Berlin, June 17.—(By Wireless to Sayville.)—Official reports from Vi-enna during the last few days, de-layed in transmission, emphasize the violence of the fighting on the Russian froat. From these reports the Austrian resistance in southern Galicia and Bukowina appears notably

A Russian cavalry detachment was driven back southeast of Dubuc in Volhynia, but their cavalry reached the Torezyn district. Further efforts of the Russians to cross the Styr near Sokul and elsewhere were futile. In this district 2,000 Russians were captured.

Renewed attacks by the Russians south of Boyan and north of Czernowitz, all of which were repulsed, were reported June 15. They also tried to cross the Pruth above Czernowitz, but failed. Fresh divisions and dismounted cavalry divisions were thrown by the Russians into the fighting in the Stokhod-Styr section, but the report declares they failed, with severe losses, in all their attempts to cross this section between the Rovno-Kovel railroad and Kolki.

Lieutenant Roderick Dew of Tecumseh Picks Up Body of Villa Bandit on Battlefield.

Tecumseh, Neb., June 17 .- (Special.)-Lieutenant Roderick Dew of Tecumseh is at the front in the Mexican bandit hunt. He is with the Seventeenth infantry, probably about 250 IT miles south of Columbus, N. M., but, as army rules do not let the men give locations of troops, this is not known definitely. Lieutenant Dew was with the men to kill the noted rebel. Cervantes, and he has written relatives here of the incident. His letter bears the date of May 28, but, of course, no postmark. It was sent to Columbus by army carrier for mailing, perhaps by an aerial service. Shorn of everything personal, the letter follows:

"A detachment of our men, eleven in all, were out towards the mounnall, were out towards the mountains to the east looking for beef and making maps. They had left camp about 7 a. m., and had entered the mouth of a canyon, when, about 9:30 o'clock, they were jumped upon by a band of about forty Mexicans. One of the men mounted his horse and started to camp for help, while the others took positions in the rocks and fought.

Borwnsville, Tex., June 17.—Telephone reports received here at 3 o'clock this afternoon from Villa Nueva said that firing had been heard in the direction of the Naranjos ranch, about four miles up the river from Villa Nueva.

Lieutenant A. D. Newman of Troop H of the Thirteenth cavalry crossed into Mexico, opposite Villa Nueva, at 19 o'clock this morning on a "hot trail."

Beats Cavalry to Scene.

"When the messenger reached camp a couple of troops of cavalry were ordered out with our machine gun company. Captain Walton ordered me to take what men of the company I could get horses for and get out there quickly. I took six men and started, and, believe me, I 'went some.' I cvoered the six or seven miles in about thirty minutes, beating the cavalry by about ten minutes.

"When I arrived at our wagon I found some of the detachment. They told me that one of our men had been killed and two wounded. The wounded were at the wagon, both being slight, one injured in the knee and the other in the leg and arm. I was informed that after fighting about forty-five minutes the Mexicans had retreated up a deep gorge, running northeast through the mountains. It was supposed that several Mexicans had been killed.

Washington, June 17.-Warning from Mexican commanders that any movement of American troops except in retirement toward the border would precipitate hostilities will not change the purpose of the United States government to keep its expedition in northern Mexico or prevent General Pershing from taking any steps necessary to insure the safety of his own columns and deal with bandits threatening the border. The War department today was without advices from General Pershing regarding the warning said to have been sent him by General Trevino, but General Funston reported the substance of a telephone conversation he had with General Bell at El Paso, who stated it as a fact that such a warning had been given. Diplomatic officials were inclined to believe that if General Trevino did serve a warning it was for home consumption. They thought it might be a political move by General Carranza designed to offset the activities of the anti-American element in Mexico.
