Light Company to Give Free Service To the Sick Poor

What promises to win the heartfelt gratitude of those who are benefited thereby is the offer of the Omaha Electric Light and Power company, through its president, General George H. Harries, to install electric fan service during the summer for those afflicted with illness who are financially unable to secure this service. Application for the fan service is to be made by attending physicians. Physicians have been notified that applications by them will result in the installation of temporary wiring and a fan with a supply of operating current—all without charge. The only requirement is that houses so served shall be on streets where there are lines. "It is a privilege to aid in making conditions more nearly bearable for those with whom we all sympathize," said General Harries. The same offer was made last year through the physicians, but on account of the hot summer few calls for the service were made. Local physicians are loud in their praise of the company's offer.

Dog Lies Down in Front of Gas Bike And Throws Rider

"First, I'm pinched for speeding, and then I'm run over by a joy-galloping bulldog," quoth J. F. Kind, 2200 Farram street, as he nursed two badly skinned knees, a scraped face and other lacerated and contused portions of his anatomy. Kind owns a motorcycle and several days ago he was thwarted for stretching the speed regulations. Saturday morning while traveling on the same vehicle, a bulldog with a sad, stern countenance swooped down upon him and with suicidal intent lied down beneath the front wheel of the motorbike. The dog failed in his designs, but almost mangled Kind, who was precipitated on a head-first slide, that by Coble never equalled. Besides sustaining wounds, a shredded suit of clothes and injured feelings, the motorbike was considerably damaged.

Prices Are Lower on Local Grain Market

In Omaha, as elsewhere, prices were off on all kinds of grain. On the local market wheat was down a cent from Thursday, corn a fourth to a cent and oats one-fourth to three-fourths. Wheat sold at 83¢/94¢; corn, 69¢/72¢; oats, 36¢/37¢ per bushel. Receipts were fair, there being fifty-one cars of wheat, forty-five of corn and twelve of oats on the market.

FOUR DIVORCES GRANTED. FIVE FILE PETITIONS

The following divorce decrees have been granted: Anna from Charles Yankaus, Ida from Thomas E. Flannery, Emma from Donald Diamond, Juliet from William A. Bittler. The following petitions for divorce have been filed: William A. Glasson from Christina, desertion; Hattie Stridiron from William, neglect; Morris Nelson from Theresa, desertion; Ada Hauschild from Henry, desertion; Julius Suhajda from Mary, desertion.

GERMAN-IRISH ALLIANCE IS NOT A HUGE SUCCESS

A German-Irish alliance that is not very harmonious is brought to light by the divorce petition of Emma Foley, who sues Pat for divorce. She says she is of German extraction and he is Irish, and therefore incompatibility of temperament exists, especially when Pat shows a bit of temper and throws the household furniture at her, she alleges.

MANY MOIST EYES SEE GUARDSMEN OFF

Scene at Railroad Station Recalls Stirring Days of Other Years in Omaha.

GO TO MOBILIZATION CAMP

OMAHA TROOPS ARE THE FIRST TO REACH CAMP

Mobilization Camp, Lincoln, Neb., June 23.—(Special Telegram.)—The first battalion, Fourth regiment, Major Elasser commanding, arrived in Lincoln at 11 o'clock this forenoon and marched to the camp. They were delayed at the main entrance. They were the first company to reach the camp from outside Lincoln today and made a good appearance as they marched up the street.

"Goodbye, Johnnie! Be a good boy and do your duty—and write, and don't expose yourself needlessly! Goodbye!"

A gray-haired mother lingered in the embrace of her khaki-clad, stalwart young son as he stood with one foot on the step of the special train that was taking him to the concentration camp at Lincoln.

"Good-bye, mother!" Then he jumped swiftly into the coach, to hide his moist eyes, only to reappear a moment later in a window and wave his hand and shout "goodbye" to personages of lesser importance. The mother, however, openly dabbed her kerchief to her eyes and walked slowly away—to make room for other mothers who were crowding behind her to say almost exactly the same words to their sons and kiss them in almost exactly the same way.

Crowd at Railroad Station. Mothers and sweethearts and wives and fathers and brothers and sisters and friends, numbering close to 3,000, jammed the Burlington station platform when the four companies of the Nebraska National Guard entrained. Not since the stirring days of 1898 has Omaha seen such a demonstration.

As each company marched to the depot from the armory at Twentieth and Harney they were greeted by yells and cheers of encouragement on every hand. At the depot an ovation awaited them.

The crowds commenced gathering early at the depot and at the armory, and it was with difficulty that the soldiers could get their last arrangements made. Once at the depot, it was even harder to get aboard the train. When the time for saying the last "goodbyes" came some of the younger recruits, although keeping a stiff upper lip, could not hide the fact that there was a touch of foreshadowing grimaces in the business of "going to war."

"Goodbyes" on Every Hand. On every hand the saying of "goodbyes" was the chief occupation. "I'll come back to you, Mary. Kiss baby for me!" "Goodbye! God bless you!" "Goodbye! Goodbye!" "Goodbye!"

The train pulled out. With heavy sighs the big crowd turned and walked slowly to the street. Then it turned and watched the train disappear around a curve, and the mothers and fathers and wives and sisters sighed again—and wiped away the tears that glistened in their eyes.

JUDGE SUSTAINS DEMURRER FILED BY JUSTICE HASCALL

Judge Leslie yesterday handed down a decision in which he sustained the demurrer filed by Justice of Peace Hascall, his ruling being that Heronimus Eisele had no ground for action. The case was brought by Eisele to have Judge Hascall ousted, alleging malfeasance in office and improper administration of the affairs of his office. Judge Leslie ruled that there were no grounds for such a suit.

There are colonies in the north of Russia, beyond the Arctic circle, which have not yet heard of the Russo-Japanese war, and certainly have no knowledge of the present war.

WILL WILSON ASK FOR VOLUNTEERS

Secretary Baker Refuses to Say if Possibility of Call Discussed.

HE WON'T TALK ABOUT THAT

Washington, June 23.—Congress was called upon today to do its share toward facilitating the organization of the National Guard army rapidly preparing for service. A resolution was introduced by Chairman Hay, of the house military committee, to be called up for action tomorrow, authorizing the president to draft into the federal service all members of the guard who take the new enlistment oath, and to hold them for the duration of the emergency for which they are called out. The words "duration of the war" were altered after a conference between Secretary Baker and Mr. Hay. The resolution provided that incomplete units of the guard may be consolidated and mustered in.

Plan of Hay. Chairman Hay also plans to introduce a measure creating a fund of $500,000, to be used for the relief of indigent families of National Guardsmen called into active service. A maximum of $50 a month for any one family would be authorized.

Secretary Baker was in conference during the day with President Wilson. It was reported that the possibility of calling out volunteers in addition to the National Guard, should war with Mexico come, was discussed. Mr. Baker was asked later if this subject was under consideration. "I believe I will not discuss that," he replied. Army officers pointed out that authorization to call volunteers would permit the application of the system used during the Spanish-American war to recruit regular regiments up to war strength.

Enlistment For War.

Enlistment was accepted for the term of the war, making it possible for a citizen to volunteer for service with the regulars without binding himself for the long term of regular army enlistments. With the eleven additional skeleton regiments to be created on the border July 1, it is deemed vital that some method of filling of their ranks as well as those of the old organizations, be provided, if war is impending.
