

ALL ALLIED ARMIES STRIKING TOGETHER

Entente Offensive on So Many Fronts Indicates They Are Co-Operating.

COLLAPSE OF AUSTRIANS

London, July 7.—The results of the staff conferences of the entente allies in London in May and June are becoming continually more apparent in the co-ordination of the allied attacks on the Teutonic forces and increasing evidence of the initiative passing from the Teutons to the allies at almost all points.

As the French and British armies now are engaged in reorganizing and preparing for the second phase of the battle of the Somme, there is a comparative lull on the western front, and Russia again takes the center of the stage. Today's news from Petrograd is highly important in the light of the future development of the Somme battle.

Collapse of Austrian Forces.

The news that the Russians have captured 5,000 prisoners on the Dnieper front appears to leave little doubt of the collapse of the Austrian forces between Bucacz and Stanislau, which will greatly affect the army of General von Bothmer, compelling him to retire northward, while the advance on Delatyn and the seizure of the railway cuts off Von Bothmer from his chief base of supplies.

The prospect of Field Marshal von Hindenburg being able to make an effective diversion is believed here to be dwindling, while the Germans are desperately engaged in trying to meet the Russian offensive at Haranovic, the Russian General Kaledinea is developing a strong attack on both sides of the Kiev-Kovel railway.

Problem for Teutons.

The question arises among military men here as to how Germany can come to the assistance of its Austrian allies without further depleting its forces on the western front, and it is considered impossible for Austria to risk withdrawing more of its own troops from the Italian front.
