WOMAN SO WEAK COULD NOT SLEEP

Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

North Oxford, Mass.—"I had lost three children and I was all run down and so weak I could not sleep at night. My eyesight would leave me and everything I ate upset my stomach. I was very nervous and if I would start to sweep I would have to stop and lie down before I could finish. I was looking over the paper one day and read of a woman who felt as I did and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I took it too. Now I am proud to tell you I am feeling fine and have given birth to a boy baby. He is my 'Pinkham' baby. I keep a bottle of Compound in my house always."—Mrs. PETER MARCO, Box 54, North Oxford, Mass.

Sleeplessness, indigestion, weakness, and nervousness are symptoms which indicate a lowered vitality of the female organism, and the tonic, strengthening properties of the good old fashioned roots and herbs, contained in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, are just what is needed by every woman who is in Mrs. Marco's condition.

HAPPENINGS IN THE MAGIC CITY

Elaborate Preparations Made For the Observance of Memorial Day.

YOUNG LABORER IS INJURED

Annual memorial celebrations in honor of local members of Phil Kearney post, Grand Army of the Republic; Spanish-War Veterans and Woman's Relief corps will open this morning at the First Christian church at Twenty-third and I streets with the memorial address by Rev. John G. Alber of the church. Major J. W. Cress, local commandant of the veterans' post, will lead the soldiers into the church shortly before 11 o'clock.

Enthusiasm in the Decoration day celebration is intense. Sons of veterans have gathered together a number of automobiles and all of the South Side public school children have volunteered to furnish flowers for decorating the graves of the dead.

A committee headed by the commandant will embark from the Cress residence, 4427 South Twenty-third street, Monday morning and make the rounds of the different public schools gathering the flowers. Flags will also be represented among the school gifts.

Another delegation will meet at the postoffice at Twenty-fifth and M streets Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock and take the flowers and flags in hand for distribution at the graveyard. A memorial march will leave the postoffice at this hour for the Omaha municipal Auditorium at Fifteenth and Howard streets, North Side, where a mass union service of all war veterans and sons of Omaha will be held under the supervision of the uptown commander.

He was taken to the South Side hospital unconscious. Bystanders say that Frank Clark, a brother of the young man, dealt the blow. The latter was arrested later in the evening by Sergeant James Sheahan and Detectives Fleming and Sullivan and is being held as a suspicious character awaiting testimony of his brother.

The young man was reported to be resting easily at a late hour last evening. Dr. E. F. Shanahan attended him.

Bachman Loses Money.

No money was forthcoming.

The Boy Who Knows!

"Now, who's right?"

What lusty, life-loving boy or girl ever grew up who didn't say it hundreds of times? And swell with pride when he or she was in the right.

And what parent ever lived who didn't glory in such youngsters; when they knew they knew?

What a handicap not to give every child—your child—a chance to know!

In after years, what will they say to you, think of you, if you don't?

You may not be able to send them to college; but you can give them the new Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Arthur Brisbane, the highest paid editor in the world, with a salary of $84,000 a year, says:

"It is really a misfortune for a family of children to grow up without the Britannica.

"The reading of every serious book should be done with the Britannica at hand. To develop that habit in children would be of the highest possible value to them."

Griffith Ogden Ellis, editor of The American Boy, writes:

"The Britannica plays a large and active part in our editorial reference library, for every year thousands of our boys ask us for information that the Britannica, if in their homes, would furnish them immediately while their interest is at fever heat—and, of course, more fully than we can give it to them by letter."

Edward Bok, the editor of The Ladies' Home Journal, the most important woman's paper published, writes concerning the "Handy Volume" Issue:

"No one knows until he has possessed a copy of this work how often one refers to it and how large a place it takes in one's reading and reference, and I am delighted to think that this work is now within the reach of thousands of people to whom its possession has up to this time been a dream."

Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president of Harvard University from 1869 to 1909, bought two sets of the new Britannica as soon as it came out. He wrote as follows:

"I bought two copies for the benefit of my two sets of grandchildren. I find the work altogether admirable and my grandchildren, who are at the most inquisitive ages, are of the same opinion."

Dr. S. C. Mitchell, president of the College of Delaware, writes:

"I do not know of a single benefit to a home comparable to this great set of books—a library within itself, compact and utilizable instantly. No gift that a father can confer upon his children can be compared to the value of these books in the home."

Miss Ellen C. Lombard, of the U. S. Bureau of Education, writes as follows:

"I am referring readers constantly to the Britannica in connection with the Reading Courses recently issued by the Bureau. For the home study of children and for general information, it is an encyclopaedia of unquestionable merit. Every home in the United States should be provided with this complete guide."

What Will Be Your Answer When Your Children Ask:

"Why Didn't We Have The Britannica?"

You can't say you didn't know about the most famous book of reference in the world;

a library that the best informed, the most highly educated and the most conspicuously successful people in every line of work use daily; a set of books that no library or university of any consequence would try to do without.

You can't plead ignorance of a book that has been famous for a century and a half, gathering authority and prestige with each of its eleven editions. You can't overlook a book so valuable that many people have echoed the words of Hon. Joseph Choate, "If I could have but one book, it would be the Britannica."

You can't say you can't afford The Encyclopaedia Britannica now that you can buy it for $1.00 down and $3.00 a month for a few months.

Even when it cost three times as much as it does today, it was the best investment any family could make. For the Britannica is not an expense item, but a safe and profitable investment that pays steady dividends in increased power and opportunity.

You can't imagine that your children aren't capable of enjoying the Britannica.

Perhaps you think your children are too young to enjoy the Britannica or that there is nothing in it to amuse and instruct children. The Britannica is exactly the book to interest an active-minded child, for it contains the answers to the innumerable questions that suggest themselves to his sharp eyes and ears. The more questions the child asks the more proof it gives of its intelligence. It is your duty to answer these questions or show your boy where to find the answers. Wouldn't it be a relief to you to be able to put your hand upon the answer to every puzzling question your child propounds?

Wouldn't you be glad to have your children self-reliant and able to hunt up the answers to such questions as

What makes it rain? What is the difference between a mushroom and a toadstool? How fast can a starfish crawl? Where does the dew come from? Where do corals get the material with which they build islands? Was there ever such a thing as a dodo? What is the biggest animal that ever lived on the earth? How deep can a diver work? How are lighthouses built? What is the advantage of automatic pistols over revolvers? What caused the Sahara Desert? Where did the hills come from?

(You will find answers to these questions in the book we send free of charge. See coupon.)
