BYNOPSIS.

Lieutenant Jarvis Hope is detailed by the United States naval board to investigate and report his findings on the invention of Dr. Ralph Burks, which serves to bring the submarine to a state of perfection. The lieutenant arrives in Valdavia and is veltomed by the inventor and his daughter, Cleo. On the trial trip of the inventor's boat, a Japanese helper is surprised in the act of examining the mechaniam of the ventilating davice. Hope reports favorably on the new device, but there are others interacted in it. An attempt to burglarise Dr. Burks's laboratory fails, but later Cleo finds him murdered in his beforeom. Cleo sells her father's library to get money; later she finds a note, from which she learns that they contain the secret formula. With Hope she races to the auctioneer's atore, only to find it in fiames. Olga Ivanetf and Gerald Morton, two spics in search of the formula, attempt to supture Cleo when she calls at the house of stephanish; the sanchist. Hope rushes of stephanish; the sanchist. Hope rushes of stephanish; the abomb, in the cellar, which explose.

(Continued from Yesterday.) Ten minutes later Satsuma, in a telephone booth, was talking to Mahlin, who was in Valdavia. " . . but I wasn't able to see her, the Japanese concluded. "All right," was the answer, "I'll come over to the city on the next train. I'll plan some way to get into the house during the reception tonight."

"All right," was the answer, "Till come over to the city on the next train. I'll plan some way to get into the house during the reception to-night."

Though the sound of the explosion doubtless awakened the nearer of Stephanski's neighbors, they were so far away and the hour so late, that it did not result in attracting anyone to the scene.

It was, nevertheless, with extreme caution that Olga and Morton, after making sure that Cleo and her friends had taken their departure, emerged from their place of concealment and, leaving behind them the ruined house and its dead owner, set out on foot by a circuitous route for the city. Nothing was further from their desire than to be seen coming from the scene of the tragedy and to be called as witnesses in the investigation which was certain to follow its discovery. Day was dawning in the cast, therefore, before Morton, having seen Olga to her apartment, reached his hotel, and it was nearly noon when he was awakened by someone knocking at his door. It was a bell-boy with a telegram. Still half awake, he tore open the enevelope—then stood transfixed, staring with unbelieving eyes at the message printed on the sheet of yellow paper. "Your uncle died from heart failure at 11 o'clock last night. By his will he has left his entire estate to a Miss Cleo Burke of Valdavia, Cal."

It was signed by Calvin Montgomery's private secretary.

Minute after minute passed and still Morton stared at the message as though his eyes deceived him. Surely he must be dreaming. Calvin Montgomery dead. And all of his great estate gone to Cleo Burke. And he, Gerald Morton, his nephew, and, as he had supposed, his only heir, had received nothing. Then all at once he remembered the strange remark he had overheard his uncle make that morning in the New York office. "I wonder if I did right by Cleo?" Montgomery had said aloud, as though putting his thoughts into words, and Morton recalled the old man's obvious confusion when he asked him who Cleo was.

He recalled the note which his uncle had told him to give to Dr. Burke. "I once gave you something that I valued as much as you value the secret of the submarine. Now is your chance to repay me." Again Morton bitterly reviled himself for his bindness, his stupidity, in nor recognizing and investigating the mysterious relations between the Burkes and Calvin Montgomery. Gradually, however, his shrewdness began to assert itself. From a man raving with rage and disappointment he became cold, calculating, cunning, conscienceless. There was still a way by which he could obtain possession of the Montgomery millions, he reminded himself. He could marry Cleo—for his overweening vanity never permitted him to conceive of the possibility that she might refuse

His meditations were abruptly in-His meditations were abruptly in-terrupted, however, by a rap at the door. He flung it open impatiently to find a messenger boy with a note. The crest on the flap of the envelope told him that it was from Olga. "Dear Mr. Morton," she wrote, "I

"Dear Mr. Morton," she wrote, "I want you to take me to the reception which is being given this evening by Mrs. Delmar, the wife of the British consul. I have obtained invitations through the consul's secretary, Mr. Paget, who is an old friend of mine. When I remind you that Mrs. Delmar purchased two of the Burke books, you will appreciate the necessity for our going. I have learned from Mr. Paget, by the way, that the Burke girl and your friend, Hope, have also been invited. You may call for me a 9 o'clock."

Another similar auction will also be held July 1.

PIGEONS MAKE QUICK

FLIGHT TO ST. LOUIS Paul Bornorden, city passenger agent of the Great Western, who last Saturday received and released

Saturday received and released twenty-four carrier pigeons sent from St. Charles, Ill., by their owner, Louis Schelstreet, in order that they might make a trial flight from Omaha, has heard from the birds.

Mr. Schelstreet writes that the pigeons all showed up in due time. The birds were released at 4:50 o'clock Saturday morning at the Union station here, and the first one reached home at 1:54 o'clock that afternoon. The second bird alighted at 2 and all of them were at home before 3 o'clock. The distance from Omaha to St. Charles is 473 miles and the swiftest flying bird covered it in nine hours and four minutes.

MANY WILL ATTEND BANQUET IN HONOR OF A. L. MOHLER

More than 100 men have already responded favorably to the invitation to attend the banquet given in honor of A. L. Mohler, the retiring president of the Union Pacific railway. The banquet will be given at the Commercial club rooms the evening of June 28. The 100 or more reservations for plates at the banquet came in by mail and telephone within two days of the time the invitations were sent out.

Wisner Company First to Reach the State Fair Grounds

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

Lincoln, Neb., June 21.—(Special Telegram.)—The first body of troops to arrive reached Lincoln at noon today and are now at the fair grounds. The company is composed of thirty-three men, in charge of Captain W. E. Kelso and came from Wisner. It is known as the supply company of the Fourth regiment and its duties are to go in advance and prepare the camp for the troops.

They received orders to get ready at 10:30 Monday night, and were ready to start at 6 the next morning, but were held in Fremont pending settlement of the mobilization point. (From a Staff Correct

FRIDAY TWENTY-THIRD IS DATE OF NEXT AUTO RUN

Thirteen towns are included in the itinerary of the trade extension committee of the Commercial club for the one-day automobile trade trip to be made Friday of this week, June 23. Thirteen towns, and the trip is to be made on Friday. Whether this portends that a rainstorm will overtake the crowd or that the streets of the town will be strewn with tacks and broken glass, no man can say. The crowd is to 'eave Omaha at 7 in the morning from the Commercial club corner. The towns to be taken in are Valley, Yutan, Mead, Wahoo, Weston, Brainard, Yanka, David City, Bruno, Prague, Malmo, Colon and Leshara. mittee of the Commercial club for

LOW TEMPERATURES ARE REPORTED THROUGH WEST

Fifty-four degrees above zero was the lowest temperature registered in Omaha Tuesday night. The lowest in the state was 52 degrees, at Te-kamah. Carroll, Ia., reported 49 degrees.

It was 32 degrees above at Winnemucca, Nev., and the same freezing temperature was touched also in Yellowstone park. Temperatures below 40 degrees above were general in Oregon, Nevada, Idaho and part of Utah. Light frosts occurred in eastern Oregon and southern Idaho.
"So there's no sign of any warmer weather for Omaha within the next day or two," says Colonel Welsh.
It's been raining all around, too,
and showers are on the local program for today.
