frank Broadwell and Nathine Talbot gave readings and Helen Fales several vocal solos.

Members of the pre-medic classes of the University of Omaha elected Ernest Johnson president and Manuel Grodinsky treasurer at their annual election Friday afternoon. The organization plans to have some local physician address it each week. Saturday morning the organization visited the Methodist hospital.

Hastings College.

Earl Burge was elected secretary of the State Oratorical Prohibition association. The contest next year will be held at Hastings.

Among the visitors at the college the last week were Mrs. Buck of Superior, Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Dixon, Dr. and Mrs. Salsbury and Gordon Beck of Aurora, and Mrs. Byers of the city.

Hastings college was recently added to the North Central Association of Colleges. A college, to be a member of this association, must have a strong faculty, and a productive endowment of at least $50,000.

Hastings college won first place in the prohibition oratorical contest last week with its representative, Miss Hazel Parks. She will represent the Nebraska colleges in the Inter-state contest, St. Paul, Minn., some time in July.

The board of trustees have recently engaged Dr. J. E. Farmer, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Madison, Neb., as vice president of the institution. He will resign his pastorate at once, and begin work for the college. Dr. Farmer is a graduate of Northwestern university. For a time he will represent the college in the field and before the churches of Nebraska.

May day at the college will be a big event. At least 150 people, representing the faculty, students and alumni will take part in the program. Costumes have been ordered for the occasion, and a large crowd is anticipated. In the evening the usual German play will be given at the college chapel, but in addition to this annual affair, the junior class will put on a play, entitled, "As We Like It."

In the afternoon the students will return for a street parade, which will be followed by a series of attractions at the college campus. Among the leading features of the program will be the "Sophomore Entertainers," who present the English comedy, "Pan Pry," at the college chapel.

HESPERIAN LITERARY SOCIETY ENTERTAINS

The Hesperian Literary society of the Bellevue Union High school held a party Saturday evening at the home of Clarence Zurcher, between Bellevue and Fort Crook streets. The evening was spent in amusements of various kinds. Refreshments were served.

University of Omaha Girls in Campaign

The political bug has invaded the ranks of the co-ed student body of the University of Omaha. The reason is the coming celebration of the most popular senior co-ed for the honor of being crowned May queen at the annual gala day exercises on the college campus, May 12. Many of the lower class co-eds have started an active campaign for their favorites. The spoils in this case are honor, the campaigners will have in being appointed ladies-in-waiting and attendants to the queen, should their favorite be successful.

As it is not considered proper etiquet for senior co-eds to openly announce their candidacy for the place, the campaign is being conducted with great secrecy. Men students of the school are accepting with great suspicion invitations to Friday evening parties, for somehow the talk at these informal affairs usually centers on how nice Gladys, Viola or Dorothy is and what a fine queen she would make.

John Bloomquist will be the duke of Venice.

"Now! Ask me anything!"

You Can't Know Everything

But you can have at your elbow at very small cost a wonderful set of volumes that do know practically everything—that represent

The Sum of All Knowledge—

—a work that is the product of the greatest minds living, and cost for the editorial preparation for the latest edition alone a million and a half dollars. Hardly any need to name it; there is no other to compare with it—

The New Encyclopaedia Britannica

The slogan of the day is EFFICIENCY. But the secret of individual success—the keynote of careers like those of Andrew Carnegie, James J. Hill, Thomas A. Edison and Charles M. Schwab—is

Personal Preparedness

Thomas A. Edison's mind is a vast storehouse of FACTS. So is James J. Hill's. Do you think you can tell Charles M. Schwab anything about the steel business anywhere in the world? These men KNOW. Their minds are crowded with information. Almost needless to say that:

All these men are owners and constant users of the Encyclopaedia Britannica. And so is practically every highly successful man in the United States.

So are the King and Prime Minister of England, and the Czar of Russia, and the Emperor of Germany, and scores and hundreds of the world's rulers and leaders.

Do YOU own this incomparable work?

The cost is no longer a bar to the most modest income. The publishers have prepared a new issue of the new Eleventh Edition, complete in every detail, absolutely unabridged by a line, and this is being sold at one-third the price charged for the larger-sized issue of the same work. And the entire 29 volumes will be sent to you upon a first payment of a single dollar. After that, easy monthly payments at the rate of a little more than ten cents a day.

Do you know all about this remarkable work, and this remarkable opportunity, that will remain open for only a little while longer? If not, send to-day for this book.

Better Than a University Training

Did you ever consider that the Encyclopaedia Britannica represents in itself the most wonderful university that could be imagined? Reflect that it is the product of the greatest minds now living.

Men of science like Lord Rayleigh and Sir Joseph Thomson and Sir Ernest Rutherford have written its scientific articles. Men like Lord Bryce and Lord Morley and Professor Royce and Professor Jebb, and scores of other distinguished men, have written the various articles on literature and biography and politics. Many of the winners of the coveted Nobel Prize have contributed. But it is first and foremost a work for the busy men and women of to-day—a work for you.

Think of what it would mean to attend a university made up solely of these famous scholars and men of science! There would be nothing like it in all the world.

As a matter of fact only 1 boy out of 100 ever get any college education at all. Only one boy or girl in seven in the United States attends even high school. That is why the Encyclopaedia Britannica is such a boon to those who have to make their way in the world.

You Must Act Quickly

THE remarkable bargain we are offering can last only a little while longer. The contracts for the "Handy Volume" issue were made before the war began.

The drastic increase in the cost of raw materials makes it impossible to renew them. Paper has advanced over 25 per cent—leather more than 26 per cent—binders' boards 45 per cent, etc.

After the sets now on hand are exhausted, the publishers cannot supply any more at the present low prices.
