Birthday of Old Glory

The resolution for the adoption of the American flag was passed by congress, June 14, 1777.

The ship "Columbia" (1787-1790) was the first vessel to carry the American flag around the world.

The first official celebration of Flag day was held in the post-office department at Washington in 1908.

Since 1866 all flags used by the government have been American-made. Previous to that time the flags were made of English bunting.

The first American flag displayed in a British port was on the ship "Bedford" of Massachusetts, which arrived in the Downs, February 3, 1783.

The first American flag was made by patriotic ladies in Philadelphia. It was a small affair, but represented a heavy coat, because the bunting came from England, and in the days of '77 things British came high.

Flag day was originated in 1889 by Professor George Bolch of New York, who introduced into his kindergarten the practice of holding special exercises in celebration of the adoption of the American flag by congress, June 14, 1777.

Each battleship of the United States navy is entitled to 250 flags every three years, though many are renewed oftener than this. The cost of the flags for each ship exceeds $3,000—no small item in Uncle Sam's bill for equipment.

The thirty-by-forty-foot flag which was hoisted over Fort McHenry and inspired Francis Scott Key to write "The Star Spangled Banner" was made by Mrs. John Pickersgill of Baltimore when the British were about to begin their attack on that city.

The Fifth street grammar school of New Bedford, Mass., claims to have been the first school in the country to raise the United States flag and to make the use of it a permanent feature of public school administration. This school unfurled the flag with appropriate public exercises on May 11, 1861, only 27 days after the surrender of Fort Sumter to the Confederates.

The first American flag was flown by John Paul Jones. By error this flag had but 12 stars, but the man whom the British dubbed "pirate, rebel, robber," proudly informed congress that the emblem at the peak of his warship, the "Ranger," was received with the most marked courtesies by the French, whose formal recognition of the new flag constituted the French acknowledgment of the new republic.

It was not until September 3, 1777, that the action of congress in adopting the American flag was made public through the press, though word of the new law had reached the American troops at Fort Schuyler and a drummer boy had made a flag after the prescribed pattern. For the white he took two old ammunition shirts, for the blue he used an old army coat, and for the red he requisitioned on the wife of a private for her one red flannel petticoat.

with parties being Mrs. B. A. McDermott and Mrs. E. P. Smith.

For the dinner-dance Wednesday evening C. B. Brown has reservations for twenty-two and H. J. McCarthy for eight.

Interesting Guest Comes.

Mrs. Harry Payne of Brooklyn, who has been in Chicago at the republican convention as the representative of the Brooklyn Eagle, will arrive Wednesday for a week's visit with Mrs. C. T. Kountze.

Personal Mention.

Miss Leona Harris returns Wednesday from Wellesley. She brings with her Miss Caroline Berghelm of Denver, who will stop off in Omaha to spend a day with her friend before going on to her home.

Mrs. E. Rengler and Miss Martha Friedman, sister and niece of Mrs. A. Weiss, arrived from New York Monday to spend the summer with Mrs. Weiss and to attend the graduation of Miss Sadie Weiss from Commerce High school.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Van Alstine, with their two children, leave Tuesday evening for an extended tour through the west, stopping off at Denver and Salt Lake on their way to the coast. They will spend a couple of months at Long Beach before returning home.

The Manicure Lady

By WILLIAM F. KIRK.

"I found a cent in the subway this morning," said the Manicure Lady, "and I guess I'm going to be lucky this summer."

"I hope so," said the Head Barber. "I wish you had found a hundred-case note."

"That's awful sweet of you, George," said the Manicure Lady, "and that's one of the finest reasons for loving life, to know that your friends don't wish no bad luck on you. Goodness knows, George, it's a good thing they don't, with all the bad luck lying around so close to us we have hard work dodging it. I'm going to keep that cent for a lucky piece."

"I don't care for a week once with a cent," said the Head Barber, "and everything broke wrong the whole week. My wife got neuralgia that

These girls are the best writers in the public grade schools. One more, Maude Assmussen of Central Park school is the eighth. She is not shown in the group. The awards were made by Supervisor Savage of the writing department of the public schools, assisted by a committee from the High School of Commerce and Central High school. An exhibit of 25,000 writing specimens is being held this week on the fifth floor of the city hall. These specimens show comparisons of writing of the boys and girls last September and the last month, the two samples in each case being placed together to show improvement.

TEACHERS GIVE BANQUET TO SCHOOL BOY CHAMPS

Miss Lulu Hunt, retiring principal of Miller Park school, and Miss Ora Russell eighth grade teacher, tendered a banquet at the Loyal hotel last night to the twelve boys who twice won the athletic championship among the grade school boys of the city. These boys have attended the Miller Park school and have conceived such a high esteem for their teachers that as a token of their respect they intend to present the silver loving cup, which is now in their possession as base ball champions among the grade school boys of the city, to the one who is leaving, Miss Hunt.

Others of the boys decorated the tables in the school colors, green and gold, a center piece of the prize silver-mounted bats and used base ball favors.

CIVIL ENGINEER LOSES VALUABLE INSTRUMENTS

Walter Petersen, civil engineer, Nineteenth and Farnam streets, reported to the police that thieves had gained entrance to his offices and carried away instruments valued at $250.

Suffs Are Making Active Campaign In St. Louis Hotels

St. Louis, June 13.—With arrangements completed for a hearing before the resolutions committee of the democratic convention as soon as it is organized, suffragists today directed their principal efforts to an educational campaign among the delegates.

Armed with thousands of pamphlets explaining the political strength of voting women in twelve states and forecasting the probable effect of the vote in the south, Miss Mabel Vernon, secretary of the woman's party, and her aides, made a thorough canvass of the leading hotels. Every delegate discovered was given a pamphlet.

Members of the National American Woman Suffrage association held final rehearsals for the "golden lane" street display tomorrow in which hundreds of women will participate. Speakers from the Congressional union addressed crowds on the prominent street corners.

Good Weather in Sight for Parade

Weather for the Flag day parade and festivities in Omaha is to be pleasant, according to Colonel Welsh, the well known oracle of the weather bureau. "Fair and a trifle warmer," he says. "No rain in sight."

There were some beautiful rains out through the state Monday night, gladdening the hearts of the coal barons and causing billions of little cornstalks to keep a growing faster than ever. Holdrege got 1.55 inches, Culbertson 1.30, Broken Bow 1.14 inches, and so on.
