City Dads Not to Meet With Club On The Light Rates

A communication from the Commercial club's electric light committee was read at the meeting of the city council, advising that the report and data on electric light rates were being prepared and would be submitted in the near future.

The city representatives will not meet with the Commercial club committee in compiling the data on the rates, the decision being that the latter will have to make its recommendations and then present them at a meeting of the council.

Holdup Men Put In a Good Night

Holdup men plied their lucrative trade Monday night with good results.

The following victims recited their plaints to the police:

Ira Pitts said he was held up at Tenth and Douglas streets by two men, who relieved him of $30.

W. T. Fretdor of Richmond, Va., was robbed of $21 by three men at Sixteenth and Cuming streets, he reported.

R. B. Moss lost $17.50 when two negroes accosted him at Tenth and Dodge streets.

A. J. Ebenbeth of Fairfield, Neb., reported that he was robbed of $32 by a couple of men at Thirteenth and Dodge streets.

New York Merchant Will Talk to Omaha Retailers

Edward D. Page, one of the big wholesale dry goods men of New York, is to speak to the retailers of Omaha's trade territory in Omaha during merchants' market week, which starts August 8. Mr. Page was for many years of the Falkner-Page firm of dry goods commission merchants in New York. He is a director of several New York banks, and is in the closest possible touch with commercial activities in New York and throughout the country. He will talk on the financial situation as it affects the retailer.

Free Milk and Ice The Bee's Fund for

It is mighty pleasant to feel that you have given something to help the poor.

Particularly pleasant is it when those you have helped are helpless little children and babies.

Thrice pleasant it is when you know that EVERY CENT you give will actually buy milk or ice for the very poor, as is the case with The Bee's fund.

Get your share of this pleasant feeling. Send in a dime, a dollar or $5 NOW before it slips your memory.

LAWYER MUST GIVE CLIENT HER HOME

Judge Sears Orders Joseph Burger and Glenn Moran to Deed Property Back.

OBTAINED AS A LEGAL FEE

Joseph O. Burger, attorney, and H. Glenn Moran, who assists Burger in legal practice, although himself not admitted to the bar, were ordered by Judge Willis G. Sears to return to Miss Lela Douglas her home, which Miss Douglas avers was wrongfully obtained from her by Burger and Moran as a fee for legal services.

Burger and Moran got a divorce for Miss Douglas, then Mrs. Alexander, and held that she deeded to them the property, now valued at more than $2,000, but then heavily encumbered, as a portion of their fee.

Burger deeded his share of the property to Moran and his wife, in consideration of a mortgage for $850, given him.

Judge Sears held that Burger and Moran had received ample compensation for their work, that they were not entitled to hold the property, and that the deed had been fraudulently obtained from Miss Douglas.

He ordered Burger and Moran to deed back the property to her within ten days, and specifies that unless they do so his decision in the case shall be recorded with the register of deeds, in lieu of any other deeds.

Turn Down Application For South Side License

The city commissioners believe that there are enough saloons on the South Side at the present time, the application of Edward Olivecki for a license being turned down at the council meeting. Olivecki wanted to open up a saloon at 2412 Q street.

Fashions.
There are fashions in medicine as well as in millinery. The old time cathartic pills with their harsh drastic effects have gone out, and it is high time that they had. In their place we have the mild laxatives and gentle cathartics of which Chamberlain's Tablets is one of the most popular. When the proper dose is taken the effect of these tablets is so agreeable and so natural that you do not realize that it has been produced by a medicine. Chamberlain's Tablets also strengthen the stomach and improve the digestion. Obtainable everywhere.—Advertisement.

ON YOUR FEET ALL DAY? TRY THIS HOME EASER

Thousands of people who are on their feet all day suffer terrible tortures because their feet ache, burn, chafe and grow tender. This is the way a saleswoman in a big department store has solved the problem of keeping her feet always in good condition. She buys a 25-cent package of Wa-Ne-Ta and in the evening on arriving home she removes her shoes and stockings and for a few delightful minutes allows them to soak in a pan of warm water in which two or three Wa-Ne-Ta tablets have been dissolved. Then she puts on fresh hosiery and shoes and her evening is comfortable. All the burning, throbbing, aching sensations are gone out of her feet. If you are troubled again try this. Wa-Ne-Ta added to the bath water is cleansing and purifying, removing impurities and banishing body odors. You can get Wa-Ne-Ta at all drug stores for 25 cents or we will mail you a sample package prepaid to your address if you will send us 10 cents to cover cost of packing and shipping. L. C. TENTH INSTALLMENT.

SYNOPSIS.

Lieutenant Jarvis Hope is detailed by the United States naval board to investigate and report his findings on the invention of Dr. Ralph Burke, which serves to bring the submarine to a state of perfection. The lieutenant arrives in Valdava and is welcomed by the inventor and his daughter, Cleo. On the trial trip of the inventor's boat, a Japanese helper is surprised in the act of examining the mechanism of the ventilating device. Hope reports favorably on the new device, but there are others interested in it. An attempt to burglarize Dr. Burke's laboratory fails, but later Cleo finds him murdered in his bedroom. Cleo sells her father's books to get money; later she finds a note from which she learns that they contain the secret formula. With Hope she races to the auctioneer's store only to find it in flames. Olga Ivanoff and Gerald Morton, two spies in search of the formula, attempt to capture Cleo when she calls at the house of Stephanski, the anarchist. Hope rushes to her aid; Morton shoots at him, but the bullet hits a bomb in the cellar, which explodes. Stephanski and Cleo attend a ball at Mrs. Delmar's, whose nephew has two of the missing books. Mahlin, a spy, attempts to steal the books, but is discovered by Hope; in the excitement that follows the books disappear. Mahlin escapes. Hope and Cleo take a boat for an island out in the bay. The conspirators follow in other boats. Mahlin and the Jap turn out the island light. Morton's boat with the countess strikes a stray mine in the bay. After a violent storm Hope and Cleo arrive on a strange island and discover that the man they hunt is there. But Mahlin and the Japanese also reach the island and put up a fight for the books. They escape from Hope, but return to dynamite the shack. The conspirators fail to harm Hope and Cleo. They manage to reach Sandsberg, where Dr. Owen has one of the books. Each of the others approach the doctor, but he refuses to hear them. He arranges to meet Hope at the hotel with the book. Morton poses as Hope and but for an earthquake would have possessed the volume. Cleo is captured by Morton and taken in his friend's aeroplane to a lonely cabin in the mountains. She finds there the book for which they search. Fortunately she gets a note to Hope, who, with Hook, starts to their rescue. As he crosses the chasm in the swinging basket Mahlin steals up and chops at the cable with an ax.

"I think there was," she said after a moment's reflection. "Yes, I am certain of it. Daddy would sometimes read aloud from it in the evenings. But I haven't the least idea what its title was or who wrote it."

"Then I'm afraid that we still have a long search ahead of us. There are still books for us to trace; the philosophy may be the last one that we find."

"I've more good news for you," said Cleo. "I noticed that this work on metallurgy is in two volumes, and as I felt sure that Mr. Patten must have bought them both, I searched the cabin and discovered the other volume lying under the bunk. There is nothing in it, though; I've gone through it carefully. I had plenty of time for reading here," she added, laughing.

"You poor child," said Hope, kissing her upturned lips, "it makes me shudder to think of the perils through which you have passed."

"It has been worth all the perils, dear," Cleo answered softly, "because they have given me you. Now that we have each other I don't care if we never find the secret of the submarine."

Again there fell a silence in the cabin.

"I'm afraid we must be going, sweetheart," said Hope at last, "or Hook will think that something has happened to us. We've kept the poor old fellow waiting over there for nearly an hour. And he saved my life, too."

"It only makes us square then, lootenant," boomed a familiar voice at the cabin door. "I ain't fergot how you saved me from that shark down in Pago-Pago bay."

"Good gracious, Hook!" exclaimed Hope in surprise, "how did you get across the chasm?"

"Wall, I got sorter tired a waitin' fer you two young folks to finish your reunion, so I took a look around and what should I find, hidden away, nice as you please, in the bushes, but the basket? So I hauls back the block, hooks on the basket, and sails across as easy as though I wuz on one o' them there roller-coasters."

"You saved my life, Hook," said Hope, holding out his hand, which the old seaman grasped in his horny palm. "I shan't forget it. You came just in the nick of time."

"P'raps it wuz just as well that I come along when I did," Hook admitted. "Two more strokes o' that ax and you'd been a goner, lootenant. And it wuz a forchnit thing that before we left the hotel, I slipped my six-shooter in my pocket. I wuz out o' breath from climbin' the mountain and my aim was a leetle unsteady, but I made the feller vamoose just the same."

"Who was he?" asked Hope.

"It wuz Satsuma's side-pardner, Mahlin."

"Mahlin, eh?" repeated Hope. "I thought it might be Morton. The next time I meet either of those gentlemen," he added grimly, "there's going to be a reckoning."

"Waal, Miss Cleo," said Hook, turning to the girl, "it certainly does my heart good to find you safe and sound. We wuz pretty much worried about you fer a time."

"You're a perfect dear, Hook," she said, putting her hands affectionately on the old salt's burly shoulders. "You saved my life when you carried me out of Stephanski's cellar just before the bombs exploded, and now you have saved Mr. Hope's life. If it were not for you neither of us would be here—and that is why I am going to tell you a very great secret. Mr. Hope and I are engaged."

"Whoop! Whoop-ee!" he shouted, grasping their hands. "I wish you both, you, lootenant, and you, Miss Cleo, all the health and happiness and good luck in the world. I'm a good-fer-noth', no-account old sailor, but when your paw died, Miss Cleo, I sez to myself, sez I, 'Dr. Burke took care o' you when you wuz down and out, Hook Barnacle, and now he's gone it's up to you to look after his daughter.' I ain't made a very good gardeen, Miss Cleo, but I done the best I knew how."

Standing on tiptoe, so that her lips were level with Hope's ear, Cleo whispered something to him. Then, with flaming face, she fled from the cabin.

"She says, Hook," said Hope, "that if we ever have a boy his middle name shall be Barnacle."

The book which contained the key to the code being too bulky to be carried easily, Hope contented himself with cutting off that portion of the book which contained the annotation.

"I ought to leave some word for this fellow Patten," he remarked. "It's hardly fair to cut up his book and not let him know who did it."

So he scrawled in pencil on the inside of the front cover:

"Mr. Patten—I have taken the liberty of cutting out a message which I found in this book. If you will communicate with me at the Shaftsbury hotel, Santa Eulalia, I shall be glad to reimburse you.

"JARVIS HOPE."

"Now," he remarked, "we must be starting. We have three or four hours of hard walking ahead of us and we must be out of the mountains before it gets dark."

Though Mahlin's ax-strokes had materially weakened the cable, it was still strong enough to support one person at a time, Cleo, Hook and Hope making the passage across the chasm in the basket in turn. Then, turning their backs on the spot where they had found so much peril and so much of happiness, they set out on the long and arduous trip down the mountains.

Sent to Workhouse for Beating His Better Half

James Furdick, 1007 Atlas street, was sentenced to forty-five days in the workhouse for beating his wife and cutting her clothing. He was recently sentenced to three months in Chicago on a similar charge, but gained his release from jail and followed his wife, Grace, to Omaha.

ALAMITO MILK

The average milkman works from 3 A. M. until late in the evening—he also works Sundays when other people rest and play. The dairyman must pay good wages to get this kind of service and if he maintains the quality of his milk he must get good prices for it. Anyone will recognize this fact and yet average customers think more about the price they pay for milk than about any other article they buy.

The housewife readily pays twenty-five cents to a dollar extra for a good grade of silk, or her husband thinks nothing of treating his friends to "two-for-a-quarter," but when it comes to buying the best milk and paying what it is worth, judged from a cost basis, safety and sanitary conditions of production and food value, objections are immediately made.
