Prospect of An Agreement Between Conventions Upon G. O. P. PLATFORM Same Candidate in Slight Declaration of Principles Adopted by Republican National

BY VICTOR ROSEWATER.

Chicago, June 8 .- (Special Teleam.)-The decks are now cleared the main action of president

Today's meetings of the republican national convention may be characterized strictly business sessions, and by buckling down and aboiding side diversions, the preliminaries to nomination have been accomplished in a dignified manner without unseemly haste or deviation from the usual

The one thing of big significance, of course, is the appointment upon invi-tation of the Bull Moose convention of a special committee on conference to act with a like committee with a view of blazing a way to "get together." While I have some hope that the desired object may be attained, I must confess that at this moment of writing which is just after adjournment to the morrow, I am not over sanguine for I realize the tremendous obstacles in the way of complete and cordial co-operation between the two

Moose Unanimous.

It goes without saying that the Bull Moose delegates are almost unanimous for the nomination for Roosevelt, in fact I am informed that t was hard driving to induce them to ritiate the conference proposition before making their own nomination. It goes also without saying that the committee conference named by the Bull Moose will hold tenaciously for the Colonel. On the other side it seems equally abvious that the nomi nation of Rooseveit by the republi-can convention is next to impossible and that, if left to itself, it will name Hughes on a second or third ballot. The temper of many of the repub lican delegates this morning was that of being "nettled" by the threats and ultimatum talk on the part of the Bull Moose and a growing disposition to "shy off," but wholly free from bad humor as attested by the few dissents to the motion to accede to the conference request. Yet it should be understood too that the committee appointed to represent the republican convention is hardly a Hughes committee. On the face of it, it is made up preponderent-ly of men who have been intimately associated together in the senate.

"That committee, if it could have its own way, would be for Root," declared a well known man who knows the ins-and-outs of the game.

"This is the final effort," he added,
"to put through the original program to name Root, if the colonel and his followers can be brought to accept and support him."

To see the probability of prevailing or upon the republicans to take any-one acceptable to the bull moorers, except Hughes, seems such a long f the conference resulted in no more than an agreement to disgree and that the real agreement between the two parties would have to be brought about by conferences, later of course. "I may be miscalculating the conditions but that is the way they look to me for the moment, with what knowledge I have gleaned from the men on the inside and higher up.

I repeat that failure to agree the republicans regardless of the action of the convention of any other political party.

Platform Seekes High Level. The platform certainly strikes a high level of Americanism and progressiveism and can easily give com-mon standing room for all who ever called themselves republicans, It disticly an olive branch to the element that wandered away four years ago, but it is also an inspiring dec-laration of prinsipals to which all republicans can subscribe and a chal-lenge to the Americanism of evry

I might point out the importance of the new rules which as I have said writes into the constitution of the loyal citizen. party the reorganization begun by adjustment of delegate representation and makes definite the composition and responsibility of the party ma-binery. The unanimity with which all this was done shows the progto many of the points took such sharp
