The best thing to use is just plain multifaceted coconut oil, for this is pure and entirely free of alkali. It is very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces.

Those to be appointed CONFEREES AGREE ON NATIONAL GUARD CLAUSE

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Reorganization and federalization of the National Guard as proposed by the house, whereby they would be created a militia reserve of approximately 200,000 men was tentatively agreed upon today by the conferees of the same body. The tentative provisions for the National Guard were along the same lines as those in the house bill, but would include the 200,000 men.

There are conditions in connection with it as to military. The bill now circulating with their own death effects have been set, and it is high time that they had. In their place we have the old militia and army cadets, at which Chamberlain's Veterans is one of the most popular. When the proper time is later the effect of these tablets is so apparent that it has been produced by a medicine. Chamberlain's Tablets also strengthen the stomach and improve the digestion.

METHODISTS URGE DRY WHITE HOUSE

Resolution Offered Appealing to Wilson to 'Abolish Wine Cup' Where He Can.

CAUSES STIR IN CONVENTION

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., May 3.—Reports of the progress of Methodism in China, Korea and Japan, were presented to the Methodist Episcopal general conference tonight, by two of the missionaries bishops of the church, W. S. Lewis for China and M. C. Harris for Korea and Japan.

The great outstanding need in China, Bishop Lewis said, is for a standardized and efficient educational system. The government he declared is so burdened by indemnity taxation, the upbuilding of an army and navy absolutely necessary for the defense of the nation, and so occupied in the labors incident to the inauguration of representative government that it has neither time nor money to organize an educational system.

Report of Harris. Bishop Harris described the growth of the Japanese Methodist church, which now has a membership of 15,387, a gain of 25 per cent in the last four years. There are 5,334 Sunday schools with 25,306 pupils, or nearly one-third of the entire Sunday school strength of the Protestant church in Japan.

In Korea the native Methodists number 4,390, a four-fold increase in twelve years. At the business session today the committee on finance in its report recommended that a budget system be instituted to cover each four-year period and that the several benevolent boards be united in an effort to prevent unnecessary expenditure of money and duplication of efforts. Since the conference in 1912 the church has raised $156,000, 50 per cent of which was expended for church building, pastoral support and current expenses.

Want White House Dry. Some little flurry was caused by the introduction of a resolution expressing regret because wine was reported to be served at dinners at the White House. The resolution would have the conference appeal to President Wilson to 'abolish the wine cup for all functions over which he has control, and would request the president to endorse and support pending measures for nationwide prohibition.

It was introduced by Rev. James W. Anderson of Oregon, Mo., and was endorsed by all the delegates from the Missouri conference. This resolution was referred without comment to the committee on temperance, to which also was referred another Missouri resolution to request the great national political convention to incorporate a prohibition plank in the platform of the respective parties.

KESSLER AND SON HAD DAY IN COURT

Neighbor Says Woman Was Not in Hospital to Her Knowledge—Boy Not a Minor at Grocer

THEY LAUGHED AT THE GROCER

While admitting resort to garnishment to enforce collection of his bill against Samuel Kessler in the case, brought to the attention of the city welfare department, as reported in The Bee, M. L. Woolfson, the Cumming street grocer, insisted that he was entirely justified in his course by the circumstances and that all blame attaches to the man refusing to pay his honest debts.

Justice Haackel, before whom the case appeared, tells the story of the case. "It developed that both the son and father merely laughed at the grocer when he asked them to pay the grocery debt that had contracted with him. They told Woolfson they would pay nothing. When the grocer brought suit against them in justice court, the father declared he did not owe the debt because the groceries had been sold to his son. The grocer admitted that some of the groceries had been purchased by the son, and then got out a summons for the son as well as the father.

"This is eminently his right, according to law, for the son, although a minor, was some 18 or 20 years old, and a minor who has attained to the age of 14 or over, may be sued for a debt of this kind, particularly where it is shown that he is working and supporting the family or contributing largely to that support. The law emancipates him from minority in a case in which he is supporting himself, and wholly or partly supporting the family, and that is what this minor son of Sam Kessler was doing.

Father and Son Appear. "Father and son appeared in court on the day they were summoned to appear. Instead of letting the case go to trial, they took a continuance for a few weeks. On the day to which the hearing was postponed, however, they failed to appear, thus allowing judgment by default. Even if it had been true that the son was not liable for the debt, which in this case was not true, the recourse of the boy was to come into court and plead minority. The course was open to him, but would have done him no good for, under the law, he has attained his majority by earning his own living and contributing to the support of the family.

"Disappointment did not follow until after the Kesslers had been notified that judgment had been taken against them and until after they had been asked to come and pay to the court as is proper in such cases. Again, the Kesslers laughed and repeated with oaths that they would not pay a cent.

"Only this was governmental, the national next step, remained to be taken. After the normal time for appeal had passed, F. W. Driscoll appeared in court and asked that judgment be set aside on the grounds that the boy was a minor. This would not be done, for, by the proper filing of a plea, he had made the district court, and this he would not do.

Before Wallace Sued. "It appears that the Wallace boys were then appeared in, but if there was a hearing before the judge the court was very much surprised when he was told of his attorney.

Mr. H. Hoover, 21 South Twenty-ninth street, a neighbor of the Kesslers and a relative of John C. Wallace, said:

"My knowledge, the Kessler boy was never seen in a hospital, at least not recently, and the family did not live in a hospital, but in a home at 21 North Twenty-ninth street.

"Wallace is not the only one in the city of the city who has had with difficulty in trying to control money. It is common knowledge among neighbors that the Kesslers are wealthy, good pay, and so on.

WHAT MEN DON'T KNOW OF WOMEN

"The best health restorer I ever tried" is the way Ray Wagner Bowen, of 250 Templeton street, Omaha, describes Tanlac, and Mr. Bowen's experience certainly justified his enthusiasm.

"I certainly can recommend Tanlac without fear of contradiction," Mr. Bowen stated.

"I was very nervous before I took Tanlac. I had no appetite for anything. I had no addition—no 'get-up'—and it was an effort for me to get to work. I had lost weight. I used to have pain over my kidneys.

"I saw the advertisements of Tanlac in the newspapers and tried it. After taking one bottle of Tanlac I could readily see the change. I got no time in getting another bottle. I could see how much it helped me from the first bottle.

"I have eaten a good appetite. My nerves are much better. I am gaining weight. And I live to do my work. I feel fine.

"Tanlac put new life in me. It makes me feel good and well. I have no pain in my back. I can get up and go to work without fear of any ailment. It is the best health restorer I ever tried."
