PLACES BUT FIND LITTLE

Burglars were fairly active the last twelve hours, but their efforts did not prove overly profitable.

Obviously of a patriotic turn of mind, a party or parties broke into the building of the Marshall Paper company, 1215 Howard street, and stole several boxes of fireworks. Detectives recovered part of the stolen property in an alley back of the building.

The home of E. A. Patton, 2610 Patrick avenue, was entered by majority of whom probably will be thieves, who ransacked several rooms, stealing a wedding ring belonging to Mrs. Patton. The ring was a family heirloom. Prying open a window in the rear of the building, burglars entered the office of the Omaha Warehouse company, 609 Jones street, and ransacked the vault, according to a report made

LOAN SHARK LAW WORKS NICELY HERE

Suit Against Youth, Who Borrowed an X, Dropped When Justice Claiburne Just Hints.

COX COMPANY HOLDS NOTE

Somewhere in Omaha a young man named Jack Branson is chuckling over the wisdom of the law makers in Lincoln who at a recent session of the legislature passed a stringent "loan shark" law. He is also contemplating with some satisfaction the fact that he will not be forced to return in a hurry ten "iron men" he borrowed not long ago in Justice H. H. Claiborne tells of the affair as follows, mentioning the fact that the case in point is the first started since the new legislation was enacted:

Young Bronson borrowed $10 of the Cox company in the Paxton building, giving his note for $12, the same to be paid within a certain time. He failed to settle as agreed and the Cox company brought suit. The case was to have been tried before Justice Vincent C. Hascall. No License, Tis Said.

"I was retained by Branson to defend him. In filing my answer to the suit I mentioned the fact that the company appeared to have neg-lected to take out a license and also touched on the fact that, with all possible allowances, the amount charged on $10 could not have been more than 80 cents.

"I showed that more than that would be usury and pointed out the provision in the law that any violator would be subject to a fine of at least $25, with a bint of imprisonment. That was several days ago. This morning E. Leslie Hyde, counsel for the company, came in and tore up
