Washington Orders 1,400 Men to the Border as It Hears of Growing Hatred Against Americans.

DE FACTO UNIFORM ON BANDIT

Laredo, Tex., June 13.—One of the three Mexican bandits killed today in the chase of outlaws who raided the T. A. Coleman ranch near Laredo last night wore a Carranza uniform bearing the insignia of a Carranza lieutenant colonel, according to a message received here tonight. One of the bandits taken prisoner identified the body at Webb, Tex., this afternoon as Lieutenant Colonel Villalobos of the Carranza army.

The bandits, variously reported to number eleven to fifteen, included several Japanese and made their first raid early Saturday night in the vicinity of Palaflo, Tex., about fifty miles west of Laredo. There they captured two American cowboys, who escaped later.

Washington Alarmed.
Washington, June 12.—With 1,500 additional regular troops ordered to the Mexican border tonight and reports of the rapid spread of anti-American feeling continuing to pour in from consuls all over northern Mexico, administration officials made no attempt to disguise their uneasiness. It was officially admitted that there is a growing alarm over what the agitation may produce and the possibility of an attack on General Pershing's expedition.

Part of the increasing apprehension here is due to the renewed raids in the Laredo region. Several reports dealing with the situation there have been received. It declined to reveal details but the impression of having reason to believe that a serious cause was behind the bandit raid on the Coleman ranch. Three raiders were killed and three captured, one report said, adding that they attempted to burn a railroad bridge near Laredo, but failed.

To Fill in Gaps.

The new force sent to join General Funston's border patrol, Secretary Baker said, was to fill in gaps in the guard such as that near Laredo. It will be composed of ten companies of coast artillery and a battalion of engineers. The artillerymen will be withdrawn from fortifications between Portland, Me., and Sandy Hook, and the engineers will go from barracks in this city. The secretary said there was no present intention of calling out additional National Guard regiments for border duty.

General Mann, commanding at Laredo, reported today that a patrol of three cavalrymen were fired on during the night of June 10, near the town of Hachita, and Private W. L. Sanders, troop K, Twelfth cavalry, was slightly wounded. Two mounted Mexicans who did the firing escaped.

A message from Captain Burrage, commanding the battleship Nebraska at Vera Cruz, said there was considerable unrest in that region, due apparently to the currency situation. There were no evidences of unfriendliness towards Americans, the message said. It added that the Carranza government had been sending troops and ammunition inland. Captain Burrage did not know the object of these troop movements.

Asks De Facto.

The State department through Special Agent Rodgers at Mexico City has called the attention of the de facto government to the anti-American outbreaks which for nearly two weeks had been spreading steadily. Many towns have held mass meetings and protested against the continued presence of American troops in Mexico.

The reports of consuls telling of the agitation were turned over to the Carranza officials more as a matter of information than as representations. Where his regular troops are in control apparently General Carranza has earnestly tried in most cases to prevent the holding of protest meetings and in some places contemplated meetings and parades have been prevented. There are instances, however, where the troops appear to have stood mildly by while the agitators stirred up antagonism against the United States.

Officials have been unable to determine the inspiration behind the sudden outbreak of anti-American feeling or to estimate the ability of Carranza to protect American lives and property. They feel that the real danger lies in the possible action of irregular forces now under the Carranza banner, but whose commander yields only doubtful allegiance to the central government.

Because of economic conditions in Mexico, officials feel that the possibility of serious trouble is enhanced. The currency situation is acute and the people are restless and easily stirred to outbreaks. Several consular agents have declared frankly in their reports that any eventuality might be expected if the agitation continued to spread.

The coast artillery ordered to the border today includes two companies from Portland, Me.; two from Boston, two from Narragansett Bay, two from Long Island, one from eastern New York, one from southern New York, and one from Sandy Hook. Approximately 1,000 men will compose this provisional infantry regiment.

The Carranza troops have repulsed the new rebel movement in the Tehuantepec region, according to today's advices.

State department reports indicate that Carranza's control over certain state governors is waning. The governors have issued decrees and even currency without the authority or approval of the central government.

Promises of Support.

San Antonio, Tex., June 12.—Army officers here are convinced that Luis De La Rosa has obtained from certain officers in Carranza's army promises of support in any border warfare which he may begin against Americans. Agents of the Department of Justice and of the State department have sent to Washington and to army headquarters here evidence which officers here regard as reliable that De La Rosa has been assured he will be unmolested by the de facto government troops and from at least one general officer of Carranza's army the promise of active co-operation.

Ring's New Third Party Planks Put Kibosh on Speech Making

BY RING W. LARDNER.

St. Louis, Mo., June 13.—(Special Telegram.)—A new third party was launched today. So far it is composed of three members and its name is the Three-I league, on account of all three talking all the time about themselves. As you have doubtless guessed, the three charter members are I and B. L. T. and Percy Hammond and our ticket is I for president, B. L. T. for vice president and Percy for secretary of the navy on account of he saying so much and not saying nothing except about himself.

The platform follows: First plank: It is illegal to make a speech.

Second plank: Those who make speeches should be choked to death.

Third plank: The capital of the United States must be moved from wherever it is to Louisville.

It was not without careful deliberation that we three decided to bolt the republicans and progressives and democrats. And while we realize that this move will change the entire political complexion, we should worry to use a slang expression.

Good Badge Chosen.
Our badge will be the American flag, which is a synonym for safety for American citizens everywhere except on the high sea and Mexico.

As for the democratic convention, which I am supposed to be covering, I found out some more real inside stuff today. The names of Anheuser and Busch have been withdrawn. When the party as one man decided that Woodrow Wilson must be the choice. Later it was ascertained that he can't get here and the convention will name nobody that isn't on the ground.

For vice president several names have been mentioned. At the mention of the most of them, you can't help from laughing. Governor Major of Missouri seems to have the best chance of getting the biggest laughs. Charles Warren Fairbanks and Governor Willis of Ohio are out of it. Mr. Smoot and Mr. Borax, the same. As for Roger Sullivan, I would like very much to see him get it, but here is what I heard today, and this is no foolishness, but honest to heaven facts.

Some Real Dope.
A man that's in the wine business and ought to know said that they won't never get a chance to vote for Roger because this here Marshall of Indiana is going to be nominated by acclamations, and the reason for that is on account of Fairbanks being nominated to run on the democratic ticket, the Indiana democrats would get mad and see that they wasn't no democrats elected.

As far as I'm concerned, I hope all candidates on both sides will get the stuffing beat out of 'em, and then maybe people will get wise to themselves and join the Three-I league.

Here is another piece of information, at least so the guy said that told to me, and he is a citizen of St. Louis and wouldn't knock his own town without a reason. He says they have never been a candidate at a convention in St. Louis that wasn't rimmed to a fare-you-well in the election, so I wish all the conventions would be held in St. Louis.

Barbers Knocking Hughes.

Other facts I picked up was that Mr. Hughes hasn't got a chance on account of concerted opposition from the Barbers' union. They're afraid he

BARBER FINDS SIMPLE WAY TO EASE HIS FEET

Barbers are great foot sufferers, as a rule. One barber who has been for years a victim of this trouble recently discovered a simple way to relieve his foot aches, pains and discomforts. He is telling all his friends and clients about it and there is general rejoicing among those who formerly suffered miserably from this trouble. This barber discovered a preparation called Wa-Na-Ta in the corner drug store. He bought a 25-cent package and taking it home, dropped two tablets in a basin of hot water and bathed his feet for a few minutes. To his delight, every ache and pain disappeared and his feet no longer troubled him. You can do the same. You can use Wa-Na-Ta with delightful effect in your body bath. Leaves skin soft and antiseptically clean. If your drug-gist hasn't Wa-Na-Ta, send us 10 cents and we'll mail you a sample package prepaid to your address. J. C. will start a fad that will put them out of business.
I and Mr. Hammond nearly had a good story today, but lost our nerve at the last minute. We called up Secretary Daniels' room and ast him for an interview.
"Who is this?" he says.
"It's Mr. Mullaney and Mr. Sullivan from the South Bend News-Times and South Bend Tribune," we says, hoping the Turkish names would appeal to him and also the fact that South Bend was the place where he made a speech once, and told the patients the United States had the greatest navy in the world on account of he and they seemed to believe it, and gave him hearty applause.

Passed Josephus Up.
"I will meet you at noon," he says, but we seen him at noon and he looked cross and we was afraid somebody would come up and tip off that we was with the Chicago Tribune and then he would probably run out and all up the United States battleship and have us blown to pieces, so we just passed him by like we didn't know who he was, but you couldn't miss knowing who he was just to look at him.

That's all I could find out about politics. As for the corps of experts, we got up between 7 and 11 this morning and had a fine breakfast of prunes and ostrich eggs and candied corks. After that we got our assignments from the boss, Mr. Henning and Mr. Hyde and Mr. Phillips, who were supposed to know something about politics, was told to go and get the news. Mr. Hammond was told to write something also besides trying to imitate my style, and making a roost out of it.

Nice People for Roger.

Mr. B. L. T. was told to write something himself, and not clip so much. Mr. King was told to draw a pitcher of the three most prominent guys here, and he drew I and Percy Hammond and Roger Sullivan, who according to the dope I got won't be as prominent as I and Percy Hammond after Thursday.

But I don't want nobody to think I am knocking Mr. Sullivan because he is OK on account of there being so many nice people that are for him. I would be for him, too, only he passed right by where I was setting and I called at him and I smiled at him and he frowned back and wouldn't flirt.

This p. m. there was a party out to some brewy where they make beer and all the newspaper men was ast to go along and I stayed away. Another party went to the ball game, but I stayed away, because I seen a game once. Tonight I was ast to dinner with a wine agent and stayed away. In fact I am staying away from everything on account of the instructions I got when I was a boy to avoid the democrats.

Tomorrow night they are going to give the comic opera "Siegrided" at the ball park here with a lot of good open air singing and I says to B. L. T. that I guessed I would go out there and see it and maybe write a funny story about it.

So he says: "I guess I'll go out there and write a story about it," and he was too modest to say a funny story, but he copied the idea of writing it up right away from me and now what can I do tomorrow but set around and do nothing and then write a story about it, unless I can get my nerye back and interview Mr. Daniels.

SAYS JUST "MAKE IT PLAIN MR. HUGHES"

Nominee Doesn't Want to Be Called Governor or Justice as He is No Longer Either.

HE SEES THE PARTY CHIEFS

New York, June 13.—Charles E. Hughes re-entered politics today, apparently with abundant zest. He reached this city early in the day, established temporary headquarters at an uptown hotel and held open house until nearly midnight. Scores of persons on various missions flocked to his rooms, mostly men who had known him back the days when he was campaigning for governor of New York. There also were several party leaders among his callers.

Mr. Hughes issued no statement today and expects to issue none until he is formally notified of his nomination. The subcommittee to confer with him as to fixing a date for the ceremony probably will wait on him in a few days.

In New York 'Till June 20.
Although the nominee's plans still are unsettled, it is likely he will remain in New York until June 20, when he expects to attend a reunion of the class of '81 of Brown university at Providence, R. I. He probably will remain there for the commencement exercises the following day.

To those who knew the nominee as a supreme court justice, there was a marked change in his bearing today.

His air of studious reserve apparently left him with the robes of his office. He had a hearty hand grasp and a smile for every man he met and seemed enthusiastic in his welcome of old friends, who came to see him after intervals of years. These came in crowds. One old schoolmate who used to call him "Charley" dropped in after an absence of nearly forty years.

Waited Hour for Him.

Another, who said he had not seen him for fifteen years waited an hour in his ante-room to remind the nominee of the days when he taught a Bible class in the Fifth Avenue Baptist church. Each the caller was a member. A Texas republican leader, J. E. Lutz of Vernon, trailed him here from Washington, merely to shake hands and say "Texas will be with you."

Just Mr. Hughes.

Although Mr. Hughes declined to comment on political affairs, he settled one question today. Some of his callers addressed him as "Governor," some as "Mr. Justice Hughes," some as "Mr. Hughes," and one outspoken admirer called him "Mr. President." Mr. Hughes held up his hand. "No," he said, "I resigned as governor; I am no longer a supreme court justice, and—well, just make it plain Mr. Hughes."

Robert Fuller, who was his secretary when he was governor, spent the afternoon helping him receive callers and Major Crossit, who was his military aide in 1910, established himself at the door of the inner office. Through the door there marched a steady file of visitors. Among those who called were Henry W. Tait, State Chairman Tanner of New York, George W. Wicke, sham—who quickly denied a report that he had been to Oyster Bay to enlist Colonel Roosevelt's aid in the campaign—Herbert

Parsons, national committeeman from New York; Samuel Koenig, New York, republican leader; S. S. McClure, and many other local leaders in the nominee's home state of New York.

Although felicitations were numerous there also was serious consideration of campaign plans. The chief affairs requiring the nominee's immediate attention are the selection of a national chairman, the opening of headquarters and deciding on a summer headquarters for himself.

Party leaders among his callers seem to agree that the campaign will be started early. Mr. Parsons said that in his opinion the campaign already was on.

"It started Saturday," he said, "when Mr. Hughes sent his telegram to Chairman Harding."

The campaign in New York is to be opened this week, Mr. Koenig said. How the progressive will vote; whether the colonel will take the stump for him; to what extent failure of the progressives to support Hughes would affect the election—these and kindred topics were the subject of much speculation on the part of republican leaders who called. The opinion prevailed that these questions might be answered in several days after the progressive leaders have had an opportunity to confer at length.
