

AD MEN READY FOR TOUR OF NEBRASKA

Easterners Will Be Taken Over State as Guests of Publishers' Bureau.

TO ARRIVE IN OMAHA JUNE 5

Everything is in readiness for the "Seeing Nebraska" tour to be made over this state in a special train by eminent eastern advertising experts during the week beginning Monday, June 5, under the auspices of the Nebraska Publishers' bureau, which consists of fifteen of the leading newspapers and farm publications of the state.

There will be about thirty guests from New York City and Boston and Philadelphia. The party will leave New York on the New York Central's crack train at 5:30 p. m. Saturday, June 3, arriving in Chicago Sunday afternoon at 4 and starting for Omaha at 6 over the Northwestern, bringing the guests into Omaha Monday morning, June 5, at 7:20 o'clock. Norris A. Huse, of Norfolk, secretary of the Nebraska Publishers' bureau, will leave next Monday for New York City to escort the easterners back to Nebraska in behalf of the Nebraska publishers.

The first day will be spent in Omaha. The party will be entertained at breakfast at the Fontenelle hotel and then will be taken in automobiles for a trip through the packing house district, the retail district and the wholesale region, besides visiting some of the big factories. Lunch will be had at the Field club and dinner in the evening at the Country club, after which the easterners will be given a touch of Nebraska spirit at the Ak-Sar-Ben den performance. They will spend the night at the Fontenelle hotel.

First Stop at Fremont.

On Tuesday morning after breakfast a special train consisting of three all-steel Pullman cars, one of the Union Pacific De Luxe club cars and a baggage car, with electric light equipment, will leave over the Union Pacific at 9 for Fremont, arriving at 10. Two hours will be devoted to seeing Fremont, and an hour for lunch at the Country club. The train will leave Fremont at 1 p. m. for West Point, arriving at 2 p. m., and an hour there devoted to seeing Cuming county farms and West Point stores. The train will leave West Point at 3, arriving at Wisner at 3:30, where the Wisner Commercial club will take the guests in automobiles to two typical farms, at which pure blooded livestock can be seen. In automobiles the party will go to Pilger, rejoin the train there at 5 p. m. for the trip to Norfolk, which will be reached at 6, and at Norfolk the night will be spent. A picnic dinner will be served the guests on the lawn at the Country club, and the next morning an hour will be devoted to seeing Norfolk stores. At 9:30 the party will leave in automobiles for Wayne, where lunch will be served on the court house lawn. The automobiles will return to Norfolk at 2:30 for the railroad trip to Columbus, which will be reached at 4:15.

The Columbus Commercial club will entertain the guests at supper, and in the evening Dr. George E. Condra will exhibit to the visitors his moving picture scenes of Nebraska. About a mile of film will be shown. The train will leave Columbus at 5 a. m., Thursday morning, reaching Grand Island in time for breakfast. After an automobile trip around Grand Island, the train will leave at 11 a. m. for Kearney, where lunch will be served and another automobile trip taken. At 3 p. m. the train leaves for Hastings, arriving at 4:40, where the party remains until 8 p. m., when the guests will be taken in automobiles to the McKelvie farm eighteen miles south of Hastings, where the night will be spent in tents, giving the visitors a taste of Nebraska farm life in the open. In the morning the easterners will wash their faces in the horse trough and breakfast will be served at the farm. Automobiles will then take them to Harvard, where the train will be waiting and the trip to Lincoln will be made. Here the state farm and a number of other interesting places will be visited during the day, and the visitors will be given an opportunity to play a round of golf during the afternoon. At 4:50 that afternoon the private Pullman car chartered for this party will be attached to an east-bound Burlington train reaching Chicago at 9 a. m. Saturday morning, just as the republican national convention is winding up. At 10:30 the car will be attached to the Pennsylvania railroad's Manhattan limited and will reach New York Sunday morning, June 11, at 9:28 o'clock.

Seventy in Party.

On the trip over Nebraska there will be about seventy in the party, including representatives of the various newspapers comprising the Nebraska Publishers' bureau; Dr. Condra of the Nebraska university, recognized authority on Nebraska geography and soil; Prof. Pugsley of the State agricultural school, and W. R. Mellor, secretary of the Nebraska Board of Agriculture, will be on the train to answer any questions concerning Nebraska agriculture that the visitors might ask. A few prominent wholesalers, manufacturers and bankers who are in touch with state-wide problems will also be on the train. Miles Greenleaf, an Omaha newspaper man, has been selected as official press reporter to make the trip and send out telegraphic matter to the state and eastern newspapers twice a day. A novel feature on the train will be the publication of a daily newspaper. A press will be installed in the baggage car and various members of the party will edit various departments of the "Seeing Nebraska Daily."

A number of eastern magazines and trade journals have already published stories concerning this trip, which is unique in state advertising methods and it is regarded in all quarters as the biggest move ever undertaken to advertise the state of Nebraska. The newspapers which raised a fund of $5,000 to pay the expenses of this Nebraska advertising trip are: Omaha Bee, Omaha World-Herald, Omaha Times, Lincoln Journal, Lincoln Daily News, Norfolk Daily News, Omaha Daily Tribune (evening), Omaha Herald, Omaha Lincoln News, Lincoln Nebraska Farm Journal, Omaha Hastings Tribune, Hastings Tribune, Fremont Tribune, Grand Island Independent, Grand Island Kearney Times, Kearney Nebraska City News, Nebraska City, Columbus Telegram, Columbus.

Pageant of Lincoln to Illustrate Legends of Omaha

WILLOW DANCERS IN THE PAGEANT OF LINCOLN, TRAINED BY CHARLOTTE WHEEDON.

"The Gate City," a book by Hartley B. Alexander, which contains the text to be spoken at the Pageant of Lincoln to be given in Lincoln June 5 and 6 has been printed. The pageant celebrates the Omaha Indians and the city of Omaha today.

The pageant is divided into two parts. First is "The Sacred Tree of the Omaha Tribe," and the second "Coronado's Vision." Priests, acolytes, war leaders, eagle spirits, buffalo spirits, bear spirits, wolf spirits, warriors and tribesfolk form some of the dramatic personae in the first part.

In the second are seen Coronado, Don Rodrigo Maldonado, Captain Juan Jaramillo, Captain Diego Lopez, Friar Luis de Ubeda (Yasopete, an Indian guide, and Tatarax, king of Quivera, as well as Spanish cavaliers, negro and Indian attendants, etc.

The text is written in verse to carry the spirit of the various scenes. Indian Dances Abound. The dances are the important features of the pageant. Those in the very beginning show the dumb-play enactment of the great Indian ritual of the Calumet. Stage pictures here will be made by the two priests of the Calumet, symbolizing the two keepers of the famous tribal pipes of the Omaha tribe, accompanied by sixteen acolytes, thus making an impressive feature of one of the most impressive of all Indian rites.

The costumes of the Indians for the pageant is to be conventional and symbolic rather than literal in spirit.

The second dance in the pageant will be symbolic of an Indian war dance to the accompaniment of a truly symphonic interpretation of the Indian spirit. Brilliant colors will predominate. Following this there will be a processional movement, the chorus of lamenting women the whole being in nature and conception dramatic. The mythological portion of the first part of the pageant contains a number of dances. First will be the star chorus, in Nile green costumes, with stars and brilliant star wands, at night illuminated. Following this will come the dance of animal powers.

There is to be a great scene, in which the Morning Star, clad all in red, as is the Indian conception, and the star chorus, in their lustrous robes, will sing an ode, to which the Earth Spirit will give an interpretation in the form of an esthetic dance of Greco-Indian type. Miss Charlotte Wheedon will assume this role of the Earth Spirit. Her costume for this part will be in green and gold and corn yellow. It is represented in a conventionalized form in the posters of the pageant, which are now being displayed.

In the part following Miss Wheedon's appearance comes the Thunderbird dance, one of the most spectacular features of the pageant. Black and white and red and yellow are the colors of the Thunderbird costumes, the ensemble representing the mythical birds, which, in the Indian conception, are the bringers of the thunder storm.

A last dance in the first part of the pageant is the Willow dance. The willow wands which the dancers will wear are the Indian counterparts of the palm leaf branch of the Orient. They symbolize peace and life and light and joy. A group of specially trained dancers under the charge of Miss Wheedon will here give what is expected to be one of the most beautiful dances presented in Nebraska.

In the interlude between the first and second parts of the pageant there will be a children's dance. The dancer of the children last year was one of the most taking features of Lincoln's pageant. It is expected that the children's dance this year, which is given special prominence in a place by itself, will not fall short of that of last year.

The second part of the pageant, "Coronado's Vision," represents the great adventure of Coronado. At the end of this part comes the vision. The forest of the wilderness will divide, a great gate shining with the Rainbow will appear, and through the gate will be seen the illuminated sky-line of the City of Omaha. As the vision is revealed, forth from the gate will pour the singers and dancers of the Rainbow song which takes up the symbolism of Omaha both as the Rainbow City of the Gate and City of Rainbow promise. The Rainbow dance here is expected to be of wonderful beauty, the costumes of the dancers being in all the colors of the rainbow. Succeeding this will come a solo dance by Miss Wheedon, in a costume issue of gold appearing as the Genius of the Rainbow. This will be the climax of the pageant. It will be followed by a processional chorus, chanting, song of wonderful melody, Spanish in form, as is all the music for Part II of the pageant.

Word has been received in Lincoln that Miss Alice C. Fletcher and Mr. Francis La Flesche, both of the American Bureau of Ethnology, Washington, D. C., are to make a special trip to Lincoln for the purpose of being present at the initial performance of "The Gate City." Miss Fletcher and Mr. La Flesche will be the guests of the Lincoln Commercial club while in the city.

The year the joint authors of "The Omaha Tribe," one of the greatest monographs published by the government bureau. It is in this work that the story for the first part of the pageant, "The Sacred Tree of the Omaha Tribe," is published; as also are many of the melodies which will appear as themes in music written by Mr. Eames. Several years ago Miss Fletcher called Mr. Alexander's attention to this beautiful legend, as suitable material for a finely representative pageant.

Miss Fletcher is doubtless the most eminent woman ethnologist in America—perhaps in the world. Her career in this work has been long and eminent, both in connection with the Peabody museum of Cambridge and the National bureau in Washington. She has held many important offices in anthropological societies and has worked extensively with Indians of several tribes. She has been, however, most intimately associated with the Omaha tribe, of which she is a member by adoption.

Francis La Flesche, who collaborated with Miss Fletcher on "The Omaha Tribe," and who is now working on a similar monographic description of the Osage Indians, is a son of Estamaze, the Omaha chieftain, known also as Joseph La Flesche.

BLAKSLEE DEFENDS HIS LOBBY ACTION

He Tells Senate Committee That Amendments Are Complete Surrender to Railroads.

ALSO CRIPPLE RURAL SERVICE

Washington, May 27.—Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Blakslee told the senate postoffice committee its face today that he considered its amendments to the postal bill a surrender to the railroads, and although he drew the wrath of senators at the hearing upon him, he defended his action in organizing a campaign against the amendments.

The committee met to investigate charges that Blakslee organized a lobby. Blakslee frankly told the committee he considered their amendments bad, took up the bill in detail to prove his charge that they were a surrender to railroads and defiantly told the senators of his work for their defeat.

The amendments to which Blakslee referred concern the railway mail pay, which is a long standing controversy, and the rural delivery. He told the senators they had by their amendments given the railroads what they wanted and would disorganize 800 rural delivery routes and inconvenience 300,000 citizens. He told the committee he had acted without the knowledge of Postmaster General Burleson.

Mr. Blakslee took full responsibility for actions which he described in a statement to the effect that, based on his own experience with postal affairs of three years and the advice of experts in the department, he had reached the conclusion that the amendments were bad. With that in mind, he said he telegraphed, telephoned and wrote to everyone he could to defeat them, including postmasters, who he asked to communicate with their patrons and representatives in congress. His letter declared the senate committee had made a "complete surrender to the railroads."
