Reed Sues to Get Money from Miller Estate for State

Attorney General Willis E. Reed this morning filed a petition in county court claiming for the state of Nebraska the remainder of the property of the late William Miller, who died intestate.

Miller was killed by a train several years ago, but before dying, an attorney who administered first aid obtained the right to sue. A judgment of $5,000 was collected and half of this went to the lawyer and $500 more for expenses. No claimant appeared for the rest of turned over to the state some time ago, but at the last minute a claimant appeared. Reed will contest the claim, and the case will be heard by County Judge Bryce Crawford some time this

There is a real risk in waiting too long to order your Cadillac

EACH year we have urged the public to guard against possible disappoint

And each year, in spite of this warning, many have had to content themselves with some other car because they could not get a Cadillac. In spite of steady increases in production, the annual Cadillac shortage is almost a mathematical certainty. There is every indication that the current season will see that condition materially emphasized.

There is the steady, stable, year in and year out Cadillac demand to begin witha very large number who automatically repeat. And then, there is the large-and steadily growing larger-element of increase in new Cadillac ownership. This has been strikingly marked ever since the advent of the Cadillae "Eight."

Thus far its sales have reached the impressive total of more than twenty-six thousand cars, amounting to more than fifty-five million dollars. The vogue of the Cadillac Eight has never been perceptibly checked or challenged by any other car.

True, there may have been, from time to time, cars which in advance gave promise of comparable charm.

But their appearance served rather to stimulate admiration for the Cadillac and to emphasize its inimitable qualities.

Cadillac prestige is based on the universal esteem for the soundness of Cadillac policies and the soundness of Cadillac principles of construction and the feeling that the new Cadillac exemplifies the most luxurious form of motoring yet evolved.

Cadillac prestige is steadily growing greater—the Cadillac demand will go right on expanding in volume and in enthusiasm.

Cadillac represents the most modern idea of automobile construction. It represents more car dollar for dollar than any other automobile built. It represents more comfort, luxurious design and longer life.

Therefore, when we urge you to assure yourself of Cadillac delivery, it is that you may guard against disappointment. If you can secure a Cadillac now, protect yourself, and take it.
