Judgments

HOW long will Strangler Lewis hast with Joe Stecher when they meet in Gene Melady's ring at the Douglas County Fair grounds, July 4? This is the all-absorbing topic of conversation among devotees of the wrestling game in Omaha these days. There is quite a diversity of opinion, too. Those inclined to risk their wealth on their judgement have-n't put in much of an appearance of n't put in much of an appearance of yet, but the preliminary speculation is rife and it wouldn't surprise if con-siderable sums are ventured on the approaching match. There are, of course, those staunch Stecher boost-ers who insist Joe will make as short course, those staunch Stecher boost-ers who insist Joe will make as short work of Lewis as he has the rest of them, and they account for the two-hour draw at Evansville by accusing Lewis of stalling tactics and foot-racing. Others believe Lewis will give Joe a run. But, for all this difference of opinion, there isn't a dissenting vote when it is suggested Joe will be the victor. Everybody awards Joe the ultimate victory. Apparently there is not a Lewis man extant. This is some-what of a remarkable situation. Gen-erally, even the most successful cham-pion is disputed by somebody. But, erally, even the most successful cham-pion is disputed by somebody. But, this time nary a person who will even grant Lewis a chance to win a fall, is to be found. This is not only true of the fans, but the experts and critics as well, except that the latter are more generally convinced Lewis will be quickly and easily vanquished. It's a great tribute for Loc this unaminity a great tribute for Joe, this unanimity of opinion. It proves the public has confidence in his ability and his in-tegrity. And once more Nebraska has come into her own.

tegrity. And once more Nebraska has come into her own. Big league clubs in the east are having a little trouble with the gam-bling element again. This is getting to be an annual difficulty. Ever and anon the gamblers have tried to force their way into base ball, but they have never uncovered a successful method of beating the game because of the uncertainty of the sport. The worst team in the world ofttimes wallops the best. The gambler's dope sheet will not pan out on such happenings. There is little fear, however, that gambling will ever be closely intimate with the game itself. Back in the '70s, a quartet of stars sold out to the gamblers and were caught in the act. Not since then has there even been a suspicion that players have sold themselves to the layers of odds. It's too difficult for a player to sell out in the first place, and it is too difficult for him to make good his sell if he dope sheet will not run true in base badl, makes gambling on the national pastime precarious for the bookie and there isn't much cause for worry now that the law has taken a hand in the base ball pool lotteries.

Those Townsends must have left their clouting ability at home last Sunday, for they failed to register a hit against the South Omaha Merchants.

HARMONY IN AMATEUR RANKS Not a Protest Registered by Teams

Performing on Sand Lots Last Sunday.

FEED DOESN'T MATERIALIZH

BY FRANK QUIGLEY. Harmony reigned supreme on the local sand lots last Sunday. Not a protest was registered by a team conprotest was registered by a team con-nected with the Omaha Amateur Base Ball association and all of the boys behaved like a bunch of real true soldiers. Naturally a few disputes, so common during a battle for base ball supremacy bobbed up, but nothing of material value. Amateur base ball players fight and fight hard to win, consequently their temperature goes above par without much provocation and when the members of the associ-ation can on a Sunday play all the above par without much provocation and when the members of the associ-ation can on a Sunday play all the games scheduled without a complaint an exception is registered that the directors would not even dare to dream about. That much talked of fodder to be produced by the magnates of the Greater Omaha league for the directors of the association on last Wed-nesday night, failed to materialize, be-cause the committee failed to make the necessary arrangaments, but it will probably be fortheoming next Wed-nesday. The usual meeting of the di-rectors was held at the city hall last Wednesday night. The secretary read the resignation of President Jake Isaacson, and same was promptly re-jected by the board of directors. A communication from Radowe Abek ton, superintendent of the Board of Recreation at St. Louis, referring to the advisability of having the Class B champions of Omaha play the Class B champions of St. Louis at St. Louis, was read. The president was instructed to get more definite information relative to what the St. Louis association would be willing to cough up to help defray the expenses and a decision would the willing to cough up to help defray the expenses and a decision would the action of the president in suspending Ollie

The protested game between the Ancient Order of United Workmen and Modern Woodmen No. 945, was thrown out and ordered replayed. Several other protests were put on file until sufficient evidence was se-cured to warrant a decision. A few amendments to different articles in the constitution were voted upon and received the vote necessary at this amendments to different articles in the constitution were voted upon and received the vote necessary at this meeting, but the constitution requires a unanimous vote at one meeting to make them an active part of the con-stitution, or a two-thirds vote at two consecutive meetings. So these amendments will have to be voted upon again next Wednesday. In order to fill up the gap in the Booster league left open by the de-parture of the South Omaha Midgets, the directors decided to give this franchise to the Benson Merchants. By taking the standing of the South Omaha Midgets, the Benson Mer-chants have no chance to win the pennant, so they decided in order to gain admittance in the association, they would be fortified for next sea-son that they would be willing to for-feit every game played this season regardless of the outcome.

And no matter about the race itself, no matter what the other driv-ers may do or not do, with Resta and De Palma on the track together again there will be a real race, unless the old jinx asserts itself and puts one of the cars out of the running. It has been announced that the Omaha classic, July 15, will be one of the speedway races which will count in the competition for the title of champion motor car driver of representation from Omaha than any other city. If the weather is good July 17 the Omaha sharks are planning to tour to Wayne in automobiles. It is a 130-mile drive to Wayne and is just about the right distance for an or-ganized motor trip. The Field club will probably send the largest delegation from Omaha. Tennis enthusiasm is running wild at the Field club this spring and this club intends to make every effort possible to bring the state cham-pionship to this club this year. BOSTON TO BID FOR THE New York, June 24-If the fair goddess of fortune sends the Olympic games to the United States of Amer-ica in 1920, there is going to be some-thing of a mad scramble for the honor of holding the international cham-pionships, and right in the middle of the fight will be the statid old town of Boston, Mass. It was just about 290 years ago that our New England forefathers founded the Hub. There-fore Boston will be 300 years of age in the next Olympic year-1920. The Bostonese are going to have a 300th anniversary celebration worth while, and the sportsmen there are already talking over the possibility of hold-ing the Olympics in the Harvard stadium at Cambridge.

Omaha tennis enthusiasts are be-ginning to lay their plans for the in-vasion of Wayne July 17 to 22, when the annual state tennis tournament will be held. Clarke G. Powell of Omaha, who occupies the dignified position of president of the state association, has begun his campaign to induce Omahans to attend the tourney, and Clarke declares there isn't a racquet wielder in the city who will escape him. Clarke wants to see a bigger representation from Omaha than any other city.

It is now considerably past spring and Mr. Griffith's pretty little simile isn't working out very well. Foxy Grif has always been given to the making of predictions, and he has never been a whiriwind success with his prognostications. Cleveland is still stepping at a lively pace and gives every indication of continuing to do so. Cleveland may not win the pennant, but if Mr. Griffith expects to win it, he'll have Cleveland to beat.
