

BRICKLAYERS ARE LEAVING THE CITY

Report That They Have Gone to Other Towns Where They May Secure Steady Work.

TEAMSTERS MAY GO ON STRIKE

Some of the union bricklayers, who have been working on the construction work in Omaha up to the outbreak of the laborers' strike the first of the week, are now leaving the city.

They are leaving because when the brick tenders and mortar mixers quit, their work stops.

Just how many have left for other cities is not definitely known, but contractors say here and there their bricklayers have gone and have announced that they intend to go to other cities where they can get steady work.

The fact that they are leaving is taken by the contractors to mean that the strike here is to be of considerable duration. They take it to mean that the union bricklayers have an understanding with the laborers which gives them inside information that the strike here is not likely to be soon settled.

Teamsters May Strike.

It is commonly reported that the teamsters are to strike Monday. This is not confirmed and is merely rumored among the builders. It is believed to be a sympathetic movement, in an effort to get out a larger representation of strikers in various lines.

Building construction work is largely at a standstill as yet in Omaha as a result of the strike, as very few, if any, men have returned to work who struck early in the week.

The scale of wages paid by contractors to their common labor has varied greatly with the contractors and with the particular kind of common labor performed. While many paid 25 cents an hour for diggers and for other general labor work, some paid 30, while on the other hand, as low as 17 1/2 cents an hour was paid to some laborers on a few of the big jobs.

"HIGH FINANCE" BROUGHT WRECK TO DECATUR BANK

upon having his $50 dividend in cash. He got it also.

Still, when people saw Elliott would really pay the dividend to those who asked for it, confidence was strengthened and one after the other refused the cash and instead threw in good money to acquire more of the stock.

Little Bookkeeping Legerdemains.

So in an incredibly short time the increased stock subscription was raised, and the records of the State Banking board show that on August 4, 1915, just four days after the 60 per cent dividend was declared, the capital stock was boosted by $15,000.

It becomes evident at once that practically $5,000 of this was in reality not paid at all, but was merely transferred on the books in the shape of the fictitious dividend and credited to the various stockholders to apply on the new stock. The other $10,000 was paid in, at least so it is said.

To be exact, it was a little over $10,000 in cash that had to be paid in, for it will be remembered that Jerry O'Rourke and Dr. E. A. Sears drew out in the cold cash of their respective dividends of $50 each instead of applying them on stock.

This is only one of the very interesting manipulations that occurred during the banking career of Cashier John E. Elliott.

Dream Is Now Over.

Less than one year after this the doors were closed by the State Banking board. They are closed now and the state examiners, A. D. Toussaint and T. R. Riley are in charge of the bank. They have been exceedingly busy for a series of days checking up and auditing the books.

It is conservatively estimated that the losses will be $50,000.

The stockholders are, of course, responsible on the double liability clause, and after they have made good to that extent the state bank guarantee fund will be called upon to furnish the balance to the depositors.

Those acquainted with the affairs of the respective stockholders, estimate that the double liability on the $25,000 of capital stock should yield in actual cash about $12,000. The other $13,000 of stock is said to be held by persons from whom no money could be forced by an assessment. If this estimate is correct, the bank guarantee fund will be subject to depletion from $12,000 to $13,000, to make good the claims of all depositors. The failed bank has paid into the guaranty fund just a trifle over $500, or rather has it credited to the fund on its books.

Secretary Horace of the State Banking board has just issued a statement in which he says for a number of days and "are of the opinion that there may be some bad paper in the bank."

Last Statement of Bank.

Following is the statement of the condition of the bank at the close of business, May 5, 1916, as given out by the state board:

RESOURCES
Loans and discounts	$14,000.00
Real estate	10,000.00
Cash and due from other banks	10,000.00
Banking houses furniture and fixtures	4,000.00
Expenses	4,000.00
Total	$36,000.00
LIABILITIES
Capital	$10,000.00
Undivided profits	1,000.00
Reserve	10,000.00
Depositors' guarantee fund	10,000.00
State guaranty	1,000.00
Due to depositors	1,000.00
Total	$36,000.00

Stockholders Who Are Liable.

Following is the list of stockholders who will be held for double liability: John E. Elliott, D. R. Watson, H. D. Byrnes, Louis Lissman, George Thomas, J. B. Parsons, Theodore Hanson, Theodore Connolly, A. A. Parsons, Roy Tupper, J. B. Walker, A. L. Board and Mike Tupper, mother of Roy Tupper.

The directors are H. D. Byrnes, J. B. Parsons, D. R. Watson, Theodore Hanson and John E. Elliott.

The real solution, however, are likely to be the safe and sound state banks. However, that may be a long story.

Will Dynamite Bed Of Lagoon to Drain It

AURORA, Neb., May 12.—(Special.)—J. G. Bergeson, the owner of the biggest lagoon of Hamilton county, will soon begin a dynamite campaign for the purpose of draining his lake. He has been advised by experts that if he will break up the gumbo beneath the lagoon with dynamite that the water will seep into the soil and he can raise big crops where heretofore he has raised nothing but frogs and mosquitoes. Mr. Bergeson has been collecting ammunition and will soon begin the bombardment. C. W. Lakin, who has had much experience with dynamite and giant powder, will assist Mr. Bergeson in "blowing up the lake."

Mother Most Beloved

The years roll on that bring me nearer to you. But you have never seemed very far away. The wheels of time have left their tracks on all about us, but your dear face has remained just the same. What you said to us, and the memories of what you did for us, come back and back to your children in the silence of the day, and never is there a sickness or trial, nor a joy, that you are not present in some measure. More than a thousand times since you journeyed on we have said, "If only mother were here," as of old, that we might say the word and do the thing we "postponed" or "forgot." G. H. M.
