JUNE WEDDING ON THE MOVIE SCREEN

Omaha Girl to Be Bridesmaid at a Wedding to Be Photographed in Iowa.

REAL SOCIETY ON THE FILMS

BY MELLIFICIA—June 1.

One of the June weddings will be a part of a real movie show. While the affair will not be in Omaha, one of the bridesmaids is an Omaha girl, and the location is a little west of midway between Chicago and Omaha. It's coming along—soon to be with us.

Of course, a "society movie" commenced this week, pictures taken at the home of Mrs. Charles Thomas Kountze and the Country club. But this is a scene for a regular film. They have been taking them in New York and Long Island for two years. Movie men go to blue book affairs and take pictures to fit into their scenarios, "the real classy things," to use the terms of the operators.

It is a noticeable thing that "society scenes" screened of late do not give clawhammer coats and soft hats and all the familiar outstaring of the earlier days of the film drama. True, there seems some very raw acting and all that—but perhaps they are real "society" folks—dressing the part.

Sloman-Feil Wedding.

The marriage of Miss Anna Feil and Mr. Hubert Edward Sloman was solemnized shortly after noon today at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Feil. Rabbi Frederick Cohn performed the ceremony on the veranda, which was banked with palms and ferns and peonies in brilliant pinks and reds.

For the entrance of the bride party, Miss Marie Swanson, harpist, played the Lohengrin wedding march, while the marriage lines were read to the soft strains of "The Angels' Serenade." Only relatives and very close friends were present.

The bride is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rosewater and a niece of Mr. Victor Rosewater, editor of The Bee.

Her bridal gown was of white gros de londre, made bouffant effect and trimmed with silk tulle lace. The close fitting bodice and flowing castle sleeves were of the same tulle lace, which also formed the lower part of the gown over which the taffeta was draped, and the waist was caught by a band of silver cloth.

With this was worn a short white tulle veil in pleated frill style in the back, bound to the hair with a silver band, and finished with orange blossoms, which were worn by the bride's mother on her wedding day. The bridal bouquet was a shower of roses and lilies of the valley.

There were no attendants. Mrs. Feil, mother of the bride, wore an attractive gown of Mrs. Ward rose color in taffeta, trimmed with Spanish lace.

There were a number of out-of-town guests at the wedding. From Detroit, there was Mrs. Cora Sloman, the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in black chiffon over taffeta, the bodice and sleeves of beaded chiffon, embroidered in gold and finished with a white satin collar; his sister, Miss Dorothy Sloman, who wore a white silk voile frock with girde of pale blue; and Mrs. Jacob Brown, whose gown was of black net and taffeta. Mrs. Harold Feil of Cleveland, who as Miss Nellie Elgutter, was a bride of last year, wore her wedding gown of white chiffon with crystal trimmings.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast for thirty-five guests was served. White peonies decorated the bridal table, while masses of the same flower were banked throughout the rooms. Mrs. Ward roses and daisies were used to ornament the smallest tables at which the guests were seated.

Later in the afternoon, the young couple left for Colorado for a few weeks' trip. The bride's go-away gown was of King's blue and black striped satin, the skirt made short and full with a band of blue at the bottom, and the coat with a deep sailor collar of blue and a black satin belt. With this was worn a blue Georgeanne erge blouse with apron-plum trimmings and a wide collar and tulle sleeves, edged with black.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Sloman will be at home with Mr. and Mrs. Feil.

Strawn-Kay Wedding.

For the fourth time since New Year's, an employe of the Beaton Drug company is to be married. The fourth bride is Miss Edna Kay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kay, whose marriage to Frank Strawn, pianist in the orchestra at the Fontanelle, will take place Sunday at Kountze Memorial church. The Rev. Oliver D. Balthy will read the marriage lines. The young couple will spend their honeymoon in Colorado.

Look Before You Eat

Better still, look before you buy Big Can Baking Powders. Look beyond the big bulk. Consider the quality. Think of what the can contains—of what it must contain to be sold at so low a price.

Think of the uncertain leavening power. Think of the bake day failures. Think of the double quantities often required to leaven bakings.

And Remember

that when these Cheap Powders do raise foods they sometimes leave the bakings bleached and acid, or yellow and alkaline—you don't get the sweet, light and tender baking you should have.

And Don't Forget

that big can powders are cheap in price because they are cheap in quality, that they are often unreliable. They are made to sell, not to serve and satisfy—they are not economical, either to buy or use.

Then Memorize These Facts

Calumet Baking Powder prevents failure and waste; it is absolutely pure—and absolutely dependable.

Only the best of materials of tested strength are employed in the making of Calumet. "Pinch the Coconut, Not the Fruit" is a Sign With a World of Meaning

"Pinch the coconut, not the fruit!" A seemingly innocent admonition, but really a brilliant idea originating in the mind of the manager of the fruit section in one of our largest food emporiums. Indeed, it is a sort of coup d'etat, a stroke of diplomacy and a means of tactfully avoiding a delicate situation, yet at the same time reminding a long felt truth.
