What her children did—yours can do—if you give them the chance

The President of the National Council of Women writes

January 20, 1916
 Dear Sirs:
 Over thirty years ago I bought an Encyclopaedia Britannica at great personal sacrifice. I have never regretted doing so, because it has formed the basis of the education of my six children, all of whom have been graduated with distinction and have never failed to take first honors in any competitive examination they have taken.

I attribute much of their success to the general fund of information which they gathered from the constant perusal of the Encyclopaedia as well as to the stimulating effect it had upon them, inspiring in them an interest in subjects outside the lines presented to them by the usual points of contact.

The new photographic edition seems to me to be even more valuable than the old edition because of the handy form and the ease with which it can be handled.

If my financial resources permitted me to make but one purchase beyond the necessities of life it would be a copy of the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

$1 Down Brings You the Complete Work

This great work, that Mrs. Barrett purchased at great personal sacrifice and that proved to be of such great benefit to her children, can now be owned by anyone. The publishers have brought out a wonderful new issue, with smaller page and smaller print, but containing every word, every map and every illustration that is in the larger books.

You can obtain this new "Handy Volume" issue for a little while, at one-third the price of the "Cambridge University" issue, and for a first payment of only One Dollar.

Make it your business to see it to-day.
 Help your children to success.

YOU MUST ACT QUICKLY

This very remarkable bargain can be offered only a little while longer. The publishers notify us that after the sets now on hand are exhausted they cannot supply any more at the present prices.

The contracts for the "Handy Volume" issue were made before the war began. The drastic increase in the cost of raw materials makes it impossible to renew them. Paper has advanced over 25%, leather more than 28%, binder's boards 40%, etc.

Do not delay a day in sending for particulars of our offer.

Richly Illustrated Book of 130 pages about it

You won't put it down till you've finished it.

If it is not convenient to go and see the volumes for yourself, the publishers have prepared a wonderfully interesting book of 130 pages, entitled "A Book of 100 Wonders"—over 200 pictures—giving you curious bits of information which reveal the Encyclopaedia Britannica, from 100 points of view—and how it may be useful to you.

Send your name on a post card, or cut out and mail the coupon below and it will be sent to you at once. Send now, for the present low price can last only a little while longer.

The Highest Paid Editor in the World, Arthur Brisbane, whose salary is greater than that of the President of the United States, says—
 "It is really a misfortune for a family of children to grow up, or for a man of woman to carry on the work of self-education, without the Encyclopaedia Britannica."
 "The knowledge of the world combined and arranged by the ablest scholars is in those volumes. In those pages every question is answered. To develop in children the habit of using the Encyclopaedia Britannica would be of the greatest possible value to them."
