NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

Stocks Sell Off on Account of State Department's Stand on Matter of the Seizure of Mails.

ONLY FAVORITES ARE STEADY

New York, May 27.—The emphatic language employed by the state department in its protest over mail seizures to Great Britain and France afforded an excuse, if not an actual reason for the decline of the week-end session on the exchange.

Important rails broke 1 to 3/4 points. War issues and affiliated shares, including motors and metals, were lower by almost 5 points, with substantial recessions in Mexican Mercantile, United Fruit and miscellaneous descriptions.

Reading not only effected all its 10-point advance of the early week, but at the minimum of $100,000 a net loss for that period of almost 3 points.

For the sixth consecutive week, the clearing house statement disclosed a further contraction of reserves, this week's decrease of virtually $10,000,000 drawing the total actual excess reserves down to about $50,000,000.

This week's statements also showed a loan expansion of almost $10,000,000 and a cash loss of approximately $10,000,000.

Today's bond market was irregular on nominal dealings, with total sales par value $1,000,000.

HAPPENINGS IN THE MAGIC CITY

Comic Play "Pocahontas" Presented by High School Students Wins Plaudits.

Young Actors Score Well. Harold Shainholz as the president of "these new United States," with Sadie Rotholz as Pocahontas, his bride, and Ralph Goldberg as Chief Pow-Hat-On of the Indian tribe...

Raymond Wilson scored much applause as "Ah-Hum," a medicine man of the tribe. His quaint remarks throughout the play won applause after applause.

Mis Dickman, supervisor of music, led the orchestra and chorus throughout. Lillian Brooker was popular as a middle-aged "old-maid" Indian woman, the mother-in-law of the chief, who was not at all backward in proclaiming her love for Smith after his capture.

The play was given in two acts, the second setting being in the court of Queen Anne in England.

Joe Baughman and Captain Briggs raided two alleged disorderly houses last evening. The "Last Chance" saloon, at the end of the Maple avenue car line, was surprised at 10:25 o'clock and six persons arrested besides the bartender, Mike Callahan, who was in charge.

The effect of these first tractor demonstrations has been marvelous. Every corn belt state now has one or more annual tractor demonstrations. Farmers are learning the better way of farming—by power—manufacturers are learning the type and size of tractor to build—new tractor factories are springing up over night all over the country—implement trade publications are even changing their name to include the word "tractor."

These tractor demonstrations have been marked successes and have attracted world-wide attention. Men have come to see them from practically every state in the Union and several from foreign countries.

Besides being the originator of the tractor demonstrations, the Twentieth Century Farmer is the only farm paper that has conducted its demonstrations entirely with its own organization.

This summer, a circuit of probably eight demonstrations in that many different states, will be conducted by the Tractor Manufacturers' Association, and a Twentieth Century Farmer man has been selected as the manager. The plans and field rules originated by the Twentieth Century Farmer will govern each demonstration.
